HIGH WIRE RESCUE — When Keith Crawley, a radio technician for the county police radio system at Eagleville, Pa., near Valley Forge, was installing a new antenna atop the 200-foot tower, he apparently became exhausted and was spotted hanging by his safety belt. The Norristown Fire Department put up its aerial ladder and took down Crawley and fellow radio dispatcher Steven Kelley, who had climbed hand over hand up the tower with an extra safety belt. At right, Crawley and Kelley awaited the ladder. Bottom, Crawley mops his brow as he is helped down by Fireman Joseph Garner Jr.

South Vietnam clings to earlier agreement

Saigon balks at new truce

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government, apparently trying to forestall any concessions by Henry A. Kissinger to the Communists, announced today it would not sign any new truce agreement worked out in Paris.

The announcement suggested that Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho may be working on additional amendments to the original Vietnam cease-fire, signed in Paris Jan. 27.

Kissinger announced in the French capital that he put off a scheduled morning meeting with Tho until this afternoon but said, "There was no particular reason. We just needed more time to prepare something."

He did not indicate what was being prepared, but it was presumed to be a supplementary document to tighten the Vietnam cease-fire.

Kissinger and Tho are believed to be working on ways to implement the original agreement rather than renegotiate it. The Saigon government reportedly has agreed in principle on 11 points under consideration but has offered some counterproposals on how to put them into effect.

The announcement was marked by a flurry of diplomatic activity in Saigon. Acting U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse met twice with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam. After the second meeting, the two went to confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu met with his National Security Council earlier in the day.

At the daily afternoon news briefing for newsmen, the Saigon spokesman, Bui Bao Truc, read the following prepared statement:

"During the past few days, there has been some speculation among the local press as well as the foreign press in Saigon that the Republic of Vietnam is going to sign sometime this week a new agreement in Paris.

"I would like to take this opportunity to say that these were purely speculations without any grain of truth. I would like to remind you that it was the truce violations committed by North Vietnam that resulted in the meeting in Paris between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho.

"The meeting in Paris is aimed at finding a way to implement the original Paris agreement, but not to sign another agreement only to be violated again by the Communists. We have always respected the Paris agreement that we signed. Our allies have observed the Paris agreement, and it has been always the Communists who have violated it. So it is illogical to go all over again what we have discussed, what we have agreed on, what we have signed in January 1973."

Kansas City police chief to head FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley is his choice for FBI director, selected from 27 top candidates.

Posing for photographs in his Oval Office with Kelley, a former FBI agent, and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, Nixon said that in searching for a permanent replacement for the late J. Edgar Hoover, "we finally got down to 27 names."

After Richardson interjected that there had been a "very exhaustive search" for a new FBI chief, Nixon said of Kelley, "he was first on the list."

While permitting the silverhaired Kelley to appear briefly before newsmen at the White House, Nixon said his nominee would not be able to respond to questions because he faces Senate confirmation hearings.

Kelley, who served 21 years with the FBI before taking over as police chief in 1961, would become the second permanent director in the investigative agency's history.

J. Edgar Hoover died 13 months ago after running the FBI for 47 years.

Kelley, a 61-year-old attorney with a keen interest in computerized law enforcement, has spent three days consulting with administration aides here. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and a White House liaison officer were introducing him to congressional leaders Wednesday.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to schedule confirmation hearings soon.

Kelley was in charge of the Memphis FBI office when he took over his hometown Kansas City police force after a shakeup in which the previous chief and other officers were indicted for corruption.

Robert F. Kennedy, then the attorney general, was one of those who recommended Kelley to the city's police board.

Among the programs Kelley is credited with introducing are Sky Alert, a 24-hour-a-day helicopter patrol; Metro Squad, a joint city-suburban investigation team, Operation Barrier, designed to prevent criminal suspects from escaping across the Missouri-Kansas border, and the use of computers to speed police response.

Watergate panel hears more from campaign officer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified today he had feared administration retribution for telling the truth about the Watergate wiretapping, but was assured it wouldn't happen.

And he said he threw up his hands when the man he accused of asking him to lie, former campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder, was given a $36,000-a-year government job.

Sloan testified at the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he visited White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman last January after testifying as a government witness at the trial of the Watergate burglars.

He said Haldeman assured him the administration wouldn't stand in the way of his finding a private job, but that no one regarded as a "Watergate figure" would be given a high government job until the case was cleared up.

Sloan said he felt very good about the meeting, but a few days later read that Magruder had been appointed to a policy post in the Commerce Department. "At that time I just threw up my hands," Sloan said.

Sloan said he told Haldeman: "I want you to know that I feel that I did not leave the team. As far as I'm concerned, the team left me."

Sloan also told the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he does not believe Maurice H. Stans, the Nixon campaign finance chairman, was involved in any illegal activities. Stans has been indicted by a federal grand jury in New York, and has pleaded innocent to conspiracy charges in a fund-raising case.

"I did not and do not believe that Secretary Stans was in any way involved in the criminal activities," Sloan said in discussing the Watergate case. "I thought he had been left holding the bag..."

Sloan said he sought the White House meeting with Haldeman after the Watergate trial last January because he was seeking private employment. He said there seemed to be a lull in the case, that it seemed Watergate "had been gotten away with, that it had stopped with the seven men" who were convicted or pleaded guilty at the trial.

Sloan said people then involved in the Nixon political apparatus were opposed to his views and actions in testifying about campaign payments.

He said he therefore wanted to make clear to Haldeman "why I had done what I had done," and wanted also to be sure there would be no effort at retribution.

"The fear of retribution?" Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., asked Sloan.

"Retribution," Sloan replied.

In testimony prepared for delivery later in the day, Herbert L. Porter, who was director of scheduling during the campaign, said he was not involved in Watergate or the cover-up.

"I have been guilty of a deep sense of loyalty to the President of the United States," Porter said. "At no time did I knowlingly engage in any cover-up of the Watergate burglary. I had no prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary."

Nixon seen taking action on inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called a Cabinet meeting today amid new signs he is ready to step up the administration's battle against rising prices.

His economic advisers cut short a trip to Paris Wednesday to hurry back to Washington, apparently to work on a new plan to combat inflation.

Against this backdrop, the Labor Department prepared to release the May report on wholesale prices. It will carry more bad news of inflation. One official called the report horrendous.

Nixon has been considering a whole range of anti-inflation options, including a tightening of wage-price controls and new tax measures.

Melvin R. Laird, named as Nixon's new domestic policy chief Wednesday, disclosed the President's plans to meet today with the Cabinet.

Asked if Nixon would take action soon against inflation, Laird said, "I will be making some recommendations."

Laird also told reporters that "those people that are speculating against the dollar are making a grave error that I think they will live to regret."

Space walk rated 50-50 chance

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Rating their chances of success at 50-50, two Skylab astronauts today began a dramatic space walk to try to unjam a solar wing and restore nearly full power to their orbiting laboratory.

Commander Charles Conrad Jr. exited first through an airlock hatch and positioned himself in foot restraints on the side of the vehicle.

Before stepping out, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin passed out tube sections which Conrad assembled into a makeshift handrail which would ease his way to the stuck panel, 25 feet away.

The third crewman, Paul J. Weitz, remained behind in the station to monitor systems and relay Mission Control radio instructions to the spacewalkers.

The astronauts opened the hatch at 11:23 a.m. EDT just before passing out of radio contact. When an Australia station picked them up 20 minutes later, Conrad was outside. Kerwin followed minutes later.

Success of the 270-mile-high space stroll would provide the space station with additional badly needed electrical power and enable Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz to complete a full experiment load during the remaining 14 days of their four-week mission.

Conrad and Kerwin plan to slip outside the station hatch, attached to 60-foot lifelines that feed oxygen and air to their bulky spacesuits.

They plan to extend a 25-foot makeshift handrail, clamping it to the solar wing. Then Conrad is to crawl hand-over-hand and attempt to pry or cut loose an inch-wide aluminum strip that holds the wing firmly against the workshop.

If successful, the commander is to crouch under a rope that has been pulled taut over the same route as the handrail. With the rope on his shoulder, he is to stand up, hopefully raising the 30-foot solar wing beam in a scissors-like motion.

That would free solar cell panels to convert the sun's rays to energy to charge electrical batteries in the station.

They would provide more than 3,000 watts of power, nearly doubling the amount now available in the space station.

Skylab has been short of electricity since a launching mishap May 14 ripped away a protective shield, with a strip of it jamming the solar wing.

"I'm not convinced it's all going to work," said Conrad, who will have the most difficult role.

Rhodes set to file for governor's race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former Ohio Gov. James Rhodes reportedly is set to file petitions seeking a third term.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said Rhodes is prepared to file today.

The Plain Dealer said Rhodes will file the same petitions he tried to file in January. Those petitions were rejected by Secretary of State Ted Brown, who ruled that the Ohio Constitution prohibits a third gubernatorial term.

House votes minimum wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to boost the $1.60 minimum wage to $2 this year and $2.20 in 1974 and to bring government workers and household domestics under the law.

The 287-130 vote that sent the bill to the Senate Wednesday reversed a bitter defeat suffered last year by the House leadership, which has been trying since 1970 to increase the minimum wage.

The votes of newly elected members and rural Democrats who want support later in the session for a farm bill turned the tide in favor of the legislation.

The key vote came on a substitute bill backed by Republicans and Southern Democrats which would have stretched out the proposed increase another year, eliminated the new coverage and set a reduced rate for teen-agers.

The substitute bill was defeated 218 to 199 and its major provisions, offered separately as amendments to the Democratic bill sponsored by Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., were turned back by similar margins.

The Dent bill would raise wage rates for three groups: those covered by the minimum wage before the law was last amended in 1966, those covered by the 1966 amendments, and farm workers.

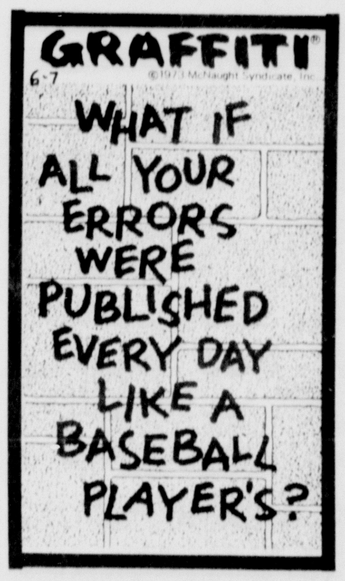

For the first group, the rate would go to $2 upon enactment of the bill and to $2.20 on July, 1974. For the second group it would go to $1.80 this year, $2 next year and $2.20 in 1975.

The 3.3 million state and local government employes, 1.7 million federal workers and 1 million household domestic would get the same rates as the second group.

Farm workers, who now get a minimum of $1.30 an hour, would go to $1.60 this year and then get three annual 20-cent increases, reaching $2.20 in 1976.

The sharpest fight came over the proposal in the coalition bill to permit hiring of teen-age workers at 80 per cent of the minimum during their first six months on the job.

Its proponents said the provision was necessary to overcome high unemployment rates among youths but it was attacked as a device to permit substandard wages. An attempt to add it to the Dent bill was defeated 215 to 199.

96-unit apartment complex announced

A 96-unit apartment complex is being planned for the eastern section of Washington C. H., according to plans announced Wednesday night at a meeting of the Washington Planning Commission.

The complex, consisting of eight 12-unit apartment, is being proposed by American Interstate Corp. of Lebanon.

The apartments are to be located on an 8.4-acre tract at the rear of Washington Senior High School, between a ditch and Washington Square Shopping Center. Entrance to the area will be from Elm Street.

The presentation to the planners was made by W. Blaine Amburgy, corporation president, and Ralph Hughes.

The plans were accepted by the commission, and will be forwarded to City Council for review and approval.

In other action, the commission recommended to City Council that the new subdivision regulations prepared by the Planning Commission with assistance of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development be accepted. The recommendation was made following a public hearing on the regulations. No opposition was entered at the hearing.

The regulations prescribe the arrangement of streets and layout of lots, provide for open spaces, utilities and recreation areas; access to service and emergency vehicles and provide for water, drainage, sewer and other sanitary facilities.

Wholesale prices soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wholesale price index, a measure of inflation in the economy, took another enormous jump in May, rising 2.1 per cent over April, the Labor Department reported today.

The index showed wholesale prices increasing at an annual rate of 25.2 per cent.

The biggest increases were in farm products which were up 6.1 per cent over April. The general increase in farm prices followed a decline of .2 per cent in April.

The report was more bad economic news for the Nixon administration since it showed prices were not making the mid-year decline that economists had predicted.

Fair weather brings relief from storms

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio weathermen heaved a sigh of relief today and predicted generally fair weather, ending a full month of storms and tornadoes which have swept the state.

May blew into Ohio like a lion, and the National Weather Service in Cleveland estimates that up to 80 tornadoes were reported between May 8 and Wednesday night.

Not all of those sightings were tornadoes. The weather service believes the majority may have been dangling rainstorms or strange cloud formations reported as tornadoes by nervous Ohioans.

The two tornadoes that were reported May 8 touched down briefly near Columbus and on the outskirts of Cleveland with only minor damage, but they were just a taste of what would come.

Two days later, a twister formed in the late afternoon skies near Fosteria, and the first of what would be many funnels reached toward the ground.

Minutes later and 90 miles to the east, the tornado finished its skipping, destructive run with four dead and millions of dollars in property damage. Another person would die days later of injuries suffered when the tornado smashed his home.

Hardest hit was Willard, a small town in Huron County, where the tornado literally leveled three trailer parks, took three lives immediately and caused more than $5 million damage.

The weather service says now it was all one storm, although more than one funnel touched down during the 90 miles. There are indications, too, that more than one funnel attacked Willard.

Since then, Ohio storms have never looked quite the same.

"We don't really know how many of the sightings were really tornadoes," said Bob Hamilton, assistant to the meteorologist-in-charge at the Cleveland office of the National Weather Service.

"We suspect that many were not, because not many have touched down—and it would be unusual for that many to be sighted and so few touch down," he said.

"It's also very difficult to decipher a true funnel cloud," he said.

But the weather service plays a ticklish guessing game when it hears of sightings, he said. If radar confirms a heavy storm in the area—especially if radar receives the tornado-likely "hook echo"—the weather service issues a warning.

The 1973 pageant to select next year's titleholder will be held in Memphis in November.

House panel delays vote on 18-year-old rights bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today postponed a vote on the so-called age of majority bill after new questions were raised about wills, residencies, and insurance policies.

Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said the committee will vote next Thursday after it receives more research information from the Legislative Service Commission, factfinding arm of the General Assembly.

Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, testified in "basic support" of the Senate-passed bill but said he felt he should point out questions it leaves unanswered.

The committee had planned to vote today on the measure which became more controversial last week after an amendment was inserted to allow newly-enfranchised voters to buy and drink high-powered beer and hard liquor.

Kurfess said that under the measure, 18-year-olds would be able to inherit estimates and life insurance benefits unless a will stipulated that the heir must be a certain age.

He also raised a question about non-resident tuition at the state universities, and noted that as a legal adult, students no longer would be classified according to the place of residency of their parents. "There would be no uuch thing as a non-resident," Kurfess said.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, is the main sponsor of the bill which died last year in the House as a result of the provision to allow 18-year-olds to purchase beer and liquor.

The measure extends virtually all legal eights to young Ohioans between 18 and 21, including the right to sue and be sued, marry without consent, and enter into credit contracts. About two dozen states have enacted similar laws since 18-year-olds were given the right to vote.

Tax matters occupied the Senate and House Wednesday. Each chamber approved proposed constitutional amendments on taxation which would appear on Ohio's November ballot.

The Senate approved a pair of resolutions that would authorize the legislature to enact property tax relief for the state's financially-troubled farmers and for owners of other property in developing suburban areas that is used for recreational purposes.

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, who sponsored both proposals offered a separate amendment for recreational lands after its backers were unable to get it into the farm proposal in the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Both proposals would allow the legislature to authorize taxation of those types of property on the basis of their current use instead of their market value, as now required. Mussey explained that owners of land in growing suburbs must pay higher taxes as a result of nearby shopping centers, housing developments, and industrial sites.

The recreation lands proposal, approved 27-5, now goes to the House. The farm measure, which received a 28-4 tally, must return to the lower chamber for consideration of minor Senate changes.

Those voting against the recreation measure, which Mussey said would help Ohio retain its open spaces, were Sens. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan; William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati; Max H. Dennis , R-10 Wilmington; M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, and Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake.

Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, and Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, joined Bowen and Jackson in opposing the farm proposal.

Calabrese dissented after the Senate refused to go along with an amendment which would have combined the two into a single ballot proposition. He said the "combined forces" of the "corn-stalk brigade" with areas such as his own big city "silk stocking" district would assure winning the favor of Ohio voters.

William Brown, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Mental Health and Retardation, the Environmental Protection Agency, and possibly others.

Kissinger-Tho meeting delayed

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger has put off a scheduled morning meeting with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho until this afternoon.

Asked why the second meeting in the current series was delayed, Kissinger said: "There was no particular reason. We just needed more time to prepare something."

Kissinger did not indicate what was being prepared, but it was presumed to be a supplementary document to tighten the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

Kissinger negotiated the new agreement in a week of secret talks last month and resumed the talks Wednesday.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government announced it would not sign an new truce agreement worked out in Paris. It apparently was trying to forestall any concessions to the Communists by Kissinger.

At the end of Wednesday's 5½-hour meeting, both the U.S. and Hanoi delegations announced they would meet again this morning. No details of the discussions were disclosed, but Hanoi's deputy foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, said they went through all the points of the truce agreement, which has remained partly inoperative since it was signed.

The change in the meeting schedule apparently forced Kissinger also to postpone a meeting with French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert, which was to have taken place this afternoon.

Kissinger said he now expects to see Jobert Friday morning, but French officials declined to give any information about the meeting.

When he flew into Paris Tuesday, Kissinger said he would confer with Jobert to "review measures to implement the procedures and purposes" agreed to at the Reykjavik, Iceland, summit between President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou.

Kissinger said he would confer with Jobert in the same "spirit of friendship and shared objectives" that characterized the Reykjavik summit.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Improving weather moved into Ohio Wednesday night with mostly sunny to partly cloudy conditions expected to prevail over the state Thursday.

There was some dense fog in some sections of Ohio around sunrise, but most burned off quickly after dawn.

No precipitation is expected in the state Thursday, the National Weather Service said.

Temperature readings Thursday morning were mainly in the 50s and are expected to range from the upper 60s and lower 70s during the day, in the vicinity of the cooling waters of Lake Erie, to the upper 70s and lower 80s elsewhere in the state.

Some rainshowers may move into the northern counties late Friday and over most of the remainder of the state on Saturday, with a continued warming trend towards the weekend.

A chance of showers, mainly on Saturday. Highs in the mid and upper 80s and lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Police probe death of Getty's son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they are trying to learn the circumstances surrounding the death of oil executive George Franklin Getty II, eldest son of billionaire J. Paul Getty.

Police said, however, there was no immediate evidence to indicate foul play in the death of the 48-year-old executive vice president of Getty Oil Co.

Getty, chief operations officer of the firm, was admitted to Queen of Angels Hospital Wednesday morning suffering from a chest injury. He died Wednesday afternoon.

A spokesman for Getty Oil said Getty died of a cerebral hemorrhage, but police investigators said they were awaiting results of an autopsy planned today before determining the cause of death.

Police Lt. Charles Kline said Getty was admitted to the hospital by his physician, Dr. Kendrick Smith, under the name of George S. Davis. Smith told officers the alias was used to avoid publicity.

Kline said Getty apparently suffered the injury at his suburban Bel Air home Tuesday night but refused to say what caused the injury.

The Los Angeles Times said the wound may have been caused by a knife.

"I do not even know if the injury had anything to do with it," Kline said. "We just do not know.

Stocks show healthy gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were considerably higher today, pushed by anticipation of strong new anti-inflationary measures.

But trading was relatively light, indicating a wait-and-see attitude among many investors, analysts said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 9.18 at 907.36. It had been up over 10. The Dow closed off more than 2 points Wednesday, ending a technical rally that had begun Tuesday but found little positive news to sustain itself.

Advancing Big Board issues had an 8 to 3 lead over decliners today.

President Nixon called a Cabinet meeting today amid signs he is planning to strengthen anti-inflationary controls. But on the negative side, the wholesale price index in May soared to a seasonally adjusted 24 per cent. More banks today announced a hike in their prime rates to 7½ per cent.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .06 at 55.57. Syntex was the Amex volume leader, up 2⅜ at 74⅛.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,500 common shares was up 0.66 at 55.57.

Winnebago was the volume leader on the Big Board in heavy block trading down ⅞ at 5¼.

Mob ran Ohio racetracks, Dayton Daily News says

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Daily News, in another of a 10-part series on Emprise, the sports concession holding company, today claimed Cleveland crime syndicate money controlled both River Downs and Thistledown race tracks from about 1936 through the 1940s.

"Louis M. Jacobs and his Emprise-Sportservice concession conglomerate grew and expanded in Ohio race tracks hand-in-hand with organized crime," the newspaper said.

During the time gangster money reportedly controlled two major Ohio race tracks, the newspaper continued, "Emprise-Sportservice was a stockholder in both tracks, a moneylender to crime syndicate figures and a participant in underthe-table transactions to conceal the true ownership of the tracks."

The story was the fifth of the copyrighted series by reporters Gene Goltz and Jay Smith, who researched for 10 months.

The story today concentrated on River Downs track at Cincinnati, which the newspaper said was opened July , 1925, by members of the New York mobs.

"There was an unbroken string of questionable ownerships of River Downs from the year it was formed until (A.J.) Andreoli (Akron real estate developer) bought it in 1965," the newspaper said, "a full 30 years in which hidden forces prevailed and naither the public nor the State Racing Commission knewly exactly who owned the track.

"The only other constant factor in this 30-year history was the presence of Emprise-Sportservice, or its predecessor companies and their owners as concessionaire and moneylender."

The paper traced various shifts in ownership from the original owner, William Vincent (Big Bill) Dwyer of New York, through Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer to what the newspaper called the leaders of the Cleveland syndicate, Moe Dalitz, Louis Rothkopf, Morris Kleinman and Sam Tucker.

That was in 1936 and the newspaper commented: "It may have been only coincidence, but the fact is that the two Emprise-Sportservice subsidiaries that had the concessions and loaned millions of dollars to the state's two major race tracks, River Downs and Thistledown, were formed in the same year (1936) that the Cleveland syndicate took over both tracks."

Ralston sues Nabisco for $5.45 million

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ralston Purina Co. has filed a $5.45 million suit against Nabisco, Inc., charging that the firm reneged on an agreement to buy the Ralston plant here.

The suit was filed in St. Louis Circuit Court. In the suit, Ralston contends that Nabisco entered into the agreement to buy the plant after Ralston announced it was dissolving its Checkerboard Food Division here.

The $8.4 million deal was terminated last November. The plant was later sold to Banquet Foods Corp. for about $4 million. Ralston is seeking the difference in the two prices plus maintenance costs.

The city of Wellston made improvements costing more than $1.5 million to its water and sewage facilities to provide services for the new plant.

This included a 325-acre lake to provide a supplemental water supply. The lake, including road relocations, cost more than $800,000. A large part of those funds were provided by the state.

When the plant was dedicated in 1968, it was the largest turkey processing plant in the world. But the demand for turkeys never reached the volume which Purina officials had expected.

Purina attempted to convert the plant to other frozen food products but eventually closed it down. It was idle for a year or more before negotiations got under way for its sale.

High court voids flag case verdict

COLUMBUS, Oho (AP)—An Ohio University youth who sewed an American flag to the seat of his pants did not deface it under Ohio law, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous decision Wednesday reversed lower courts which had imposed a $200 fine and at one point sentenced Gary D. Kasnett, now 21, to a nine-month jail sentence.

Antioch students ponder long-range plan of action

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Students and faculty at Antioch College met Wednesday to formulate long-term plans for accomplishing their demands for guaranteed financial aid and reinstatement of expelled students and fired faculty.

After a seven-week strike by students failed to get the administration to accept the demands students have decided to consider a tuition strike this summer to push for their five-year guarantee. They have asked the administration to allow peers to judge the students and faculty removed because of alleged strike activity when their appeal hearings come up.

About 150 students and faculty members rallied Wednesday in support of the 20 expelled students and seven fired faculty members. The meeting was low in key, mild in rhetoric and carried no hint that the students may be considering any new offensive.

At an evening meeting about 50 students decided to continue the dispute with the college by encouraging students coming on campus for the summer term to withhold tuition and to continue an information campaign about what the strikers' objectives are.

Students closed the school for almost 50 days until a court injunction last week reopened it. Classes resumed Monday.

Townspeople are carefully watching developments on campus.

The weekly Yellow Springs News, which serves 5,000 residents, wrote in an editorial "Antioch College cannot function with all its present student body, faculty and administration here. People who won't work with those who are left will have to be kicked out."

The administration and students "must begin to work in harmony," the editorial said.

News editor Eleanor Switzer, who has spent 32 of her 58 years in Yellow Springs, said, "If we have to do without Antioch, it would be a great loss.

"The strike has caused a cleavage. People just don't go on campus anymore. There used to be more town-campus interaction.

"I think it's part of the national picture between the 'haves' and 'havenots.' The minorities (recruited in 1970) brought all their feelings and a cleavage of neglect and how they operated in the ghetto, in an atmosphere of distrust," she said.

"I've seen a change from a small school where the honor system worked, where everybody was good friends and neighbors to a place where there just isn't the spirit of community. There isn't a common goal.

"Antioch still has an interest in the oppressed, poor, social minority groups. There isn't an agreement on methods. There isn't a commitment for non-violence," she said.

Realtors want more power for Real Estate Commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives of Ohio's real estate industry want "more clout" for the Ohio Real Estate Commission (OREC) and better education programs to upgrade their profession and protect the public.

Officials from state and local real estate boards made these recommendations Wednesday before a five-member committee appointed by Gov. John Gilligan to examine real estate licensing practices.

Gov. Gilligan named the panel after disclosures that former Republican Gov. James Rhodes and others were given oral and special tests before receiving real estate licenses. The normal exam, administered by the OREC, is a six-hour written test.

The board members recommended the OREC ban all but the written licensing exam for salesmen and brokers, except in cases of physical disability or emergency.

James Spatz, executive vice president of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, said this would eliminate "frivolous" requests for exceptions and guarantees equal treatment.

He said he did not accuse the OREC of wrongdoing, only "poor judgement."

OREC members testified Tuesday they used "discretionary authority" in administering the oral and written examinations.

Almon Smith of Cleveland and Stanley Dybvig of Dayton told the panel their boards have been unable to self-police members because of the OREC's weakness.

State commission members said Tuesday they have been unable to have licenses suspended or revoked. They contend the ineffectiveness is due to a series of assistant attorneys general acting as their counsels.

Opinion And Comment

No more travel curbs

The idea of restricting American citizens' travel to any country where the United States is engaged in armed conflict is now officially championed by the U.S. Passport Office. Its director, Frances G. Knight, has written a letter to Congress endorsing bills which would empower the President to forbid such travel should he choose to do so.

Mrs. Knight's reasoning in support of her position is of interest. "I do not pretend to be a foreign policy expert," she wrote, "but I also think it is important to have the authority to use a restriction on travel as an instrument of foreign policy."

Whether or not she fancies herself as an expert on foreign policy, Mrs. Knight has given some reason to believe she thinks herself qualified to make judgments in the field. She has been accused of injecting her personal views into the passport routine on occasion with respect to individual applicants.

This illustrates the source of one objection to any new curb on travel. This right of citizenship already is circumscribed in various ways. Individual rights of movement should not be made subject to the whim or political views of anyone, not even of the President.

The recent situation in Vietnam illuminates the matter. Whether or not Americans should have been allowed to go to North Vietnam in wartime is a touchy matter on which there are sharp differences of opinion. All could surely agree, though, that had there been a law on the books authorizing the President to forbid such visits, it probably would have been invoked.

That might have curbed some statements against the war; certainly it would have restricted such statements to a less dramatic forum.

Whether that would have been a good or bad thing - whether it would have brought the war to a speedier end, or perhaps lengthened it because certain disclosures about conditions in Vietnam would not have been made - is a question to be debated.

We prefer the risks of free travel and free speech to the risks of an official clampdown on travel, and consequently on inquiry and free speech.

This preference argues against measures to restrict wartime travel.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Admits guilt on Ellsberg

I am not in the habit of doing public penance, but I confess that I am probably responsible for the infliction of Daniel Ellsberg upon the good people of the United States.

You see, overcome with a historian's vested interest, I persuaded President Lyndon Johnson not to kill the "McNamara History," which later achieved notoriety as The Pentagon Papers. In other words, had I been adequately suspicious, there would have been nothing for Ellsberg to leak.

It all began in Saigon in November, 1967, when I accompanied Vice President Humphrey to the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu. President Johnson had asked me to give him my reading on the situation in Vietnam, so I spent most of my time talking to my own sources (who were not necessarily the same men who drafted the cables to Washington).

One of them mentioned to me that the Department of Defense had a flock of characters in town doing historical research. This was interesting: I filed it away until I returned to Washington.

A LITTLE ADDITIONAL espionage revealed that the historical project was being run directly from the Office of the Secretary of Defense under the overall supervision of Deputy Secretary Paul Nitze. So I called Nitze up and inquired what precisely was going on.

He seemed a bit chagrined that I knew about it, but invited me over to meet the director of the project, Dr. Leslie Gelb. We had a long and pleasant conversation in which he described the enterprise as designed to get the materials on Vietnam together before they vanished — particularly items dealing with command and control.

I thought this was an excellent idea and, indeed, offered to provide Gelb with the material on the Diem coup which I had accumulated in the course of my own research (described here recently) on President Kennedy's role. But first, of course, I had to check with the President and get his approval; the White House in those days was not populated by independent operators.

When I took the information to President Johnson, his initial reaction — richly vindicated by subsequent events — was one of profound suspicion. "What are they doing writing history?" he inquired: "They're supposed to be fighting a war."

By this time, it should be noted, the President was profoundly leery of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, who was to be replaced by Clark Clifford early in 1968. Johnson was convinced — wrongly in my judgment — that McNamara was cabaling with Sen. Robert Kennedy, a conviction that I suspect the latter went out of his way to encourage.

The minute that the news of McNamara's forthcoming resignation came out, for instance, Sen. Kennedy rushed to the Pentagon for a two-or three-hour conference. Of course, they were old friends, but this set President Johnson growling for days.)

AT ANY RATE, the President was unhappy with McNamara's venture into history, and I am sure that had I expressed any doubts about the legitimacy of the operation, he would have picked up the phone and killed it then and there. But I in all innocence weighed in, arguing how useful it would be to have a definitive collation of the relevant documents and citing my own job on the Diem coup as a case in point. He wound up the conversation: "Keep an eye on them."

I subsequently visited Gelb a couple of times and gave him some very hot material on the Diem coup (which, interestingly enough, did not appear in the Pentagon Papers), but the spring and summer of 1968 in Washington gave me little time to "keep an eye on them."

Martin Luther King Jr. was murdered and part of Washington went up in smoke. Robert Kennedy was murdered, and one began to wonder if the United States was becoming a Banana Republic. Meanwhile, over at the Pentagon a group moved in on the McNamara History and converted it into a brief against the government. And that was Ellsberg's launching pad.

I most grievously sinned. May God and the American people have mercy on my soul.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The Bloomingburg PTO would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Donald Woods, president of the Fayette County Bank, Gene Mark of Mark Hybreds, Bill Heinz of Dr. Heinz Company, Inc. and Richard Whiteside, president of the Washington Savings Bank, for their generosity in helping our school buy a piano. Their kindness in buying the side of beef and paying for the tickets used in our project is, to a great extent, responsible for the success of this venture, and surely exemplifies the epitome of local community support.

The children of Fayette County, of course, are the ultimate benefactors of such benevolence. We, as parents, know the education and the enlightenment of our children is "the name of the game". Assistance such as we received in this endeavor is most appreciated.

Thank you for allowing me to say a special thanks to four important members of our Fayette County community.

Morry Gilbert
Chairman of Project,
Bloomingburg PTO

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

To all residents of Fayette County:

If there is one thing that Fayette County has plenty of, it is clubs and organizations. The latest count must be in the hundreds. When you add to these clubs the other activities that are listed for schools and churches, you can understand the difficulty that each club or organization or individual has in finding enough time to schedule activities.

I am sure that you realize that in such a situation it is the group that can exercise the most authority that gets the participation of the individual who has divided loyalties. In such an instance it is easy to see why school and club activities hold an advantage over church activities since they can compel participation in order to fulfill the requirements of membership in such organizations.

The church, founded on the gospel of love, cannot force members to participate, especially when other organizations are vieing for their participation at the same time.

Because of this, the members of the Fayette County Ministerial Association, have requested the schools in this county to refrain from scheduling activities on certain days and certain special dates. However, without the cooperation of the various clubs and organizations, such a request, if honored, would only be partially successful.

Therefore, we are asking all members of clubs and organizations in Fayette County to exercise whatever influence they have in the planning of their respective clubs' activities to see to it that they do not plan activities on the following days and dates:

1. All day on Sundays and particularly on World Communion Sunday (Oct. 7, 1973).
2. Every Wednesday evening and particularly on Ash Wednesday (Feb. 27, 1973). and Thanksgiving Eve (Nov. 21, 1973).

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, June 7, the 158th day of 1973. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, the World War II Battle of Midway ended in a major American victory over the Japanese.

On this date:

In 1654, Louis XIV was crowned king of France at Rheims.

In 1769, Daniel Boone began his exploration of the Kentucky wilderness.

In 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced the first resolution for American independence at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

In 1862, the United States and Britain signed a treaty for suppression of the slave trade.

In 1940, in World War II, organized resistance against German invaders ended in Norway after 62 days of bitter fighting.

Ten years ago: The United Nations announced that a long-delayed peacekeeping operation in the Red Sea country of Yemen would begin immediately.

Five years ago: A Los Angeles County grand jury indicted Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for murder in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Hal Boyle . . . The art of double talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost everyone denies he ever uses double talk, but everyone — without exception — does.

Double talk is merely saying one thing while your mind is thinking the opposite. That enables one to keep order in the world while retaining one's own inner common sense and sanity.

Here are a few common examples of double talk in action. What the person said is in quotes. It is followed in each case by what he actually thought.

"Considering the future value of this property, your offer is an insult." — But if it's in cash, I'll take the insult.

"I've never been out with a bird-watching group before. It's quite interesting." — Imagine, not even one good looking girl in the crowd!

"Yes, I believe I've seen you in the supermarket now and then." — You're the pig who tried to shove ahead of me in the checkout line yesterday.

"Oh, well, there are worse things than turning 40." — Yeah, like turning 80, 90 and 100.

"Yes, there's no doubt that your dieting did you a lot of good." — They could park you in a field now and use you as a scarecrow.

"Just as you say, there are some things even all her money can't buy." — But with all the things she's got, what does she want with the other things anyway?

"Would you really divorce me if you ever caught me cheating on you?" — If I were sure you would, I'd quit being so careful.

"We wouldn't have felt right, Hortense, if we had named the baby after any other aunt than you." — So isn't it about time you made out a new will, Aunty dear?"

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Victim would rather not testify in court

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, while my husband was in the service, a man broke into my apartment and attacked me sexually. He had a knife and I was terrified so I made no effort to stop him.

Now my husband is home. Two weeks ago I received word that they caught the man, and I am subpoenaed to testify. It was dark and the man wore a mask, so I wouldn't recognize him if I saw him. This man assaulted several other women, so I am not the only witness available.

I can't see what possible good my testimony would do. I am a very nervous person and this whole thing has upset me terribly.

My husband knew that a man had broke in, but I didn't tell him any of the details as I didn't want to upset him.

Abby, I don't want my husband in the courtroom, but he insists upon being there. Is there some way I can get out of testifying? It's not just having my husband there, it's having to talk about what happened in front of other people in a courtroom. I'm sorry now I called the police.

I'm 21, and should probably have a move mature attitude, but I can't help how I feel. Please help me.

NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: You must appear in court when subpoenaed or you would be cited for contempt of court. You can, however, ask the prosecutor to ask the judge to clear the court-room while you are testifying. Unless the defendant's attorney objects to this procedure (and he is not likely to object in a sex case) the court will be cleared of everyone except the judge, the lawyers, the witnesses, and the defendant. That should take care of your problem.

DEAR ABBY: When traveling by plane, I invariably get the seat directly in front of a child who repeatedly kicks the seat in front of him. His mother can be sitting right beside him, but she seems unconcerned. Dirty looks don't help.

Should I ask the mother to please tell her child to stop kicking me, or ask the child to please stop it?

IRKED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR IRKED: Ask the stewardress to handle it and you'll have no kick coming.

DEAR ABBY: You told a mother whose daughters needed to wear bras but refused to "drop the whole thing." Well, if they don't wear bras, that's exactly what will happen. The "whole thing" will drop.

For proof, one need only to look at pictures of the women in African tribes who never wore brassieres. The American Medical Society even came out with a statement saying that the ligaments which hold the breasts firm and erect will stretch unless properly supported, and once the breasts sag, the damage is permanent.

I have put that message into verse:

"I think it is scandalous
What things should be so pendulous.
If a woman's a rag, a hank of hair, and a hone
Let the 'rag' be a bra-for better muscle tone."

Dear Mr. Becker: I have a sad story to tell you. I was playing with my spouse in a mixed pair event and got to four hearts. As anyone can plainly see, there was no way in the world for me to go down, since my only losers were a trump, a diamond and a club.

But I did go down, and furthermore I was the only one in the room who failed to make four hearts.

You see, there was this Little Old Lady on my left — the kind you're always writing about in the column — who, by hook or crook, manages to make mincemeat our of the experts. Her opening lead, believe it or not, was the king of clubs!

I won with the ace and led a trump, whereupon the LOL on my left took the ace and returned the jack of clubs. I covered with the queen, which East ruffed, and East returned a spade. There was no way for me to avoid losing a diamond and another club, and I wound up with a cold zero on the hand. hand.

When the session was over and my dear spouse learned that I was the only one in the tournament to miss four hearts, she vowed never to play with me again. I tried to explain there was nothing I could have done under the circumstances, but my wife is by nature a pragmatist and holds me personally responsible for the outcome of the hand. Is there any advice you can give me? Sincerely, Constant Reader.

Dear C.R.: I have no idea what you should do about getting your wife to resume playing with you again, but I would like to suggest that as a matter of self-protection you stop playing bridge against the Little Old Ladies.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS Television network says it has hired two noted educators, Drs. Gordon Berry and Roger Fransecky, as consultants on children's programming.

The duo, described by CBS as specialists in educational planning for children, say they'll advise CBS in all aspects, from concepts to commercial content.

However, their appointment draws only a cool wait-and-see attitude from the highly vocal group called Action for Children's Television (ACT), a Massachusetts-based citizens' organization.

The group recently asked the Federal Communications Commission to ban all commercials from kid shows on television.

"I see it (the Berry-Fransecky appointment) as an interesting sign," said ACT's executive director, Mrs. Evelyn Sarson. That was her only comment.

Fransecky, of the University of Cincinnati, said he felt it wasn't feasible for a commercial network to air children's shows without advertising because of the cost of the shows.

CBS says the average cost of each half-hour animated program—it has nine in its Saturday morning lineup next fall— is $60,000.

Berry, of UCLA, declined to say if he thought commercialless kid shows feasible because "I really do not feel competent at this point to deal with the economic question.

Last season Berry headed a panel of educators that advised on comedian Bill Cosby's "Fat Albert" cartoon series on CBS.

Fransecky said he feels that he and Berry, as CBS consultants, must study the "total package" of children's programming, including "how we cluster commercials, how we plan them, where they fit.

"I think it transcends the issue of 'commercials yes, commercials no,' and it gets at the issue that in one sense is a fact of life of the medium," he said.

Both educators said their work would include conferring with producers and writers of children's programs, looking at their scripts and proposals, and sending critiques and suggestions to CBS.

And, as Fransecky put it, neither of them intends to be the type of consultant "who blows in, blows off and blows out."

Small claims suits cost less in London

LONDON (AP) — A project has been inaugurated for people who cannot afford to take small claims to court. A special court has been established by the Westminster Law Society Committee to deal with complaints from consumers who feel they've had a raw deal.

A spokesman for the committee said more people now will be afforded the opportunity to bring their complaints to court without incurring huge expenses. Only an initial fee of $12 will be required to cover legal costs.

Alpha Theta discusses summer activities

Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met in the home of Mrs. Clyde Cramer for the final business meeting of the year before adjourning for the summer. A jewel pin ceremony for Mrs. Fred Bernier was conducted by Mrs. Glenn Smith and Mrs. John Skinner.

Outgoing president Mrs. Smith presented the president's gavel and the president's gavel guard for her pin to Mrs. Cramer.

Various activities and projects were discussed for the coming year. Mrs. John Gall, social chairman, reported on summer activities that had been planned for the group. Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, ways and means committee chairman, announced that the group will again be taking part in the Farmer's Market to be held during Old Fashioned Bargain Days in August.

Philanthropic chairman Mrs. Roger Thompson reminded the group that the American Red Cross Blood Bank will be held June 29 in First Christian Church. The sorority will be sponsoring the visit this month and will be recruiting donors. Also discussed were plans to sponsor the ESA Million Dollar Bike Ride in August to benefit St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Ron Ratliff. A dessert course was served to Mrs. Ray Loudner, Mrs. Ron Hoxsie, Mrs. John Gall, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Tom Rankin, Mrs. Paul Cox, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. John Bernard, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mrs. Bernier, Mrs. Don Gibbs, Mrs. John Skinner, Mrs. Jack Merriman and Mrs. John Morris.

Wedding plans complete

Miss Karen Brekke, bride-elect of Rodger Lee Whaley, has completed plans for their wedding to be at noon Saturday in St. Sebastian Church in Akron. Miss Brekke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Brekke of Akron. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whaley of 1114 N. North St. are the parents of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Brekke has asked Mrs. Mike Gribler of Westerville to be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be the Misses Karla and Mollie Brekke, sisters of the bride-elect; Miss Pat Campbell of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Eric Hiffrichter of Cleveland.

Joe Keefer of Birmingham, Ala., will serve as best man. The ushers will be Paul Brekke, brother of the bride-elect; Mike Gribler of Westerville; Bart Mahoney of Columbus, and Jeff Fetters of Washington C.H., a cousin of the prospective groom.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception will be held in the University Club at the University of Akron.

The evening preceding the wedding, the parents of Mr. Whaley will entertain the rehearsal dinner at Tangiers Restaurant in Akron.

Lioness Club welcomes new members

Mrs. Carmen Frogale and Mrs. Michael Riggilo were welcomed as new members of the Lioness Club Tuesday evening when the group met at the

MRS. PAUL V. JOHNSON

Country Club. Mrs. James (Rosalyn Marting) Osburn was a guest.

Mrs. Paul V. Johnson, newly-installed president, conducted the meeting. Committee reports were made. Mrs. Warren Craig led the salute to the flag and devotions.

Mrs. Earl Hartley was in charge of the program and presented slides of Sweden and Norway, taken on a recent trip.

The committee for the evening was composed of Mrs. William Allen, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Wiley Witherspoon and Mrs. James McCoy.

Mrs. Stevens is TOPS queen

Mrs. Forrest Stevens was named best loser of the week and "queen" for the week at the TOPS 669 chapter meeting in Eastside School Monday night. Mrs. Beryl Smith called the meeting to order and Mrs. Ronald Burns led members in songs.

Roll call was made by Mrs. Robert Alkire, weight recorder, with 28 present.

Miss Betty McNeill was again the best loser in the officers division. Two new goalies, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Herbert Jones, were announced for being within 10 pounds of reaching their goal.

The recent contest ended and an auction was announced for June 11, using the contest points won to bid.

Mrs. Smith urged all members to attend next weeks with a loss of weight. She closed the meeting with the thought "When you lose-you win with TOPS."

Mrs. Hunter leaves for London, England

Mrs. Mary Jo Hunter, of 315 E. East St. left Wednesday afternoon from Port Columbus for London, England, for a three-week visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter. Mrs. Hunter is the former Ruth Binegar.

While in England, she will also tour other places of interest and spend five days in Paris, France.

Bridal shower is given for Mrs. Clay

A bridal shower was given recently in the home of Mrs. Brad Noble, Nelson Place, honoring Vicki Copeland Clay, a recent bride of Michael Allen Clay. Assisting Mrs. Noble was Mrs. Dan Yahn.

The bride opened many gifts, and prizes were won by Mrs. William Copeland, Mrs. Wilma McBrayer and Miss Sherry Mustain, who in turn presented them to the honor guest.

Wedding cake, mints, nuts and punch were served to the guests. The table was decorated with yellow streamers and a floral arrangement in a casserole, which was presented to the guest of honor.

Invited were Mrs. William Copeland and Mrs. Dixie Clay, mothers of the newlyweds; Mrs. Mildred Copeland; Mrs. Helen Yahn; Mrs. Irene Clay; Mrs. Oatis Chaney; Mrs. Bob Kelley; Mrs. Jay Smith; Mrs. Jeff Kelley; Mrs. Phyllis Mustain; Miss Mustain; Mrs. Betty Chaney; Mrs. Tom Massie; Mrs. Hubert East; Mrs. Wayne Johnson; Mrs. Kenneth Chaney; Mrs. Louise Penwell; Joni Copeland; Roxie Clay; Sherry Penwell; Mrs. Bob Moore; Mrs. Gwen Clay; Mrs. Peggy Self; Mrs. Betty Clay; Penny Curry; Mrs. Diana Kitchen; Mrs. Shirley Clay; Mrs. Donnabell Cormier; Mrs. Kent Self; Mrs. Marty Self; Mrs. Wilma McBrayer; Denise McBrayer and the hostesses.

Brigitte Bardot retires from films

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot, the onetime sex kitten of the screen, has announced her retirement from films, saying: "I have had enough."

The 38-year-old Miss Bardot told an interviewer Wednesday that her only plans for the future are to "start to live."

Couple wed in garden ceremony

Miss Anita Kay Stoll and Mr. W.B. Clapham Jr. exchanged wedding vows at 5 p.m. Saturday at Governor's Lodge near Waverly. The outdoor wedding was accented by baskets of multi-colored spring flowers carried by the bride and her attendants.

In keeping with the simplicity of the setting, the bride chose a dress of cream colored linen trimmed with tatting.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Waid C. Radford of Beaver. The vows which the couple exchanged included readings from Kahil Gibran and Shakespeare as well as writings of their own.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Stoll of Piketon. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse White of New Holland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Clapham Sr. of Yarmouth Port, Mass.

The attendants included Mrs. James A. VanDyke of Akron and Mrs. Daniel W. Gayhart of Cincinnati, sister of the bride. The best man was Dr. Robert Howes of Norman, Okla.

For the informal garden wedding, the bride's mother wore a floor length Hawaiian print dress. The mother of the groom wore a floor length dress of powder blue and white chiffon. Both mothers wore corsages of white phalaenopsis orchids.

The bride graduated from Wilmington College, Indiana University, and Case Western Reserve University. She is at present an associate prefessor of romance languages at Cleveland State University.

The groom is a graduate of Amherst College and the University of Chicago. He is an assistant professor of geology at Case Western Reserve University.

They are making their home at Cleveland Heights.

The reception following the wedding was held on the patio.

Out of town guests were from: Oklahoma, South Carolina, Massachusetts, Cleveland, Akron, New Holland, Washington C.H., Toledo, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Beta Omega has meeting

The Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Everhart Monday night. The meeting was preceded by a jewel pinning ceremony. Mrs. Dennis Hagler and Mrs. Loretta George conducted the ceremony and presented the jewel pin to Mrs. Wayne Clark. Mrs. Hagler then presented the president's gavel to Mrs. George who conducted the business meeting.

Newly-elected officers gave their reports for the coming year. The chapter decided to collect toys for the needy for Christmas, maintain their standard philanthropic projects, have a Halloween dance, and participate in a sandwich concession at Old Fashioned Bargain Days in August.

For a summer project, the chapter will consider sponsoring the Blood Bank for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Clark was elected treasurer for the year. The next meeting is planned for Aug. 27, with the place to be announced.

Present were Mrs. Doug Dye, Mrs. Everhart, Mrs. George, Mrs. Hagler, Mrs. Harry Haines, Mrs. Ralph Leeds, Mrs. Garry McMurray, Mrs. Gilbert Whiteside and Mrs. Clark.

BPW committee organizes

The bulletin committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club held an organizational meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Wilbert Hall. Mrs. Richard Barger was appointed secretary.

Those present were Mrs. Mildred Henkleman; Mrs. Hugh Morris, co-chairman; Mrs. Phyllis Denen; Mrs. Fred Shoop; Mrs. Glenn Merritt; Mrs. Russell Oberschlake; Mrs. Barger, and Mrs. Donald Hanes, president; and Mrs. Chester Dean, public relations.

Refreshments were served.

If you are making rice salad, cook the rice until very soft. This way the rice will not harden when the salad is chilled.

Retired librarian is honored

Mrs. Paul (Gladys) Strevey, former director of the Carnegie Public Library who retired April 1, was honored by her colleagues at the June meeting of Southwestern Ohio Rural Libraries (SWORL) held in Hillsboro on Friday.

Directors and staff members from libraries in the seven-county area encompassed by SWORL took part in the program which was arranged by Mary Current, librarian at the Mary L. Cook Library in Waynesville.

In a clever "This Is Your Life" format, Mrs. Strevey was showered with a series of unusual "Gifts" designed to help her in the pursuit of her gardening hobby. She was then presented with an antique rose plate commemorating the beautiful roses she grows in her garden at 524 Rawlings St.

Those present from the Carnegie Library included Kristine Amsbary, librarian, and staff members Jeanette Coffey and Martha Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Strevey were also recent guests of honor at a dinner held at the Terrace Lounge and attended by library staff members and their husbands. An oil painting by Leesburg artist Evelyn Pierson was presented to Mrs. Strevey from staff members and the Library Board of Trustees in appreciation for her 13 years of service.

Mansion decorated to benefit Boys' Club

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A mansion is likely to be nothing more than a building with more rooms than the ordinary house, in spite of awe stirred by the word.

It's how it is decorated that counts, as observed in viewing a decorator show house in Manhattan, the 50-or-so-room Park Avenue mansion of the late Gerrish Milliken. The house is open to the public for the benefit of the Kips Bay Boys' Club.

Nineteen interior designers invited to participate in decorating the rooms of the show house were not restricted to a theme. They went all-out in their ideas for graphics, fabric, paint, even painting interesting patterns on the floors and ceilings.

Truckloads of furniture were moved in, much of it slipcovered and upholstered to carry out the decorating scheme of the rooms. Many things were for sale.

At the finish line, the ladies' committee was in a state of exhilaration and exhaustion as their five months of work neared a fruitful end. "I don't think I've worked so hard in my life," said Mrs. Charles Hollerith Jr., head of the ladies' committee, as she directed workmen, photographers and delivery men in the last minute arrangements. The committee hopes to raise enough money to build an Olympic-sized swimming pool for the boys' club.

THERE ARE many ideas in the showcase home for the decorator. For example:

. . .Ellen McCluskey used a mirror-like material on the ceiling to make a morning room look far larger. It reflected not only a wrought iron fencing, but the interesting wall treatment — a painted graphic in gray, black, pink and white and a white metal Victorian settee. Real-looking life-size lambs were to sit on, but they were priced in tune with current meat prices — high, but very.

. . . David Barrett did his usual innovative thing, turning a somber, utilitarian city kitchen into a countrified atmosphere with a few sparks of intrigue — color and some homey touches.

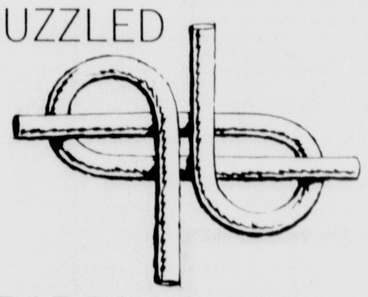

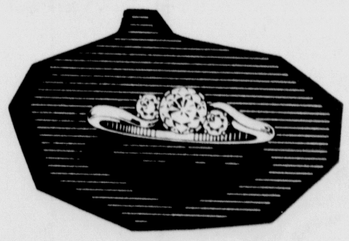

An immense room with its huge black stove, painted vegetables and fruits over the sink, it featured a painted rug in a zig-zag pattern with fringe and tassels on the floor.

A freehand painting of a cat and a broom was near the floor on a wall. The long harvest table and lots of plants and wooden bowls filled with fruit gave the kitchen a lift.

. . . Priscilla Gillon Ulmann may have answered the question of what to do with that big old pool table. Cover it with a see-through plastic to double as a dining table, as she did, and the cover will be removable when you want to play a game. Although the room she decorated had been a game room, addition of the top was a decorating coup. The walls were painted burgundy and racing prints and horse prints were placed around the room. A Tibertan multicolored rug provided the floor accent.

. . . George Clarkson's bright white party dining room had a number of small see-through tables, a jute-type carpet of black and white tweedy squares, and a large, modern sculpture that resembled twisted white inner tubes.

TAILORETTES 4-H

"Tailor Tacks" was the title of Robin Breakall's demonstration when the Tailorettes 4-H Club met in the home of Mrs. Maynard Dowler, adviser. Robin told when and why tailor tacks are to be used in making a garmet.

Dinae Martindale gave a health report entitled "How to keep children out of drugs." She stated various ways to prevent children from getting into harmful things.

Mrs. Dowler checked the progress members made on their projects. Mary Ann and Susan Wilson served refreshments and Tracy Oesterle led recreation.

At the next meeting the club will make further plans for the trip to Kings Island. Lenora Slaven was assigned a sewing demonstration.

JUNIOR LEADERSHIP

The May 23rd meeting of the Junior Leadership Club was called to order by president Denny Newbrey. The pledges were led by Jim Noble. After the minutes were read, a balance of $843.87 was reported in the treasury. Since the people who took the Citizenship Short Course required a large amount of money, suggestions for a money-making project were heard.

The trip participants for 1973 were announced and Mrs. Jack Sommers explained how they were chosen. There will be a Labor Day Retreat on September 22 at Camp Clifton. The meeting was adjourned by Brenda Finley and Patty Pollard.

Following the meeting, Dwight Crum presented a program on venereal disease. After telling about the disease, he showed slides and a movie, and answered questions.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

Slides of the 1972 Ohio 4-H Fashion Board was the program given by Julie Frost for the Jolly Jills club meeting. These were narrated on a casette tapeplayer by Orena Haynes and Norma Deyo. The slides showed different ways to spark-up an outfit through pattern changes, coordination and accessories.

Jill Cory gave a demonstration called "Soaps and Detergents." She explained that there are two basic types of soaps and detergents. They are heavy and light duty. The kind used depends on cleaning factors such as amount of soil, temperature of water, and fabric.

"Modeling with a Purse" was the title of Julie Frost's demonstration in which she showed various ways to carry shoulder bags, clutch purses and regular handbags while modeling.

Counterdose charts for overdoses and poisons were passed out to members when Debbie Tice reported on "Poisons." These charts are to be pasted inside the medicine chests in the members' homes.

Julie Cory told of the importance of calcium for the body in her health report titled "Calcium." This mineral is essential for proper formation of bones and teeth.

Mrs. Meredith asked members to try to have their projects finished by the July 10 project completion meeting and cookout. Home furnishing projects will be judged June 13 and clothing June 18 and 19.

The next meeting will be the Mothers' Tea at Bloomingburg Town Hall. Invitations to this will be received through the mail.

Following adjournment, the social committee consisting of Debbie Krupla, Bridget Meredith and Debbie Tice, served refreshments.

For foreign investors:

American stocks are hot items

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market scene seems to bore Americans almost as much as those summer television reruns, foreign investors are acting as if they've had a preview of things to come.

They are buying, that is, at a time when a large segment of the American public is ignoring the market. And when any investor buys he either thinks or hopes that prices will rise.

The purchases are somewhat anomalous in that foreigners in other ways are proclaiming their distrust of the American economy, or perhaps of American political leadership, and are selling dollars feverishly. But they are buying stocks.

In the first quarter of the year the net total of foreign purchases — sales deducted from purchases — probably exceeded $1 billion.

This figure was more than double the net total of purchases at the like time a year earlier, when the market was rising rather than falling, as it is now.

While the domestic boredom with stocks is blamed on various factors — such as capital gains taxes, low dividend rates, Wall Street disorganization and customer distrust, to name a few — the foreign interest is attributed to value.

Whether these values are real or imagined is an outcome that nobody can forecast, but when you look at some of the facts on which foreign decisions are made you have to agree that they seem sound.

For instance, as Chase Manhattan Bank notes in its biweekly "International Finance," since 1970 the dollar has depreciated by an average of 17 per cent against currencies of Germany, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Canada, Britain and Japan.

That means an added price reduction on American stocks, some of which already are discounted to their lowest prices in years when matched against their ascending earnings. The principal foreign investors, says Chase, have been institutions, "investment trusts and some banks in Japan, and, in the case of Europe, chiefly banks buying for managed accounts."

The American markets provide these institutions with large supplies of stock.

What are they buying? Despite the wide choices available, Chase quotes an international brokerage house specialist as saying they've been concentrating in high-quality growth stocks such as Eastman Kodak, Polaroid, Xerox and IBM.

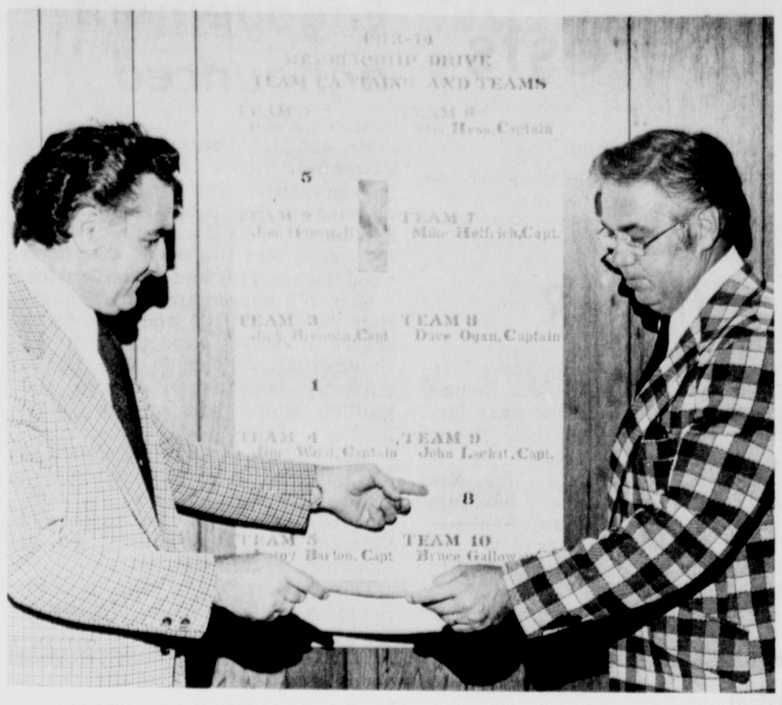

While Chase explains that these are among the American companies with global interests and internationally recognized products, they are also among the preferred choices of many American institutions also.

Will the trend continue? Chase believes it will. It states that a number of positive factors encourages this view, including a lower U.S. inflation rate than in many countries and rising corporate profits.

Ohio prison system to be computerized

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $550,000 grant in federal Omnibus Crime Control funds has been awarded to the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction for a computerized correctional information system.

The system will consist of one central data bank with input terminals at each correctional facility and will provide information to diagnose and prescribe treatment programs for inmates.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE — The annual three-day Chamber of Commerce membership drive was kicked off Wednesday morning. Ten teams are competing to obtain the most memberships. The Past Presidents' Team headed by David Six, right, has issued a challenge to any three other teams. At the first report meeting the Presidents were in second place. The team with John Lachat as captain was in first place. Fred L. Domenico, left, newly elected Chamber president, is a member of Lachat's team. (Staff Photo)

Abortion clinic to open in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Miami, Fla., man plans to open Cincinnati's first abortion clinic later this month.

Operators of such a clinic in nearby Covington, Ky., meanwhile, have appealed a courtordered eviction.

Sean Gunning, 23, said he now operates clinics in Miami and Clearwater, Fla. He plans clinics also in Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala. He expects the new Cincinnati Women's Services clinic to open here July 16 or 23, depending when the building is ready, he said.

Joe Blaine, operator of an abortion clinic in Covington, Ky., called "Choice," has filed an appeal to an eviction notice issued in Kenton County Court last week.

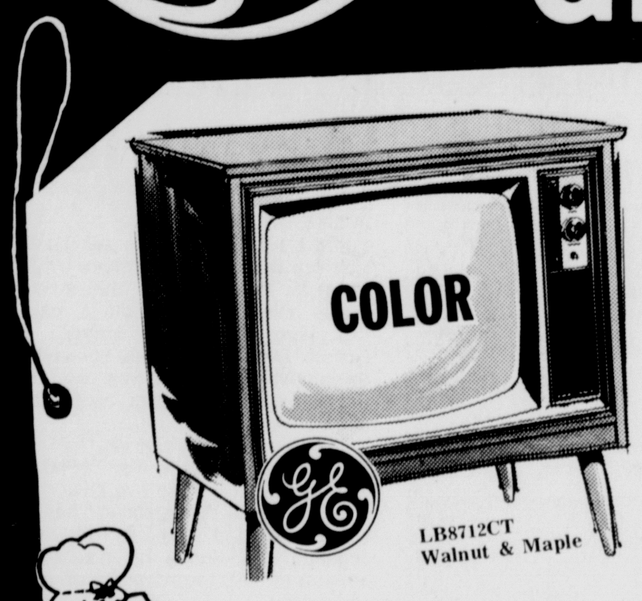

An automatic electric sump pump in a basement will eliminate excess water, but is designed only to prevent flood conditions not to cure the cause of them.

Tuscarawas County site of Ohio's first village

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio attractions prepared by the Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Tuscarawas County is eastern Ohio, rich in Revolutionary War history and tradition, highlights this week's AAA tour.

Zoar Village State Memorial is a center of attraction and the center of what was Zoar Community for 81 years, where citizens worked and Warther once labored, also are special attractions.

The first Ohio village was founded in 1772 and Schoenbrunn Village State Memorial marks the site in New Philadelphia. Hard working Moravian missionaries built 60 cabins and constructed the first church and school house west of the Alleghenies. The village was abandoned in 1777 because of the Revolutionary War.

LOCATED NEARBY is the Trumpet in the Land amphitheatre, home for the historical drama which unfolds the story of Schoenbrunn. The amphitheatre has a seating capacity of 1,650 and was built with state funds.

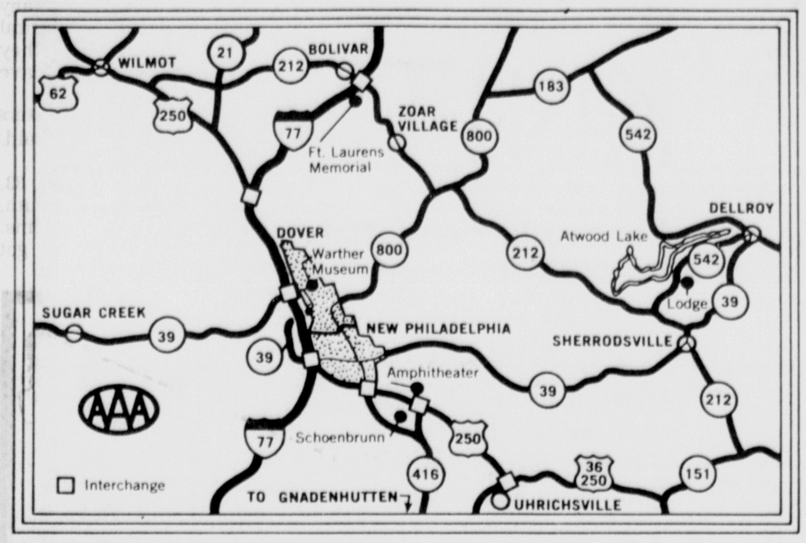

Another tourist attraction, especially for the women, is Rena Poteet's miniature rooms. It's a collection of hand-carved to scale of rooms and furniture. It's located in New Philadelphia and is open May through September with an admission charge.

Atwood Lake Lodge and vacation cabins are located on the 4,365-acre lake east of New Philadelphia on Ohio Rt. 542. Swimming, golf, camping and other recreational activities are available.

Gnadenhutten, south of New Philadelphia, was the scene of the massacre of 96 Christian Indians in 1782. A memorial and museum are located there.

Also located there today is Indian Valley South High School whose basketball team won the Ohio Class A championship in 1972 and was runner up in 1973, its lone defeat in the state finals ending a 51-game winning streak.

AAA suggests this route to the tour area: From Washington C. H. go to Columbus and take the Southern Outerbelt I-270 east to I-70 and continue east on I-70 to I-77 (just beyond Cambridge), then go north on I-77 to New Philadelphia and the touring area.

shared alike under their leader, Joseph Baumler, from 1817 to 1898.

Several points of interest include the restoration of Baumler's palatial home, the community's number one house, a bakery, tin shop, garden house and Bimeler Museum containing historical material of the period.

The community garden, geometrically patterned to symbolize the New Jerusalem, is maintained in almost its original form.

Featured at nearby Dover are the works of master woodcarver Ernest Warther in the museum hearing his name. Working models of locomotives and the Dover steel mill, where

Real estate mortgages show increase in May

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,751,894.20 were recorded in Fayette County during May, an increase over the previous month's figure of $1,578,986.02.

Mortgage releases totaled $1,030,640. April mortgage releases totaled $1,146,728.17.

The new mortgage figure includes $872,094.20 on 57 lots and tracts under five acres and $879,800 on 1,496.87 acres of farm real estate in 12 transactions. The acreage figure also includes 102.50 acres not located in Fayette County.

Released during the month were $374,940 in mortgages on 35 lots and $655,700 in liens on 2,023.71 acres of farm property in 23 transactions, the report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, county recorder, discloses.

A total of 108 deeds were recorded in May, 29 of them changing title to 1,930.09 acres of farm property and 88.0 acres not located in Fayette County. There were seven certificates of transfer for lots and six for rural properties.

OTHER instruments recorded in May were:

Reality returns to lives of ex-POWs

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

American prisoners of war are deep into their special period of adjustment these days: from a world filled with loneliness and dreams to one crowded with decisions and problems.

The excitement and whirlwind of events since their homecoming are fading.

In the weeks after release, most of the 566 POWs plunged into speech-making, answering fan mail, headlining parades, visiting the White House and throwing out baseballs.

At the same time, after years of deprivation, they were showered with all sorts of gifts from cars to junkets to wristwatches.

It was, as one wife put it, a time for doing everything yesterday.

Now reality is closing in.

There are the lingering problems of rebuilding lives with wives and children. There are adjustments to the sometimes drastic changes in American lifestyles. There are decisions about the future.

A survey shows most of the former POWs are adapting to the changes. Some even say it has been easy.

"It's no worse than coming back from a nine-month cruise as far as readjustment," said Navy Cmdr. Richard A. Stratton, 41, of Palo Alto, Calif., a prisoner for six years. The father of three sons added:

"Maybe I'm riding for a fall I don't know. Any problems are just minor. Like I don't like the way one of my sons holds his fork, so we're changing it. Petty stuff like that. My biggest adjustment is to California drivers...they seem as dangerous as the enemy."

Others, such at Lt. Cmdr. Michael Christian and his wife of Virginia Beach, Va., take a different view.

"You can't take a family — the father and mother — and put them into two different worlds for so many years and not have adjustments," said Mrs. Christian, the mother of three, whose husband was listed as missing for three of the six years he was a POW.

"The big adjustment for us was Mike's wanting to go so fast. I can remember saying 'Let's just take it easy and do one thing at a time.' And he replied, 'Don't say that to me, that's what the North Vietnamese said to us.'"

In general, the men say they are in good health. Some have had corrective surgery because of torture or lack of medical attention in prison. Practically all have undergone dental work.

Dr. Richard S. Wilbur, the Pentagon's health chief, said preliminary figures on various forms of disease and injury found by military doctors who examined the POWs in U.S. hospitals showed nearly one-third, mostly pilots, had suffered major fractures.

Wilbur also said more than 53 per cent of the prisoners came back with worms that led to malnutrition and anemia.

He said the men would be advised and watched for five years to try to avoid a repetition of the high violent death rate experienced by some U.S. POWs after World War II and Korea.

Wilbur said the Vietnam prisoners have experienced "a lot of difficulty in moving back into their families." He said the returned prisoner often found that his family had been "getting along pretty well without him."

In his statement Friday, Wilbur specifically cited the possibility of suicide.

On Sunday, Air Force Capt. Edward A. Brudno was found dead in Harrison, N.Y. Police called him a suicide.

Brudno had been among the first group of POWs to return home but never held a press conference.

The majority of men have chosen to remain in the service, at least for the time being. Of 101 POWs interviewed in the last few weeks, eight said they were leaving the military and four were undecided. About 80 per cent of the men expressed interest in pursuing their education.

At least four POWs learned on return that their wives had died during the years. Some found they had lost a mother, father, brother or sister.

For others tragedy awaited.

Lt. Col. Armand J. Myers returned to his wife and 14-yearold son Randy in Dallas, Tex., after more than 6½ years in a prison camp. Less than two months later, his son was killed in a sand dune cave-in.

At his homecoming, Myers had said of his son, "I left a small boy, he was a very sweet and docile boy. And when I came back I looked up to a 6-foot-2 bright, mature young man and from what I've seen so far I'm real proud."

The wife of another officer says her problem is getting her husband to change clothes.

"And he was the kind of man who (before he was taken prisoner) would change shirts every two hours" she said.

"He takes them off at night and carefully folds them up. He hangs his slacks up ever so neatly. But he doesn't want me to take them away to wash. I have to sneak them to the hamper.

"He himself has analyzed this as some sort of psychological reaction, and so is slowly improving" said the woman, who asked to remain anonymous.

Most POWs said they'd had some problem with their children. For some it was long hair; for others it was the kids' not meeting expectations. Most said it was simply a question of getting to know young adults who were children when they left.

"Of course, there have been problems. My children have lived 7 years and 4 months without me. They don't know me. It takes a while to get to know people after a separation like that. And they have to get used to seeing me around, to having someone else in the house," said Cmdr. Theodore F. Kopma of Lemoore Naval Air Station in California.

Perhaps the most publicized problem of the POWs has concerned marriage.

Ninety-three of the POWs interviewed were married when they left for Vietnam. Of these, 14 have been divorced, one is separated and nine said their marriages were in trouble.

The men's views on marriage vary. "We've had no marital problems. We never did before," said Air Force Maj. Arthur Burer of Rockville, Md., a POW for seven years. "I've come back to a woman's who's much more mature. I don't think enough praise has been given to what our wives have done. I think if you had a good marriage to start with, a good woman to start with, then she hung on...."

Navy Capt. William P. Lawrence of Nashville, Tenn., a POW for six years, came home to find his wife had divorced him in 1971 and re-married.

"Of course the divorce was a shock. I guess there were some signs available to me ahead of time but I just couldn't see them. I just didn't believe it could happen."

Others are more philosophical.

One naval officer said that while imprisoned "the realists became more willing to accept a less than faithful wife."

On the other hand, he added, many were surprised to find as many marital problems because the letters they received right up to their release gave no such indication.

"Many women had written letters just to keep the men going," he said.

And the bachelors?

Navy Lt. (j.g.) David R. Wheat, 33, returned to his parents home in Duluth, Minn. He said he's had no problems.

"In fact, after 33 years I finally got my own key to the front door."

Skylab crew kept alert by false alarms

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab astronauts have scrambled at the sound of alarm bells more than once, only to find nothing amiss.

"If the television had been on, you'd have seen us flying around here like cannonballs," commander Charles Conrad Jr. told mission control after one of the alerts.

The false alarm culprit turned out to be the South Atlantic anomaly, a well-known area of trapped radiation that can be mischievous at times.

Every time the orbiting Skylab passes across the Atlantic Ocean east of South America, it spends several minutes in this region of highly charged particles.

It is here that the Van Allen radiation belts which circle the earth dip closer to the surface.

During the first day of observations of the sun, the Skylab crew rushed to their telescopes when they heard a buzzer from the solar flare detector.

Sighting a flare—an intense storm on the sun's surface—is something the astronauts are anxious to do because of its scientific value.

But no flare was in evidence. The buzzer had been set off by the anomaly because the crew had forgotten to turn off the alarm when passing through the zone. The solar flare detector is tuned to pick up X-rays, and "there is not any convenient way to distinguish between X-rays from the sun and those present in the anomaly," said a space agency official.

The mail-order business has annual sales of some $45 billion.

Turnpike agency fights rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Turnpike Commission Chairman James Shocknessy said Tuesday the agency will continue to resist efforts by the Texaco Oil Co. to ration gasoline at turnpike stations until the firm proves there is a fuel crisis.

The commission obtained a temporary restraining order last week forbidding Texaco to impose a limit of 10 gallons per customer at the stations. A hearing on a permanent injunction is scheduled Thursday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

Shocknessy said the public will not accept an industry-imposed "fuel crisis" unless it is backed up by an emergency order from President Nixon.

Are you acquainted with burning rules?

Ohio's open burning regulations are being stressed by city officials and the Fayette County Health Department.

The rules, adopted by the Environmental Protection Agency in August, 1972, have been kept somewhat in the dark until recently when enforcement posters began appearing throughout the state.

The enforcement is being handled by EPA's Division of Surveillance, on a round-the-clock basis.

In addition to air pollution by open burning, the Surveillance Division also is the watchdog on accidental or unauthorized release of contaminants to the land or waters of the state.

ACCORDING to EPA, open burning is the burning of any trash or other refuse outdoors, such as in a dump, pit, barrel or at curbside without benefit of any filtration or cleaning device. This means that for most Ohio citizens the open burning of trash and leaves is illegal.

Open burning is prohibited only in restricted areas where an adequate collection service is available. If collection service is not available, open burning will be allowed until such service is available, or until July 1, 1975, whichever is sooner.

A restricted area is defined as the area within the boundaries of any municipal corporation, plus a zone extending 1,000 feet beyond the boundaries of any municipality having between 1,000 and 10,000 population. For municipalities having more than 10,000 population, the restricted area extends one mile beyond the corporation limit.

THE BURNING of household rubbish such as paper, trash, garbage, oil, rubber, leaves, grass clippings and any material originating from the home or on the property is included in a restricted area.

Outside restricted areas, refuse and agricultural waste may be burned on the premises where it is generated, after it has been stacked and dried, if weather conditions allow dissipation of contaminants and as long as burning does not cause a visibility hazard near roadways, railroad tracks or air fields.

The penalties for violation of the open burning regulations range from $1 to $10,000 which may be imposed at the discretion of the court.

THE REGULATIONS do not prohibit campfires or outdoor barbecuing. The burning of construction wastes are also prohibited, but small open flames for heating tar, welding, acetylene torches and highway safety flares are allowed.

Any concerned citizen may initiate an investigation of a possible violation by contacting the EPA by calling 614-299-6336 and giving the time the violation was observed, location, material released, probably source, volume and duration, present and anticipated movement of contaminants, weather conditions, personnel on the scene, actions initiated and the person to contact on the scene.

Ohio Perspective

Tax refund under $1? Forget it!

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you received a state income tax refund for a few pennies this year, it could be your last.

The Ohio Department of Taxation wants the right to stop mailing refund checks that come to less than a $1. Likewise, the agency wants to be able to tell Ohioans to keep their income tax payments if they are lower than a $1.

Department spokesman Stan Spaulding said the amounts would be either credited to the taxpayer or the state, and be used toward next year's income tax return.

By doing this, he said, the income tax division could reduce paperwork and mailing.

"Under the present state income tax law, we're obligated to refund any amount," he said. "We had some penny refunds and these were the ones people wanted."

Spaulding said, "If we can get a bill introduced, we will do the same as the federal government. If the liability is $1 or less, the state will not have to make refunds and the citizen will not have to pay the state. The amounts would be credited to the next tax year."

He said department officials are examining the possibility of having enabling legislation offered in the Ohio Senate this session. If approved this year, it could be in force when Ohioans file their 1973 returns before April 15, 1974.

Spaulding said the power to forego the refunds of $1 or less was inadvertently left out of the income tax law when it was passed in December, 1971.

"It's one area we would like to straighten out," he said.

The spokesman said. "The biggest complaints we've received this year are that people haven't gotten their refund checks. The refunds are made within 60-90 days after filing, about the same as the federal income tax."

However, Spaulding said, some Ohioans have not received their checks, even though the refunds were mailed. He did not know the reason for the problem.

"We have to trace those returns down and ask the taxpayers to file a second return to get the refund," he said.

It has not been determined how many persons will have to file the second form.

Curious lack of curiosity noted in Watergate case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stain of Watergate has left many a man in various shades of embarrassment, shock or outrage, but few, it seems, got curious.

Time and again, witnesses have acknowledged their access to information of innermost intrigue—only to claim they didn't sneak a peek or ask any questions.

And that lack of curiosity is getting curiouser and curiouser.

The hotseat of the nationally televised Senate hearings was to be occupied today, for example, by Hugh W. Sloan, former treasurer of President Nixon's re-election campaign. Sloan has admitted paying $199,000 to convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy without ever asking what the money was for.

Then there is the case of Sally Harmony, the secretary who worked for Liddy at the campaign headquarters. According to her testimony Tuesday, she kept her nose not only out of her boss' business, but somewhat out of her own as well.

It didn't bother her, she said, that Liddy had told her some of the work was clandestine, because "clandestine does not mean illegal ... and I can keep a secret."

Yet, by her account, she didn't bother to absorb many secrets for the keeping—even though she personally typed transcriptions of phone taps and other intelligence memoranda which went out under code-named headings.

And answers like hers, while emanating from different voices, are becoming an echo. There was Robert Odle, the campaign office manager who says he took the purported "Gemstone" espionage file home for a weekend—but never opened it. There was Gerald Alch, the attorney who relayed a message to client James McCord to expect a phone call "from a friend," but never inquired as to who would make the call.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS COMPACT, economically designed one-bedroom masonry house provides maximum livability and feeling of space. The front porch has a six-foot-wide sliding glass door to a screened porch. The L-shaped kitchen counter is hidden from direct view of the living area and has space at the window for a small breakfast table. Kitchen plumbing is back-to-back to the bedroom and a utility room which is accessible from the carport. The bedroom has a large closet with bifold doors. Plan HA783R contains 616 square feet, plus the porch and carport. Anyone interested in the price of the blueprint may write to architect Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Resilient floor tiles once owed their popularity to the fact that they could be installed by anyone.

Over the years, the increasing availability of better designs, colors and textures has enabled them to win even greater acceptance.

As happens every time a product gains widespread approval, it is sold in so many different kinds and types that the public has a difficult time making proper choices.

Remember, for instance, when you walked into a hardware or paint store and had only to decide whether you wanted flat or glossy paint?

The multiplicity of paints now on the market makes the selective process a bit confusing unless you have a very definite idea of what you want, gleaned from either experience or what you have read or heard.

Here's some information on resilient floor tiles that will give you a running start in making your choice.

The big seller in the tile field is vinyl asbestos, a combination of vinyl resins and asbestos fiber. It is not as expensive as solid vinyl, yet it can be used anywhere in the house on any surface, above or below grade, resists spilled liquids and is easy to maintain.

The cheapest of the resilient tiles, asphalt, gave way in popularity to vinyl asbestos because asphalt is susceptible to grease, oil and other substances with solvent-like the most popular tile, asphalt is still widely used.

A FIRST-TIME shopper for reilient tiles is likely to be surprised by the wide range in prices for what seems to be look-alike tiling. This is especially true in the vinyl tile line, where some kinds are solid and others have only vinyl veneers.

The thickness or gauge of the tile is another factor in the price. Therefore, when you compare two kinds of vinyl tile with far different prices, you are likely to discover that the solid product with a thicker gauge costs more.

This doesn't mean that the veneered tile in a thinner gauge might not serve your purpose; it merely tells you why one is less expensive so that you can make a proper selection.

Among the other kinds of resilient floor tiles are rubber, cork and linoleum. Cork is luxurious and quiet, costs more and usually requires a clear sealer to keep dirt from being ground into it.

Rubber is excellent to walk on, but shows marks from furniture legs more than most others. I have not found it on display in several stores I have been in recently. Linoleum, like vinyl asbestos and vinyl, is easy to maintain.

DIFFERENT TYPES of tile require different types of adhesive. Always make it a point to buy the adhesive in the same store where you buy the tiles.

And always tell the dealer where the flooring will be installed, especially if it is to be on a concrete floor below grade.

If you want to do away with the cementing chores, and can afford to spend a little more, you might give some consideration to the self-stick tiles.

The paper backing is pulled off the tile, which is then pressed onto the floor.

Check plumbing before buying an old house

Before buying an older house, it is wise to check the condition of its plumbing.

Houses built 20, 30, or more years ago often have piping inadequate to handle all the new appliances that people use today. Even if piping is the right size, it may have been encrusted with deposits and scale over the years so that it now has only a fraction of its original capacity.

The American Water Works Association, a nonprofit society organized to provide better water service to the public, says the way to check water flow and pressure is to turn on all the faucets in a bathroom and flush the toilet simultaneously. The flow volume should not be reduced appreciably if the pressure is good.

Here's the Answer

Q. — Our small cellar, with a dirt floor, has recently developed a musty odor. What causes this and how can it be eliminated.

A. — It sounds like mildew, which occurs in damp areas where there is a lack of circulation and no sunlight. Keep the cellar well heated and dry for a couple of days, then sprinkle some chlorinated lime over the dirt and let it stay there a few days.

Sweep up the lime, put down some more of it and take steps to prevent a reappearance of the mildew and odor. Place an exhaust fan in one of the cellar windows.

On dry days, open a window as nearly opposite the fan as possible, then turn on the exhaust for a few hours.

Do this every time there is a dry day. You will always have to fight this problem so long as you leave the floor in its present state.

Q. — Our old roof is on its last legs and we'd like to have a new one put on. We are considering a slate roof. Can it be applied over the old asphalt shingles?

A. — Possibly, but it will take an examination by a professional roofer to determine whether the old framing is strong enough to support the weight of the slate shingles.

Practice caution when remodeling

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Making a choice between remodeling a house and buying a larger one is a prime-time decision, advises one man who says an addition he built five years ago has priced him out of the real estate market in his area.

This is the time of year, he cautions, when enthusiasms are likely to run high and one may be carried away by agreeing to house pluses. You may start out needing an extra bedroom and bath and end up tacking to the plan a built-in swimming pool, work shop, sauna, sewing room, dog kennel.

He was promoted into a photography-projection room by his son, now at college, and he must wait until a "photography nut" wants that kind of house, he says.

He is in the same position as a friend who had built dog kennels. The friend had to wait two years until he found dog people who were willing to pay the price for a house with an $8,000 kennel addition.

IN AGREEING to the projection room he is afraid he permitted himself to be influenced by the thought of making his house look more important than the look alikes in his development row.

But people attracted to his neighborhood simply cannot afford to pay $15,000 more for his house. The extra bedroom and bath would have been saleable, but how many people need a fully equipped photography room?

The remodeling vs. new house decision must be made carefully, agreed two other people who have had similar experiences. An extra bedroom and bath is the limit in many neighborhoods.

But before one decides to remodel rather than to move, family considerations may help influence the decision even though the happiness of the family must be considered in relation to the environment — friends, school, church, club groups. It may even be an out. One man welcomed the opportunity to move his family out of a drug-oriented area.

IF ONE is in a good area and wants to stay, the next step is to consider how much money can safely be put into an additional.

A fair-size extension to a house may not be as costly as one might think if one equates it with current housing prices, but even a fair-sized addition may be too much of a plus for some neighborhoods.

One man offers these suggestions in determining which course would be more worthwhile:

Decide how much space is needed, consult an architect, show his drawing to a builder for an estimate, consult the local bank to see how much the home improvement loan would cost.

Figure the painting and decorating along with all the other costs to get a useful round figure as to how much would be in your house at the end.

Banks can advise whether you are making a good investment in your area by adding a particular addition to a house (or buying or building one.)

Real estate appraisers can give you the fair market price of the house now and then.

NEXT LOOK at some houses before you make the ultimate decision to remodel or move.

The larger house in its better neighborhood should be a good investment. It may be an emotional wrench and a chore for the family to move.

But once accomplished, things soon get back to normal, especially if you have made a step up the ladder to a better house and neighborhood.

The new bigger house should make everyone happy after the initial trauma has passed.

If one is living in a neighborhood with homes in a wide range of prices, one can look at the remodeling project in a different light.

Just about anything you do in the way of improvements will increase the value of your property and be saleable.

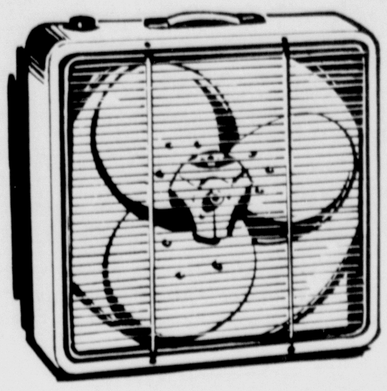

But you must make sure the addition has wide appeal.

Clevelanders worry about wiretapping

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Apparently motivated by the Watergate investigation, more and more Clevelanders reportedly have asked the telephone company to make certain their phones are not tapped.

Officially, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. declines to confirm the report, although phone company officials concede privately that the publicity surrounding the Watergate bugging attempt has brought a sizeable increase in the number of phones checked for bugs.

Fly-rent recommendation denied by AAA executive

Contrary to published reports carried by the Associated Press, datelined from two Ohio cities — Cleveland and Willoughby, the Ohio AAA Association and the American Automobile Association is not recommending that motorists, contemplating trips this summer, fly to their destinations and then lease automobiles, according to Thomas J. Jones, executive vice president of the Ohio AAA Association.

Jones, representing the state association for 54 affiliated Ohio auto clubs and based in Columbus, said:

"While we recognize there are gasoline shortages in sections of the country and stations have closed, neither the American Automobile Association in Washington or the Ohio AAA Association has recommended that motorists fly and then rent cars."

The state association executive explained that Region 5, which includes Ohio, has 44,000 service stations of which 165 have closed and the possibility exists of another 200 closing.

HOWEVER, he added that the AAA is conducting a weekly "Fuel gauge" program in which member auto clubs throughout the country contact the service stations in their area directly and furnish the following information to AAA for a weekly forecast release:

Station, location status as far as operations are concerned (hours of operation, allocation, no fuel, closed) and outlook such as supply cutback and expected supply for the following week.

Both the AAA and the Ohio AAA Association, according to Jones, have recommended the following measures be exercised among its 15 million plus members to help conserve fuel this spring and summer and to continue with their planned auto trips:

Form car pools for office commuting.

Combine short trips. When driving children to school or picking up your spouse after work, take care of shopping errands on the same outing.

If you're considering purchasing a second car, make it smaller. Vehicle weight has a great effect on gasoline consumption.

Keep the car's engine in tune. Special attention should be given to fuel and air filters, plugs and points and, in late model cars, emission control devices.

Don't let the station attendant fill your fuel tank to the neck. Fuel can overflow while the car is in motion or when parked on an incline. Fuel also can expand and overflow in hot weather even if the car is parked on level ground.

Make certain tires are properly inflated. This also saves on tire wear. Add extra pounds of air when traveling with a full load, but do not exceed the maximum pressure listed on tire sidewalls.

DRIVE at moderate speeds whenever possible. Gasoline mileage is greatly affected by speed.

Avoid "jack rabbit" starts. Always accelerate gradually as though you had an egg between your foot and the accelerator.

When entering a freeway, take full advantage of accerleration paths so that you can gradually reach highway speeds, rather than having to "floor board" the accelerator to reach cruising speed.

Avoid accelerating hard when going up a hill; instead, build up adequate speed ahead of time that is within the speed limits.

After starting a cold engine, don't use long warm-up periods; instead, drive slowly for a mile or so before reaching cruising speed.

Don't allow the engine to idle for more than a minute while parked.

THE AUTO CLUB spokesman said motorists planning vacations this summer should combine the applicable guidelines above with these tips:

Cut down on use of the air-conditioner by beginning your travel day earlier in the morning and pulling off the road during the hottest hours.

Try to travel lighter than normally. Excess weight puts additional strain on the engine and results in less miles per gallon of gasoline.

Motorists are also reminded that in addition to reducing fuel consumption, most of the practices suggested by AAA also will help exhaust emissions as well as help conserve the nation's energy resources.

In conclusion Jones said: "AAA is not discouraging travel and is capable of handling all forms of travel. Good vacation planning will stretch your gasoline mileage."

OSU may have to share income from grid game

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Hearings will begin in "a week or two" on legislation that could require Ohio State University to share money it receives from the annual Bengals-Browns exhibition football game played at Columbus.

State Rep. Norman Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati said his bill would require OSU to share at least half its receipts from that game with Cincinnati and Cleveland colleges.

Warning issued against carrying extra gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carrying a can of extra gasoline in the car trunk may help beat the gas shortage, but it could also be fatal, says a federal fire expert.

Richard E. Bland, chairman of the President's Commission on Fire Prevention, said such a practice "would be almost like having a bomb in your trunk waiting for something to ignite it."

Bland said he understood some gasoline companies have recommended carrying the extra gasoline as a means of beating the fuel shortage.

"We categorically oppose this," he said, explaining that fumes from such a container could spread through the car and be ignited by a cigarette. He also said the can could be punctured in an accident "and people could be trapped in an inferno."

Bigger sardine pack forecast this year

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — There may be a bumper crop of sardines in New England waters this year.

The National Marine Fisheries Service says that larval herring spawned in 1971 were the most numerous in eight years and that if all continues to go well with them there should be a strong rise in the sardine pack. The five-year average is 27 million pounds, but in 1972 it was only 22 million.

The miscroscope was invented in 1590 by Zacharias Janssen, Dutch spectacle maker.

Deaths top births

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Deaths surpassed births in West Germany in 1972 for the first time since the Federal Republic was founded in 1949.

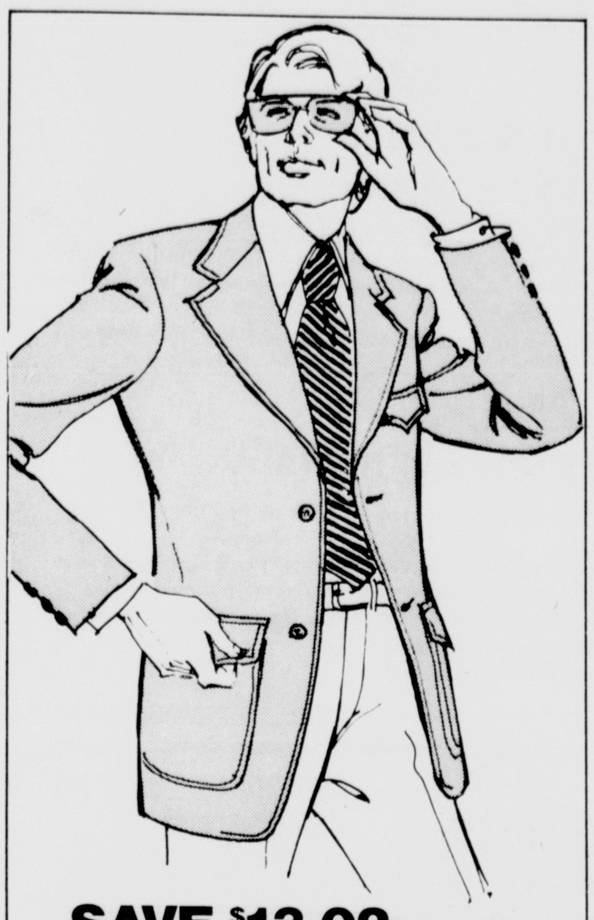

The Federal Statistics Office registered 730,000 deaths last year compared with 701,000 births.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Hold to a well-directed course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Arien will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under sterm control.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

A thorough reappraisal of recent activities can be the basis for highly improved future planning. Don't stymie yourself through outmoded ideas, methods. Be progressive.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

New opportunities indicated in many fields — but especially where monetary interests are concerned. A splendid time for consolidating your position in this respect.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

What is expedient may not be the best for all concerned, so be careful of the route you select. Take nothing for granted.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You can make unusual progress in many areas now. Get your mind clicking early, and in tune with present trends.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Good stellar influences favor a new approach to difficult problems, consolidation of gains made in the past. Start looking now — for improved returns.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Sidestep any activity that could hamper your forward movement. You may encounter unexpected situation now; much good, too.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

It's up to you to do all in your power to make this a satisfactory day. Splendid Mars influences encourage active - mindedness, business interests and finances.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You could be tempted now to turn from a profitable to a more confused course. Consider the whole picture. Avoid the pitfalls of heedlessness and haste.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Mixed influences, mixed possibilities. How you react to opposition and unexpected situations will tell the tale.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Don't wait too long before making up your mind in matters where the time element is important. Highly favored: Art, travel and literary interests.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You should feel optimistic now, and this fact alone will make it easier to induce others to go along with you. But be willing to listen to their ideas, too.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great inner strength and a sense of stability often lacking in many others born under Gemini. You are studious, discriminating and progressive in your viewpoint. You have all the ardor, energy and enthusiasm of your Sign without the tendency to become easily bored and "run out of steam" before completing projects you have started. You are extremely versatile and are always willing to give time, energy and other assets in the cause of worthwhile achievement. Fields in which you could excel: Literature, science, the law, aviation, architecture, all occupations involving travel, communications, dealings with large numbers of people.

Central Ohio Blue Cross names new board members

COLUMBUS — The Board of Trustees of Blue Cross of Central Ohio elected two new members at its annual meeting.

Elected to serve one year terms were James W. Shocknessy, Columbus attorney, who will serve as a provider representative, and Thomas H. Langevin, president of Capital University, who will serve as a non-provider representative.

Elected to serve as the new chairman of the board was Martin L. Hecht, vice president for university relations at Ohio University in Athens. Tom F. Lewis, a Columbus physician, was elected vice chairman of the board.

Shocknessy received his LL.B. from Harvard Law School, and has been in private law practice in Columbus since 1939. His professional and civic activities include chairmanship of the Ohio Turnpike Commission, chairmanship of the board of trustees of Mt. Carmel Hospital, member of the board of trustees of the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation, and member of the board of trustees of Wilberforce University. Lebanon man heads alcoholism council

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Hugh Murphy, director of Warren County's Alcoholism Project, has resigned to become interim director of the Southwestern Ohio Regional Council on Alcoholism.

The regional council covers Warren, Clermont, Brown, Butler and Hamilton counties. It acts as an advisory agency for individual county programs and dispenses federal grants.

There are a total of 129,500 miles of highways throughout Ohio, including 1,428 miles of Interstate highways. The state controls 17,889 miles of paved highways; Ohio's 88 counties maintain 29,713 miles; townships, 39,889 miles; and cities, 21,000 miles.

Grand jury probe rocks disc industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The record industry is shuddering as reports surface of payola, drugs, an organized crime connection and misuse of funds.

A federal grand jury and offices of district attorneys in Manhattan and Los Angeles are looking into the music business. One recording industry figure has fallen, and people in the field see troubled days ahead.

"The reports say all record companies are being quietly investigated. I believe that is going to happen," said Herb Helman, head of public relations for RCA Records. "At this point, I think every company should take a very low profile."

The payola scandals of the late 1950s rocked the music world with public revelation that record company promotion men used money, liquor and free vacations to convince disk jockeys to play their records. Such exposure can increase sales.

The record companies and broadcasters insist such practices have ceased. But some reports indicate they persist with a new twist: cocaine and marijuana are sometimes the inducement now.

How widespread such activities are cannot be stated. But payola on a grander scale was reported this week by sources close to a federal grand jury meeting in Newark, N.J.

Those sources said David Wynshaw, until two months ago director of artist relations for Columbia Records, told members of a federal Organized Crime Strike Force that the company budgeted $250,000 a year for payoffs to promote Columbia's stable of black pop and rock singers.

Wynshaw said part of the money went to bribe the publishers of weekly tip sheets that supposedly keep radio stations informed of the latest "hot" records and part of it went to black disk jockeys, the sources said.

4-H Roundup

4-H enrollment sets new record

JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Four-H membership reached a record level for 1973. A total of 1,244 boys and girls have enrolled in a variety of 4-H programs since July 1, 1972. The enrollment surpassed the 1,200 member goal set by the County 4-H Committee last fall. In 1972, there were 1,003 members enrolled.

The 518 boys and 726 girls are members of 81 4-H Clubs and special interest groups. They are led by 173 adult 4-H advisers and 99 Junior Leaders. There are 825 members residing in rural areas and 417 within the boundaries of Washington C.H.

The record number of members and clubs is an indication of the hardwork put forth by a large number of people, including many volunteer adults and youth.

THE 4-H SAFETY Speaking Contest is planned for Tuesday, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Extension office. The contest gives 4-H members a chance to speak up for important safety topics in the home, on the farm, on the highways, and in other public places.

Each year 12-15 contestants have become involved in the event. I am expecting around 15 contestants Tuesday. Winners in each division, Senior Girls, Senior Boys, Junior Girls and Junior Boys, will receive awards presented by Kirk Furniture, the Ohio Grain Co., and Mac Tools Senior winners will represent Fayette County in district competition.

Contestants may enter by attending the contest Tuesday evening. The speakers have a maximum of 5 minutes to make their presentation and will be scored on the basis of content, organization, delivery, vocal action and personal appearance.

NEXT WEEK, 8 Fayette County 4-H'ers will represent our members at the Ohio 4-H Club Congress at Ohio State University. Those attending include Jomi Warner, Reggie Roush, Sandy McCoy, Kim Fleming, Cindy Davis, Bill Schaefer, John Pendleton and Bret Taylor.

The program, "I'm OK- You're OK", will give the 8 an opportunity to meet 4-H members from all over Ohio, learn about career possibilities, join in a mock legislative session, enjoy the many recreational facilities at Ohio State University and share ideas with other 4-H'ers, resource people and Extension faculty.

Tuesday, June 19 has been set aside as 4-H Science Career Day at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster. Four-H members 12 years old and older along with their parents are invited.

Those attending will be able to see the latest in research and equipment, see the terrific "You Can Make A World of Difference," and learn about careers in agriculture, home economics and natural resources. For more information call the Extension office at 335-1150.

SERTOMA SCHOLARSHIP — Melanie Hargo, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lambertson of 628 Gibbs Ave., receives the second annual Washington Sertoma Club scholarship from the club president, Mike Kelley. The $500 award is presented each year to a deserving high school graduate, based on need and ability, for the college or vocational school of his or her choice. Miss Hargo will attend the Ohio State School of Cosmetology from which she has received an additional $250 scholarship.

Damage 'moderate' in eight accidents

Eight traffic accidents resulting in three citations and moderate property damage occurred in the city-county area Wednesday, according to police and sheriff's departments.

Accidents investigated were:

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 1:09 p.m. — Cars driven by Lucille F. Smallwood, 37, Rt. 5, and Larry D. Sutherland, 23, of 1255 Mark Rd., collided on the Kroger lot; damage minor.

11:30 a.m. — William M. Gilmer, 23, New Holland, was cited for failure to yield the right of way in a collision at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Street with a car driven by Donald E. Gardner, 46, of 707 N. North St.; damage moderate.

3:10 p.m. — Cars driven by Deborah A. McStowe, 18, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, and Randy D. Southworth, of 529 E. Paint St., collided on the Borden Burger lot; damage minor.

3:45 p.m. — Beverly J. Qualls, of 727 E. Paint St., was cited for changing lanes without safety after her car collided with another driven by Donald E. Wood, 56, of 409 Van Deman St., in the 300 block of E. Court Street; damage moderate.

SHERIFF

WEDNESDAY, 3:35 p.m. — Leroy H. Carmean, 46, Kenton, was charged with following too closely after his semi-rig collided with a car driven by Mary A. Thompson, 24, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, on U.S. 35 at Inskeep Road; damage heavy.

6 p.m. — Paul J. Adams Jr., 18, Rt. 2, lost control of his car on U.S. 22, just west of White Road, and hit a culvert and a mailbox owned by Harold J. Vickers, Rt. 1, New Holland; damage moderate.

6:15 p.m. — A car driven by Alan D. Bowman, 21, Cincinnati, ran off northbound I-71, a mile south of U.S. 35, and hit a road sign; damage minor.

TUESDAY, 1 a.m. — A car driven by Ernest E. Bonzo, 22, Rt. 5, was northbound on CCC Highway-E when a large buck deer ran into the path of the car. The car hit the deer, which was later found dead about a half mile from the scene of the accident.

Traffic Court

One driver was fined and four others forfeited bond in traffic cases called by Acting Judge John Bryan in Municipal Court Wednesday.

POLICE

Bond Forfeitures:

Neil T. Wolfe, 18, Rt. 2, traffic light violation, $18.

Reber J. Hamilton, 21, Rt. 5, excessive noise, $35.

SHERIFF

Fined:

Charles W. Keach, 22, Jamestown, $25 and costs, unsafe vehicle.

Bond Forfeitures:

Lloyd P. Anderson, 49, Hillsboro, stop sign violation, $18.

Glenn H. Morrow, 22, Jeffersonville, reckless operation, $60; failure to wear required corrective lenses, $25.

Health planners to meet Monday

The quarterly meeting of the Fayette County Health Planning Council will be held at 5 p.m. Monday in the board room at Memorial Hospital, according to Clifford Hughes, chairman.

Committee reports and the names of committee members are to be presented at the meeting.

Fayette Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

I have tried to get to my flying news for the past two days. Every time I get started, a severe storm moves into the area, and I grab my son, my dog, and my purse (in that order) and head for home.

We know when Flight Service calls to warn us, as was the case yesterday when we had the tornado scare, that the weather is going to be extremely dangerous.

I have just returned to the office after another storm threat, although this time it was a false alarm.

Again, our flying has been very sporadic. Very little activity for two or three days, due to bad weather, and then when it turns nice, we are flying night and day.

Also, when it is fit, the agricultural spray planes are snowed under with anxious farmers wanting their beans and corn sprayed for weeds. Of course, they all need the work done at once, and the tired pilots can only do so many acres a day. However, they are about caught up the work contracted for so far.

Bob Bammerlin, Mount Vernon, has been flying six or seven hours a week, with Bill working on his instrument rating. Dr. Pfersick also started on his instrument course Saturday.

We applied again for our air taxi certificate, which we gave up last year for lack of charter work. I had to work very hard on the Operations Manual required by the government which pertains to all phases of air taxi work, and which we have to abide by.

It consists of 55 pages, six copies each. Our regulations in this manual are just as strict as the airlines to insure the safety of all persons and property involved.

The day we got our manual approved, Bill flew a charter trip to Waterloo, Iowa, to pick up badly needed parts for the Greenline Company.

ON THE GOOD DAYS, our trainers have been scheduled very closely, and Tom Preston, our assistant flight instructor, and Bill have really been hustling. Students flying solo were Gary Meyers, Bruce Denen, John Woodmansee, Louie Poole, Tex Guerra, Billy Pauley, Walt Gooldin, Martha "Leroy" Rockhold, Gary Welsh, Ken Mathias, Randy Martindale and Paul Junk. Leroy, Randy, Paul Junk and Walt have soloed since my last news, and we're very proud of them.

We finally got our beacon operating, which is located three miles from the airport. The beacon directs planes to our airport and assists them on landing when the weather is bad. The beacon's frequency has been picked up as far away as Kokomo, Ind. It has also been picked up on Bob Mace's telephone. Sorry about that, Bob!

Don Morrow flew Roy Smith to Akron where Roy picked up his Bonanza. Roy had become weathered in the first part of the week and had been forced to leave his plane.

We received badly needed help at our Ross County Airport when Ed Elliott passed his instructor's flight test and went to work for us. He assists Billie Smith, our other part-time flight instructor. We taught Ed to fly at our Ross County Airport, and then he enrolled in our VA school here at Fayette County where he received his commercial license, multi-engine training and flight instructor's rating. He plans to start on his instrument training next, in between working with our students.

PRIMARY STUDENTS receiving dual instruction have been Bruce Denen, Paul Junk, John Woodmansee, Joe Kingery, Chuck Starkey, Melvin Fowler, Randy Martindale, Leroy Rockhold, Marilee Carter, Tex Guerra, Louis Poole, Gary Welsh, Walt Gooldin and Deane Carter. Ron Fitzwater, Tom Romph, Billy Pauley, and Tim Vehnekamp, VA commercial students, also received dual instruction.

John Woodmansee, Mike Prickett, Bruce Denen and Ken Mathias have also flown student cross-country flights. Sometimes when the weather would be bad, they would have to quickly revise their route of flight and fly in another direction, but they managed.

Our maintenance hangar has also been busy, with maintenance being done on Don Morrow's Mooney, Wayne Ingle's and Max Our's Skyhawk, Bob Bammerlin's twin Commanche, and an annual inspection on another Skyhawk out of Columbus. We have also run two 100-hour inspection on our training planes.

Our mechanic, Blaine Kohler, is a member of the medi-copter team which patrols the Franklin County highways on weekends, and his team was presented an award by Gov. Gilligan last Monday. The team watches for highway accidents and air lifts the injured persons by helicopter to hospitals for quick treatment.

BILL FLEW to Port Columbus last week, and picked up Tim Runnels at the airlines. We taught Tim to fly, and he is now in the Air Force, based in Texas. Tim and Bill returned to Fayette County Airport where Tim caught a cab and surprised his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Runnels, of Bloomingburg.

We have been very busy, the past week, making arrangements for our Fly-In - Drive-In Breakfast, to be held June 24. We are planning some extra activities, such as "bomb-drops" and spot landing contests. If the weather is decent, we expect an even bigger and better turn-out.

In the past, some of the readers of my newspaper column have come out to talk to me, so if you get the chance - come out and join us. We are just as happy to welcome the local townspeople as well as the pilots who will be flying in.

Oh, dear! Bill just informed me we are about to get another storm, so I'll close quickly and get this in the newspaper. Over and out for now.

Theft, arson complaints investigated by officers

A burglary attempt, an apparent case of arson, and a shoplifting complaint were investigated by city police overnight.

Police said a car owned by Lucas Swift, of 219 W. Temple St., apparently was set afire purposely early Thursday. The car, parked at the rear of the Washington Hotel, was extensively damaged by the flames.

Investigating officers said someone had apparently broken out the right wing window to set the interior of the car on fire. Swift said all the doors on the car were left locked.

Burglars apparently attempted to enter the Floyd Southworth home, 1141 E. Temple St., sometime early Wednesday morning. Police said a ladder was found against the house and a screwdriver was discovered on the bathroom window sill.

Officers said there were pry marks on the window, and the front door screen had been kicked in.

Southworth said he and his wife were asleep in the house but did not hear any noises.

A teenaged Washington C. H. girl was apprehended after she allegedly shoplifted a pair of shoes from the P & Q Shoe Store, Washington Square, Wednesday afternoon. Officers said the girl was stopped by a clerk after she had walked out of the store with the shoes valued at $9.97.

She was freed after making restitution for the shoes. No charges were filed.

CLAY CARROLL

Clay Carroll misses old spot in bullpen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Clay Carroll was doing so poorly he got the last thing he expected—a promotion. Now he misses his old job.

"It used to be I came to the game knowing I was to pitch an inning or two," said Carroll, who at 32 is the senior member of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff.

"Now I have to sit around and wait three days," laughed Carroll, who has come out of the bullpen to become one of baseball's most effective pitchers.

A month ago he was struggling in relief with an 18.00 earned run average and an 0-4 record. "I didn't think I was going to ever get anyone out," drawled the Alabama native.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson, beset by other pitching problems, decided to try Carroll as a starter. Instead he found a stopper.

Since his first start in five years—a strong five-inning shutout stint against Los Angeles—he has reduced his ERA to 4.00.

In the last 24 2-3 innings he has allowed two earned runs— for an amazing 0.70 ERA over his last four starts. He's won two games.

"I don't mind starting. I'm just glad I'm doing good because it's going to help us.

"We're lucky we are only five games behind," he said. "None of our big guns are clicking yet."

"But the Reds have a reputation for win streaks and we'll start getting hot with the weather. I think it's coming," said the Cincinnati relief ace who set a National League record with 37 saves last year and finished with a career-high ERA of 2.25.

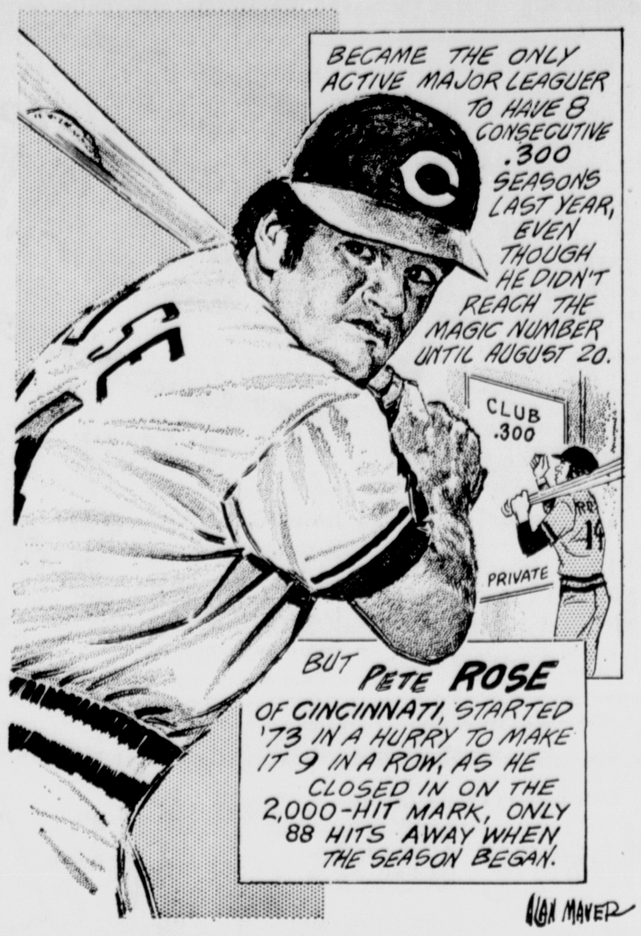

Meanwhile the Reds wait for the return to health of three ailing pitchers. Roger Nelson has had a sore elbow, Jim McGlothlin developed a sore neck and last year's winningest pitcher Gary Nolan has not pitched an inning for the defending National League champions.

Nolan, 15-5 last year, has been on the disabled list since the season started with shoulder problems.

The Reds say he's trying to slowly work his arm back into shape. There's little optimism that he will be available for much of the 1973 season.

In his absence, Jack Billingham has emerged as the team pitching leader. His 8-2 record leads the league and Anderson says the 30-year-old right-hander has acquired the confidence to become a big winner.

Wednesday golf hit third time

Action in the Wednesday Night Golf League was postponed because of rain for the third time this season.

Tony Capuana, club pro, said the Wednesday golfers will make-up yesterday's round on Monday.

The women's golf league will open its summer schedule Friday and the annual women's invitational golf tournament will be held next Wednesday at the Washington Country Club. A mixed scotch twosome will be held at WCC Sunday starting at 3 p.m.

Rain idles Post 25; other action doused

Rain and soggy playing conditions forced postponement of the season opener for the Washington C.H. Post 25 American Legion baseball team.

The Post 25 Legionnaries were scheduled to entertain always-tough Chillicothe Post 757 in a South Central Ohio League struggle at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Washington C.H., which had its regular season debut with Yellow Springs cancelled Sunday afternoon, will embark on a two-game road trip this weekend. The road trip takes Post 25 to Lebanon Saturday night and to Chillicothe Post 62 Sunday afternoon for a SCOL twinbill.

OTHER YOUTH action in the Washington C.H. area was doused by Wednesday's showers. Action postponed included two Babe Ruth League games, four Little League contests and the Fayette County Softball Association's Class A League slo-pitch openers.

Babe Ruth games washed out were Wilson Chevrolet at Jeffersonville, and Good Hope versus the Medics at Roszmann Field. In the Little League Majors, the Downtown Drug-Wilson Lumberjack and Record-Herald Flashes-Washington Savings Bank games were postponed. Rain idled the Sagars-Junior Firemen and Agrico-Helfrich contests at Armbrust Field.

Three Class A slo-pitch games were scheduled at Washington C.H.'s Eyman Park. They were Cascade Manufacturing, Springfield, and Colonial Stair; Robertson Fence and Jeff Merchants, and Bell-Dor-Lite and Robertson Fence.

In tonight's action, weather and field conditions permitting, two games are on tap in the Babe Ruth League and four in the two Little Leagues.

In Babe Ruth action tonight, Girtons is scheduled to travel to Bloomingburg, while Sabina meets Willis Insurance at Roszmann Field. In the Little League Majors at Wilson Field, Halliday's Mustangers and the Coca Cola Jets clash in the opener, while Kaufman's Levi Boys and the Rotary Wheels have the nightcap. In the Little League Minors, the Knights of Columbus meet Pennington's Loafers in the opener with Roller Haven and the Eagles playing in the second game.

50-1 shot winner at River Downs

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Heavenly Hero, carrying 112 pounds, and Copper Prize, 115, are favored today in the $2,600 featured eighth race at River Downs, over six furlongs.

A 50-1 shot, Lake Chapala, won the $4,500 featured ninth race Wednesday after Summer Frost was disqualified for interference.

He paid $104, $28.60 and $8.60. Antedate placed paying $4.20 and $3.20 and Fifty Bucks ran third for $3.40.

The crowd of 3,914 bet $376,750.

Secretariat, 4 others in Belmont field

NEW YORK (AP) — Knightly Dawn and Pvt. Smiles, two newcomers to the Triple Crown wars, will join in the battle Saturday to stop Secretariat from sweeping the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

This trio and Sham, runnerup in the Derby and Preakness, My Gallant, ninth in the Derby, and Twice a Prince, 12th in the Derby, were expected to be entered today for the 105th running of the 1½-mile Belmont on Saturday at Belmont Park.

Entries were to be made today by 10 a.m., EDT.

If six go to the post at 5:38 p.m. Saturday, the 105th Belmont will be worth $151,200, with $97,720 to the winner. Each starter will carry 126 pounds for the race.

It will be televised nationally by CBS from 5-6 p.m.

Shortly before trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin announced Wednesday he planned to run Knightly Dawn as an entry with Sham, Secretariat put in his final workout for the Belmont, going a half-mile in 46 3-5 seconds and out five-eights in 59 2-5.

The big chestnut's fractions were 12 for the first eighth of a mile, 24 for a quarter, 35 for three-eighths, 46 3-5 and 59 2-5.

As usual Ron Turcotte, Secretariat's jockey, was aboard the son of Bold Ruler for the workout.

"He was well within himself," Turcotte said. "He could have gone faster if I had asked him."

Yanks creep closer to top in AL East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now you see it, now you don't. Vic Harris didn't. Umpire Bill Deegan did and he had two words for Harris. They were, "You're out!"

Harris, the young Texas center fielder, probably had a few choice words of his own but they were surely unprintable after veteran New York shortstop Gene Michael embarrassed him with the hidden ball trick for the rally-killing third out in the fifth inning of the Yankees' 5-2 victory over the Rangers Wednesday night.

It was the Yanks' fourth consecutive victory and lifted them within one-half game of Detroit in the AL East.

The Baltimore Orioles bombed Chicago 14-4, slashing the slumping White Sox' lead in the American League West to just three percentage points over the Minnesota Twins, who swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 7-3 in 15 innings and 13-9. Elsewhere, the California Angels downed the Detroit Tigers 7-4, the Boston Red Sox edged the Kansas City Royals' 5-4 on Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game in the 10th inning and the Oakland A's battered the Milwaukee Brewers 11-1.

Sandy Alomar keyed a pair of two-run rallies with a single in the first inning and a triple in the second while Bill Singer and Dave Sells pitched the Angels to a 7-4 victory over the Tigers and Joe Coleman. Vada Pinson homered for the Angels.

Brooks Robinson and Earl Williams each homered and combined to drive in six runs as Baltimore's revived long-ball attack powered the Orioles over the slumping White Sox. The loss was the fifth straight for the Sox.

Robinson's first homer since May 1 and a sacrifice fly accounted for four runs while Williams hit his first homer since April 22, a two-run shot. Chicago's Dick Allen took over the league lead with his 14th homer.

Jim Holt slugged two home runs and Steve Braun added one in a 16-hit attack that carried Minnesota to its second-game victory over Cleveland and a sweep of the twin bill. A double error by shortstop Frank Duffy enabled Larry Hisle to score the tie-breaking run in the 15th inning of the opener as thw Twins scored four runs.

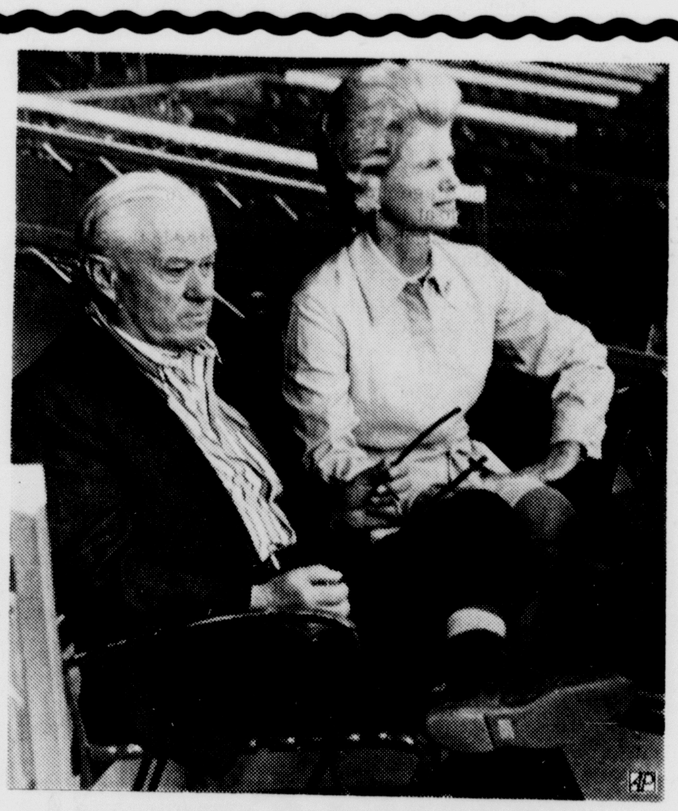

Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game—and the season—leading off the 10th inning lifted the Red Sox to a sweep of their three-game series with Kansas City. The Royals tied the score with two out in the ninth when Paul Schaal walked and designated hitter Jim Wohlford homered. Boston's designated hitter, Orlando Cepeda, also homered.

Reggie Jackson drove in five runs with one of three Oakland homers in the first inning and a double as the A's ended the Brewers' five-game winning streak.

Cincy Bengals sign top two draft picks

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals have announced the signings of their first and second round draft choices, Isaac Curtis, a 6-foot-1, 193-pound wide receiver from San Diego State, and Al Chandler, a 6-foot-2, 233-pound tight end from Oklahoma.

Terms of the two contracts were not announced.

"We like what we have seen of Isaac," said Paul Brown, Bengals' general manager and head coach. "We think he is the fastest man in football."

CURTIS, the U.S. spring champion, caught 44 passes for 832 yards and seven touchdowns last year for San Diego State. He is a 9.3 sprinter in track and uses his exceptional speed to good advantage in football.

The 22-year-old Curtis has been named to the College All-Star team and will report late to the Bengal training camp. The All-Stars meet with world champion Miami Dolphins on July 27 in Chicago.

The Bengals currently list seven wide receivers on their pre-season roster. In addition to Curtis, Cincinnati has veterans Chip Myers, who was second in the American Football Conference in receptions in 1972 with 57; Charley Joiner and Speedy Thomas, and rookies Tim George, a third-round draft choice, and Dan Kratzer and Steve Kingman, both members of the taxi squad last season.

"We're anxious to being working with Chandler in training camp," said Brown. "He's worked out here at Spinney Field several times and we like what we've seen. He has the size and the blocking ability to get the job done."

The 22-year-old Chandler was named to several All-American teams while performing for Oklahoma where he was a starter for three years. He also was All-Big Eight two years in a row.

"AL CHANDLER is one of the finest blocking tight ends I have ever seen," says Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, who was the Sooners' offensive coordinator before succeeding Chuck Fairbanks who went to the New England Patriots.

Chandler caught 14 passes for 301 yards and three touchdowns for the Sooners last season. He picked off eight passes for 223 yards and five touchdowns as a junior and nine for 172 yards in his sophomore year.

Chandler, who is from Oklahoma City, Okla, will be battling five-year starter Bob Trumpy and veteran Bruce Coslet for the tight end berth.

All-Star series set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jim Massa of Cincinnati Elder and Don Woodl of Cleveland Glenville will be on opposite coaching sides again this weekend for the Ohio High School All-Star Baseball Series.

Massa, whose Elder team beat Wood's Glenville nine 7-1 for the Class AAA state title last weekend, will serve as one of the coaches for the West All-Stars.

Wood will be one of three mentors will guide the East All-Stars in the three-game series Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ohio State University.

Joining Massa with the West squad will be TomoRutan of Upper Arlington, Jack Johnson of Pickerington and Mel Frass of Toledo Macomber.

The other East coaches include Terry Farmer of Lancaster and Gary Zelinski of Bridgeport.

The game matching the state's top seniors is sponsored by the Columbus Jaycees.

Bonds sparks SF to seventh in row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That's quite a leadoff hitter the San Francisco Giants have—14 home runs, 60 runs scored and a .320 batting average.

You'd think that Bobby Bonds would bat third or fifth in the order with that kind of power. So does Bobby Bonds.

"I don't want to lead off, but I will if that's what everyone wants," said Bonds after pacing the Giants to a 9-7 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

Bonds drilled four hits, including a leadoff homer in the first inning, drove in two runs and scored four times, to lead the Giants to their seventh straight National League victory.

In the other National League games, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4; the Atlanta Braves beat the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Houston Astros nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and the St. Louis Cardinals scored a 6-3 jecision over the San Diego Padres.

Jose Cardenal drove in three runs with a two-run homer and sacrifice fly in Chicago's victory over Los Angeles. Dodger ace Don Sutton lost to the Cubs for the 15th time in 18 career decisions.

Sutton departed after four straight singles during a four-run Chicago sixth. The winner was Burt Hooton, 6-3, who needed ninth-inning relief help from Jack Aker after giving up a homer to Willie Davis in a three-run Dodger ninth. The save was Aker's 10th of the season.

Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson each slugged two-run homers and Phil Niekro and Danny Frisella combined on a four-hitter to lead Atlanta past Montreal.

Johnson's two-run shot in the eighth snapped a 3-3 tie for the winning runs.

Bob Watson's infield single in the 10th inning gave Houston its victory over Philadelphia. Pinch-hitter Jimmy Stewart triggered the Astros' winning rally with a walk off relief pitcher Barry Lersch. After Jimmy Wynn struck out, Roger Metzger singled Stewart to third.

Jesus Alou walked to load the bases before Watson singled home Stewart with the gamewinning run.

Ted Simmons' third hit, a three-run homer, climaxed a five-run outburst in the fifth inning and red-hot St. Louis went on to beat San Diego behind Bob Gibson's five-hitter.

The Cardinals won their fifth straight game and 16th in the last 18. Gibson won his fourth game against six losses while loser Clay Kirby's record dropped to 2-6.

Five Cincy Hall of Famers brace for Old Timers game

CINCINNATI — Five members of the Cincinnati Reds' Hall of Fame will don their uniforms and put their talent, somewhat rusty, on display to highlight the Old-Timers game at Riverfront Stadium on Saturday, June 16.

The game, annually one of the top attractions on the Reds' schedule, matches the 1953 Reds against a combined National League-American League team from the 1953 All-Star game, which was held in Cincinnati at Crosley Field.

Some of the biggest names in baseball of that era will try to recapture their old skills for a few innings in a 4:15 p.m. game that precedes the regular 5:30 p.m. game between the Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates.

IT WILL be a gala weekend in Cincinnati as the Bucs, Eastern Division champs, make their first appearance here since losing the Championship Series to the Western Division champ Reds last October. The two teams open the series with a single game at 8:05 p.m. Friday and have a doubleheader slated on Sunday, June 17, beginning at 1:15. The big homestand opens Monday, June 11, when St. Louis begins a three-night visit.

The 1953 Reds finished well back in the pack, but the nucleus of that team rekindled baseball interest in Cincinnati and led to pennant fever and the first million attendance totals in the club's history.

Members of the team eventually elected to the Reds' Hall of Fame are slugger Ted Kluszewski, pitcher Joe Nuxhall, shortstop Roy McMillan and outfielders Gus Bell and Wally Post.

It will be a short trip back for Kluszewski, now the Reds' batting coach, and Nuxhall, a member of the radio broadcast team.

The top winner on the pitching staff that season was Harry Perkowski, who will be on hand here for the June reunion with his mound mates Jackie Collum, a 5-7 mite; Clyde King, later to become manager of the San Francisco Giants; Ken Raffensberger, and Frank Smith, a rubber-armed relief pitcher who worked in 50 games in 1953 and posted an 8-1 record.

Other former Reds who have accepted invitations to play in the Old-Timers game are catchers Andy Seminick and Frank Baldwin infielder Bobby Adams, and outfielder Willard Marshall, Jim Greengrass and Bob Borkowski.

Opposing the Reds will be a classy array of former major league stars including American League batting champions Harvey Kuenn, Mickey Vernon and Billy Goodman; no-hit pitchers Harvey Haddix and Allie Reynolds; Pee Wee Reese; Enos (Country) Slaughter; Johnny Mize; Del Rice; Billy Hunter and Wes Westrum.

Pro track season ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike O'Hara, founder of the International Track Association, looked ahead today to next season, while pronouncing the first pro track campaign "a resounding success."

The 1973 circuit ended Wednesday night with an ITA record long jump of 27 feet, 1 inch Y Henry Hines; a Garden record of 5.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash by Jean-Louis Ravelomanantaoa, and a popular mile victory by Kip Keino.

The major disappointment was the last-place finish of Jim Ryun in the mile. Ryun, the world outdoor record holder for the mile and 1,500-meters, winner of his nine previous ITA races and 11 of 13 over-all, was loudly cheered by the crowd when he was introduced prior to the race. When it ended, he was showered with boos.

Ryun was in second place early in the race, but quickly faded and finished a distant fourth in 4:11.9. Keino, the short, husky Kenyan ex-cop, burst into the lead with two laps remaining and won handily in 4:03.0.

The victory capped a rather disappointing season for Keino, the two-time Olympic gold medalist who had to leave the tour temporarily and return to Kenya for personal reasons.

Ryun termed the pro track venture "a gamble for everyone."

"I wanted to help get it off the ground," he said. "And I think I accomplished that. I'm really looking forward to next season."

6 Americans survive in British golf

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — Roger McManus, taking his first two-week vacation in nearly a quarter of a century, has put it to good use, moving through three rounds of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The 32 survivors also include 25 Britons. An 18-year-old Brazilian, Jayme Gonzalez, who has been burning up Royal Porthcawl's 6,600-yard links beside the Bristol Channel, completes the list.

Another American on a winning streak is Dale Morey, 54-year-old salesman who made it to the British semifinals in 1964.

Morey played two matches Wednesday and still was on the course for only three hours.

"I think age is no bar to good golf," he said. "You really start playing the game right when you reach the fifties."

The other Americans among the last 32 are Jack Beutler, Clarkston, Wash.; Dick Siderowf, Easton, Conn.; Tom Culligan, San Mateo, Calif., and Howell Van Gerbig, Palm Beach, Fla.

Gonzalez, the teenage wonder from Brazil, shot a two-underpar 70 Wednesday morning, then came back with a 68.

He needed that 68 for a one up victory over Scotland's David Robertson.

Only three of the original eight Britons seeded as favorites for the title were left in the group of 32—Peter Moody, David Marsh and Rodney Foster.

Prince Lobell wins at Lebanon Raceway

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Prince Lobell, winning a second time in five starts at Lebanon Raceway Wednesday night grabbed the lead early and ran away with the conditioned pace mile in the featured eighth race.

The horse, owned by Levi Baker, Waynesville, paid $3.40, $2.20 and $2.20. Gay Singer placed, paying $2.60 and $2.20 and the show horse was Ashlawn for $3.

The 4-4 daily double combination of Richaldnd Nellie and Canadian K. was worth $69.20.

Attendance was 1,499 and the betting totaled $100,955.

Blalock heads LPGA field

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Janie Blalock, the center of one of sports' most bitter controversies in 1972, felt loose and unshackled today in teeing off in a field of 66 into the Ladies PGA Golf Championship.

"I feel very free and very loose, like I've been unshackled," the 27-year-old former Portsmouth, N.H., schoolteacher said Wednesday evening is disclosing her one-year LPGA suspension has ended.

"My suspension was terminated on May 31," Miss Blalock said. "Billie Jean King offered a toast to me at the time during our tournament last week at Las Vegas.

"Actually, I never was suspended as far as playing goes."

Miss Blalock was suspended by the LPGA a year ago for allegedly cheating while marking her ball for putts on greens during tournaments.

She countered the suspension with a $5 million suit against the LPGA and its officers, obtaining a court injunction permitting her to play.

Ohioan Weiskopf is talk of professional golf tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Tom Weiskopf, his temper under control, is the current rage of the Professional Golfers Association tour heading into the $150,000 Philadelphia Classic today.

The tall blond belter says his surge of a first, second and first for $87,000 in his last three starts can be traced to his father's death.

Thomas Weiskopf Sr., Tom's dad and a Bedford, Ohio, railroader, died in March.

"I did a lot of thinking after his death. I don't think I disappointed him, but I didn't do as well as I might have," said the 10-year PGA tour veteran.

"It made me more aware of what I should have been doing. I felt I ought to do something about it," Weiskopf said.

He did, winning the Colonial and the Kemper tournaments and finishing second behind fellow Ohio State product Jack Nicklaus at Atlanta.

"Let's see," Weiskopf said. "I was four under par at the Colonial, 14 under at Atlanta and 17 under at the Kemper. That's 35 under in my last three tournaments, right?"

One bad shot and Weiskopf would lose his temper in previous years. That's not the case now.

"I've got a lot more patience than I ever had," the 30-year-old Ohioan said. "If I make a bad shot, it doesn't affect me as much. I'm not forcing things.

"I'm thinking a lot better," Weiskopf continued. "I take more time thinking about my shot. I've even slowed down my walk."

PGA tourist Dave Graham gave Weiskopf a putter before the Colonial. It plays a major role, too.

"I've putted like you wouldn't believe," he said. "I've had only one three-putt in three tournaments. I probably haven't missed a half dozen putts four feet or less."

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

But It Didn't Hurt Clark Gable

Our 10-year-old boy has protruding ears, and he is becoming terribly conscious of this. He is the object of ridicule by unkind schoolmates.

We are considering having this corrected. Is the operation a dangerous one? When should it be done?

There are no plastic surgeons in our city.

Mrs. L.S., Ala.

Dear Mrs. S.:

There are now many excellent, simple, and completely safe operations for the reshaping of the ears.

Within a few days after the operation, the ears are well on their way to complete healing.

I think that you should give more than just consideration to having this operation performed. A 10-year old highly sensitive child can be psychologically scarred by the constant reference to his protruding, or "flop," ears.

Young children are not always kind to each other and some may make reference to "elephant ears" and other terms of disparagement, which is emotionally painful.

Your own doctor knows the closest plastic surgeon where such operations are easily performed. Your child will benefit greatly when this defect is remedied.

Both my father and I developed adhesions after a gall bladder operation.

Does this mean that there is a family tendency to adhesions?

Mrs. O.E., Mich.

Dear Mrs. E.:

The abdominal cavity is lined by a fine delicate tissue-thin membrane, the peritoneum.

Following an operation on the gall bladder, the intestine, the appendix, or any organ in the abdomen, the periotoneum may became irritated and inflammed. The result is that tiny bands of adhesions may form in some instances.

Modern surgery is so exact and free from harsh handling of tissues that fewer cases of post-operative adhesions occur.

Infections are more readily controlled with antibiotics and, therefore, peritoneal inflammation is reduced.

The fact that adhesions occurred to both you and your father is probably more of a coincidence than a hereditary tendency.

Is spinal anesthesia still used: Has it been discarded for other types of anesthesia?

Mr. T.O., Calif.

Dear Mr. O.:

This type of anesthesia is still used for operations below the waist.

Many surgeons prefer spinal anesthesia for operations on the bladder and the prostate, or for a hernia, for example.

A similar type of anesthesia is known as "epidural and caudal block."

Spinal anesthesia is performed by injecting novocaine or similar chemicals directly into the spinal cord. This is considered a "local" or "regional" anesthesia and is remarkably safe and effective.

JOYFUL JOLLYMAKERS 4-H

The meeting of the Joyful Jollymakers 4-H Club was opened with the 4-H Pledge, and members responded to roll call by naming favorite numbers. Dues were collected to be used for the annual trip. Old and new business was discussed. The news reporter read all of the clippings about the club taken from the Record-Herald.

Members then worked on projects, and Lori James ice cream bars. The cooking girls make snickerdoodles. Kool-aid was served with them.

The next meeting will be June 11.

Errant driver faces 2 charges

Sheriff's cruiser wrecked in chase

A Fayette County man was charged with resisting arrest and fleeing from a police officer and a Sheriff's Department cruiser was wrecked in a Thursday morning chase on Ohio 38 and continued into the northern part of the city.

Sheriff's deputies said Homer E. Smith, 45, Rt. 5, also was charged after his truck was finally stopped on Campbell Street by city police. He presently is incarcerated in the county jail.

A sheriff's cruiser, driven by Auxiliary Deputy Kenneth Smith, received an estimated $500 damage to the right side when Smith pulled in front of the fleeing truck on Gregg Street in an attempt to stop it. The cruiser slid broadside on the wet pavement, spun around and hit a street sign and post at the intersection of Gregg and Delaware streets. Smith was uninjured.

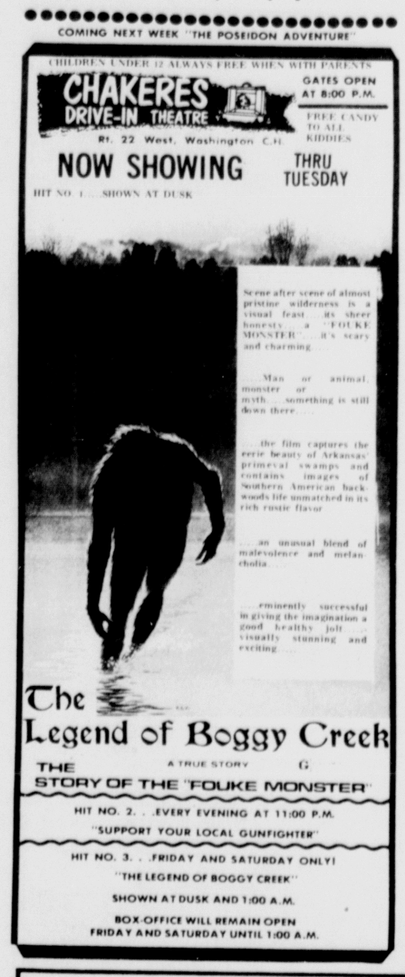

Smith said he first noticed the truck when it ran a stop sign at the intersection of Main Street and Midland Avenue in Bloomingburg. The truck continued on and ran another stop sign, then turned south on Ohio 38. The officer stopped the truck just outside Bloomingburg.

Deputies Smith said he was talking with the driver when the latter put the truck in gear and drove away. Smith radioed for assistance as he pursued the vehicle into the city.

Patrolman Dennis Brown pulled in behind the cruiser on Gregg Street after the chase had wound through several back streets. Officer Smith then attempted to pull in front of the fleeing truck and wrecked the cruiser.

Smith jumped from the cruiser and ordered Homer Smith out of the truck which stopped for the stop sign at the intersection. The truck driver again drove away and was finally stopped on Campbell Street by Brown.

He was taken out of the truck and handcuffed, then removed to the county jail.

CLEANING PROJECT — Members of Jeffersonville Scout Troop 67 recently cleaned an old cemetery in Jeffersonville. The boys used lawnmowers, sickles, chain saws and a lot of "boy power" to make the cemetery presentable. Fred Doyle, Scoutmaster, said many of the grave markers have fallen over, have deteriorated or are broken.

Annexation plan OKd for Frankfort

CHILLICOTHE, — Ross County commissioners have approved the annexation of an industrial tract to the village of Frankfort.

No one opposed the proposed annexation at a public hearing. The commissioners' action sends the petition to the village council for final approval.

The tract is the site of construction of an $8.5 million truck parts plant which is scheduled to go into operation this fall. It is a plant of the Budd Co. of Detroit, Mich.

The annexation includes a 25-foot wide strip across four properties which lie between the new plant and the present village corporation line. This was necessary to make the tract contiguous to the village.

Fuel crisis meeting urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recommendation has been made to Gov. John Gilligan that he call a one-day conference this month of people in the petroleum industry to determine the severity of the gasoline shortage.

Gilligan's Cabinet Committee on Energy, in an interim report Wednesday, also suggested the governor convene a major energy conference later in the summer.

The committee is made up of the directors of the state departments of Economic and Community Development, Transportation and Natural Resources, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Public Utilities Commission.

4-H horse club queen to be crowned July 8

June 30 is the deadline for entries in the 4-H Horse Club Queen Contest to be sponsored by the Bar W. Riding Club. The queen will be crowned July 8 at the riding club's show in Good Hope.

Girls 16 years of age as of Jan. 1, 1973, who are members of Fayette County 4-H Horse clubs are eligible to compete for the honor. Contestants will be judged 60 per cent on poise, personality and appearance and 40 per cent on horsemanship ability.

Interviews will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. July 6 in the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 319 S. Fayette St.. Contestants are expected to wear Western apparel.

The horsemanship judging will take place at the show. Contestants are required to ride their own horses at the judging.

The queen will present trophies and ribbons at the Bar W. Horse Show and at the Fayette County Junior Fair Horse Show.

Entries are to be submitted to the county extension office.

Dollar climbs

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved up smartly in European exchanges today in expectation of early action by Washington to curb inflation and bolster President Nixon's prestige. The price of gold slumped.

Dealers described trade in both the exchanges and bullion markets as calm but active.

HIGH WIRE RESCUE — When Keith Crawley, a radio technician for the county police radio system at Eagleville, Pa., near Valley Forge, was installing a new antenna atop the 200-foot tower, he apparently became exhausted and was spotted hanging by his safety belt. The Norristown Fire Department put up its aerial ladder and took down Crawley and fellow radio dispatcher Steven Kelley, who had climbed hand over hand up the tower with an extra safety belt. At right, Crawley and Kelley awaited the ladder. Bottom, Crawley mops his brow as he is helped down by Fireman Joseph Garner Jr.

South Vietnam clings to earlier agreement

Saigon balks at new truce

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government, apparently trying to forestall any concessions by Henry A. Kissinger to the Communists, announced today it would not sign any new truce agreement worked out in Paris.

The announcement suggested that Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho may be working on additional amendments to the original Vietnam cease-fire, signed in Paris Jan. 27.

Kissinger announced in the French capital that he put off a scheduled morning meeting with Tho until this afternoon but said, "There was no particular reason. We just needed more time to prepare something."

He did not indicate what was being prepared, but it was presumed to be a supplementary document to tighten the Vietnam cease-fire.

Kissinger and Tho are believed to be working on ways to implement the original agreement rather than renegotiate it. The Saigon government reportedly has agreed in principle on 11 points under consideration but has offered some counterproposals on how to put them into effect.

The announcement was marked by a flurry of diplomatic activity in Saigon. Acting U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse met twice with Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam. After the second meeting, the two went to confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu met with his National Security Council earlier in the day.

At the daily afternoon news briefing for newsmen, the Saigon spokesman, Bui Bao Truc, read the following prepared statement:

"During the past few days, there has been some speculation among the local press as well as the foreign press in Saigon that the Republic of Vietnam is going to sign sometime this week a new agreement in Paris.

"I would like to take this opportunity to say that these were purely speculations without any grain of truth. I would like to remind you that it was the truce violations committed by North Vietnam that resulted in the meeting in Paris between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho.

"The meeting in Paris is aimed at finding a way to implement the original Paris agreement, but not to sign another agreement only to be violated again by the Communists. We have always respected the Paris agreement that we signed. Our allies have observed the Paris agreement, and it has been always the Communists who have violated it. So it is illogical to go all over again what we have discussed, what we have agreed on, what we have signed in January 1973."

Kansas City police chief to head FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley is his choice for FBI director, selected from 27 top candidates.

Posing for photographs in his Oval Office with Kelley, a former FBI agent, and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, Nixon said that in searching for a permanent replacement for the late J. Edgar Hoover, "we finally got down to 27 names."

After Richardson interjected that there had been a "very exhaustive search" for a new FBI chief, Nixon said of Kelley, "he was first on the list."

While permitting the silverhaired Kelley to appear briefly before newsmen at the White House, Nixon said his nominee would not be able to respond to questions because he faces Senate confirmation hearings.

Kelley, who served 21 years with the FBI before taking over as police chief in 1961, would become the second permanent director in the investigative agency's history.

J. Edgar Hoover died 13 months ago after running the FBI for 47 years.

Kelley, a 61-year-old attorney with a keen interest in computerized law enforcement, has spent three days consulting with administration aides here. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and a White House liaison officer were introducing him to congressional leaders Wednesday.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is expected to schedule confirmation hearings soon.

Kelley was in charge of the Memphis FBI office when he took over his hometown Kansas City police force after a shakeup in which the previous chief and other officers were indicted for corruption.

Robert F. Kennedy, then the attorney general, was one of those who recommended Kelley to the city's police board.

Among the programs Kelley is credited with introducing are Sky Alert, a 24-hour-a-day helicopter patrol; Metro Squad, a joint city-suburban investigation team, Operation Barrier, designed to prevent criminal suspects from escaping across the Missouri-Kansas border, and the use of computers to speed police response.

Watergate panel hears more from campaign officer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified today he had feared administration retribution for telling the truth about the Watergate wiretapping, but was assured it wouldn't happen.

And he said he threw up his hands when the man he accused of asking him to lie, former campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder, was given a $36,000-a-year government job.

Sloan testified at the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he visited White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman last January after testifying as a government witness at the trial of the Watergate burglars.

He said Haldeman assured him the administration wouldn't stand in the way of his finding a private job, but that no one regarded as a "Watergate figure" would be given a high government job until the case was cleared up.

Sloan said he felt very good about the meeting, but a few days later read that Magruder had been appointed to a policy post in the Commerce Department. "At that time I just threw up my hands," Sloan said.

Sloan said he told Haldeman: "I want you to know that I feel that I did not leave the team. As far as I'm concerned, the team left me."

Sloan also told the Senate's televised Watergate hearings that he does not believe Maurice H. Stans, the Nixon campaign finance chairman, was involved in any illegal activities. Stans has been indicted by a federal grand jury in New York, and has pleaded innocent to conspiracy charges in a fund-raising case.

"I did not and do not believe that Secretary Stans was in any way involved in the criminal activities," Sloan said in discussing the Watergate case. "I thought he had been left holding the bag..."

Sloan said he sought the White House meeting with Haldeman after the Watergate trial last January because he was seeking private employment. He said there seemed to be a lull in the case, that it seemed Watergate "had been gotten away with, that it had stopped with the seven men" who were convicted or pleaded guilty at the trial.

Sloan said people then involved in the Nixon political apparatus were opposed to his views and actions in testifying about campaign payments.

He said he therefore wanted to make clear to Haldeman "why I had done what I had done," and wanted also to be sure there would be no effort at retribution.

"The fear of retribution?" Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., asked Sloan.

"Retribution," Sloan replied.

In testimony prepared for delivery later in the day, Herbert L. Porter, who was director of scheduling during the campaign, said he was not involved in Watergate or the cover-up.

"I have been guilty of a deep sense of loyalty to the President of the United States," Porter said. "At no time did I knowlingly engage in any cover-up of the Watergate burglary. I had no prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary."

Nixon seen taking action on inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon called a Cabinet meeting today amid new signs he is ready to step up the administration's battle against rising prices.

His economic advisers cut short a trip to Paris Wednesday to hurry back to Washington, apparently to work on a new plan to combat inflation.

Against this backdrop, the Labor Department prepared to release the May report on wholesale prices. It will carry more bad news of inflation. One official called the report horrendous.

Nixon has been considering a whole range of anti-inflation options, including a tightening of wage-price controls and new tax measures.

Melvin R. Laird, named as Nixon's new domestic policy chief Wednesday, disclosed the President's plans to meet today with the Cabinet.

Asked if Nixon would take action soon against inflation, Laird said, "I will be making some recommendations."

Laird also told reporters that "those people that are speculating against the dollar are making a grave error that I think they will live to regret."

Space walk rated 50-50 chance

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Rating their chances of success at 50-50, two Skylab astronauts today began a dramatic space walk to try to unjam a solar wing and restore nearly full power to their orbiting laboratory.

Commander Charles Conrad Jr. exited first through an airlock hatch and positioned himself in foot restraints on the side of the vehicle.

Before stepping out, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin passed out tube sections which Conrad assembled into a makeshift handrail which would ease his way to the stuck panel, 25 feet away.

The third crewman, Paul J. Weitz, remained behind in the station to monitor systems and relay Mission Control radio instructions to the spacewalkers.

The astronauts opened the hatch at 11:23 a.m. EDT just before passing out of radio contact. When an Australia station picked them up 20 minutes later, Conrad was outside. Kerwin followed minutes later.

Success of the 270-mile-high space stroll would provide the space station with additional badly needed electrical power and enable Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz to complete a full experiment load during the remaining 14 days of their four-week mission.

Conrad and Kerwin plan to slip outside the station hatch, attached to 60-foot lifelines that feed oxygen and air to their bulky spacesuits.

They plan to extend a 25-foot makeshift handrail, clamping it to the solar wing. Then Conrad is to crawl hand-over-hand and attempt to pry or cut loose an inch-wide aluminum strip that holds the wing firmly against the workshop.

If successful, the commander is to crouch under a rope that has been pulled taut over the same route as the handrail. With the rope on his shoulder, he is to stand up, hopefully raising the 30-foot solar wing beam in a scissors-like motion.

That would free solar cell panels to convert the sun's rays to energy to charge electrical batteries in the station.

They would provide more than 3,000 watts of power, nearly doubling the amount now available in the space station.

Skylab has been short of electricity since a launching mishap May 14 ripped away a protective shield, with a strip of it jamming the solar wing.

"I'm not convinced it's all going to work," said Conrad, who will have the most difficult role.

House votes minimum wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to boost the $1.60 minimum wage to $2 this year and $2.20 in 1974 and to bring government workers and household domestics under the law.

The 287-130 vote that sent the bill to the Senate Wednesday reversed a bitter defeat suffered last year by the House leadership, which has been trying since 1970 to increase the minimum wage.

The votes of newly elected members and rural Democrats who want support later in the session for a farm bill turned the tide in favor of the legislation.

The key vote came on a substitute bill backed by Republicans and Southern Democrats which would have stretched out the proposed increase another year, eliminated the new coverage and set a reduced rate for teen-agers.

The substitute bill was defeated 218 to 199 and its major provisions, offered separately as amendments to the Democratic bill sponsored by Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., were turned back by similar margins.

The Dent bill would raise wage rates for three groups: those covered by the minimum wage before the law was last amended in 1966, those covered by the 1966 amendments, and farm workers.

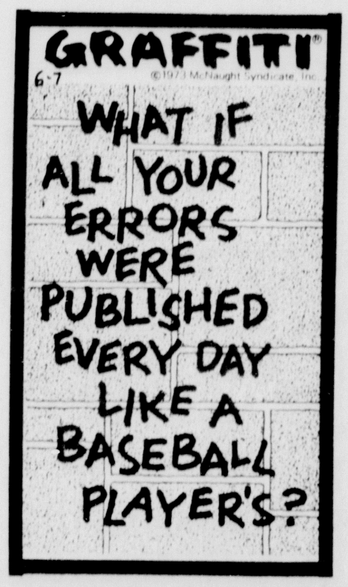

For the first group, the rate would go to $2 upon enactment of the bill and to $2.20 on July, 1974. For the second group it would go to $1.80 this year, $2 next year and $2.20 in 1975.

The 3.3 million state and local government employes, 1.7 million federal workers and 1 million household domestic would get the same rates as the second group.

Farm workers, who now get a minimum of $1.30 an hour, would go to $1.60 this year and then get three annual 20-cent increases, reaching $2.20 in 1976.

The sharpest fight came over the proposal in the coalition bill to permit hiring of teen-age workers at 80 per cent of the minimum during their first six months on the job.

Its proponents said the provision was necessary to overcome high unemployment rates among youths but it was attacked as a device to permit substandard wages. An attempt to add it to the Dent bill was defeated 215 to 199.

96-unit apartment complex announced

A 96-unit apartment complex is being planned for the eastern section of Washington C. H., according to plans announced Wednesday night at a meeting of the Washington Planning Commission.

The complex, consisting of eight 12-unit apartment, is being proposed by American Interstate Corp. of Lebanon.

The apartments are to be located on an 8.4-acre tract at the rear of Washington Senior High School, between a ditch and Washington Square Shopping Center. Entrance to the area will be from Elm Street.

The presentation to the planners was made by W. Blaine Amburgy, corporation president, and Ralph Hughes.

The plans were accepted by the commission, and will be forwarded to City Council for review and approval.

In other action, the commission recommended to City Council that the new subdivision regulations prepared by the Planning Commission with assistance of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development be accepted. The recommendation was made following a public hearing on the regulations. No opposition was entered at the hearing.

The regulations prescribe the arrangement of streets and layout of lots, provide for open spaces, utilities and recreation areas; access to service and emergency vehicles and provide for water, drainage, sewer and other sanitary facilities.

Rhodes set to file for governor's race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Former Ohio Gov. James Rhodes reportedly is set to file petitions seeking a third term.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said Rhodes is prepared to file today.

The Plain Dealer said Rhodes will file the same petitions he tried to file in January. Those petitions were rejected by Secretary of State Ted Brown, who ruled that the Ohio Constitution prohibits a third gubernatorial term.

Wholesale prices soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wholesale price index, a measure of inflation in the economy, took another enormous jump in May, rising 2.1 per cent over April, the Labor Department reported today.

The index showed wholesale prices increasing at an annual rate of 25.2 per cent.

The biggest increases were in farm products which were up 6.1 per cent over April. The general increase in farm prices followed a decline of .2 per cent in April.

The report was more bad economic news for the Nixon administration since it showed prices were not making the mid-year decline that economists had predicted.

Fair weather brings relief from storms

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio weathermen heaved a sigh of relief today and predicted generally fair weather, ending a full month of storms and tornadoes which have swept the state.

May blew into Ohio like a lion, and the National Weather Service in Cleveland estimates that up to 80 tornadoes were reported between May 8 and Wednesday night.

Not all of those sightings were tornadoes. The weather service believes the majority may have been dangling rainstorms or strange cloud formations reported as tornadoes by nervous Ohioans.

The two tornadoes that were reported May 8 touched down briefly near Columbus and on the outskirts of Cleveland with only minor damage, but they were just a taste of what would come.

Two days later, a twister formed in the late afternoon skies near Fosteria, and the first of what would be many funnels reached toward the ground.

Minutes later and 90 miles to the east, the tornado finished its skipping, destructive run with four dead and millions of dollars in property damage. Another person would die days later of injuries suffered when the tornado smashed his home.

Hardest hit was Willard, a small town in Huron County, where the tornado literally leveled three trailer parks, took three lives immediately and caused more than $5 million damage.

The weather service says now it was all one storm, although more than one funnel touched down during the 90 miles. There are indications, too, that more than one funnel attacked Willard.

Since then, Ohio storms have never looked quite the same.

"We don't really know how many of the sightings were really tornadoes," said Bob Hamilton, assistant to the meteorologist-in-charge at the Cleveland office of the National Weather Service.

"We suspect that many were not, because not many have touched down—and it would be unusual for that many to be sighted and so few touch down," he said.

"It's also very difficult to decipher a true funnel cloud," he said.

But the weather service plays a ticklish guessing game when it hears of sightings, he said. If radar confirms a heavy storm in the area—especially if radar receives the tornado-likely "hook echo"—the weather service issues a warning.

House panel delays vote on 18-year-old rights bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today postponed a vote on the so-called age of majority bill after new questions were raised about wills, residencies, and insurance policies.

Chairman Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said the committee will vote next Thursday after it receives more research information from the Legislative Service Commission, factfinding arm of the General Assembly.

Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, testified in "basic support" of the Senate-passed bill but said he felt he should point out questions it leaves unanswered.

The committee had planned to vote today on the measure which became more controversial last week after an amendment was inserted to allow newly-enfranchised voters to buy and drink high-powered beer and hard liquor.

Kurfess said that under the measure, 18-year-olds would be able to inherit estimates and life insurance benefits unless a will stipulated that the heir must be a certain age.

He also raised a question about non-resident tuition at the state universities, and noted that as a legal adult, students no longer would be classified according to the place of residency of their parents. "There would be no uuch thing as a non-resident," Kurfess said.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, is the main sponsor of the bill which died last year in the House as a result of the provision to allow 18-year-olds to purchase beer and liquor.

The measure extends virtually all legal eights to young Ohioans between 18 and 21, including the right to sue and be sued, marry without consent, and enter into credit contracts. About two dozen states have enacted similar laws since 18-year-olds were given the right to vote.

Tax matters occupied the Senate and House Wednesday. Each chamber approved proposed constitutional amendments on taxation which would appear on Ohio's November ballot.

The Senate approved a pair of resolutions that would authorize the legislature to enact property tax relief for the state's financially-troubled farmers and for owners of other property in developing suburban areas that is used for recreational purposes.

Sen. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia, who sponsored both proposals offered a separate amendment for recreational lands after its backers were unable to get it into the farm proposal in the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Both proposals would allow the legislature to authorize taxation of those types of property on the basis of their current use instead of their market value, as now required. Mussey explained that owners of land in growing suburbs must pay higher taxes as a result of nearby shopping centers, housing developments, and industrial sites.

The recreation lands proposal, approved 27-5, now goes to the House. The farm measure, which received a 28-4 tally, must return to the lower chamber for consideration of minor Senate changes.

Those voting against the recreation measure, which Mussey said would help Ohio retain its open spaces, were Sens. Harry Armstrong, R-17 Logan; William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati; Max H. Dennis , R-10 Wilmington; M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, and Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake.

Senate Minority Leader Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, and Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, joined Bowen and Jackson in opposing the farm proposal.

Calabrese dissented after the Senate refused to go along with an amendment which would have combined the two into a single ballot proposition. He said the "combined forces" of the "cornstalk brigade" with areas such as his own big city "silk stocking" district would assure winning the favor of Ohio voters.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Republican-controlled Ohio Senate is now getting down to specifics on how it plans to slash about $100 million from the $9.9 billion budget of Democratic Gov. John Gilligan.

Chairman Max Dennis of the Senate Finance Committee said cuts are likely in the proposed, two-year appropriations of the office of Atty. Gen. William Brown, the Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Mental Health and Retardation, the Environmental Protection Agency, and possibly others.

Kissinger-Tho meeting delayed

PARIS (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger has put off a scheduled morning meeting with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho until this afternoon.

Asked why the second meeting in the current series was delayed, Kissinger said: "There was no particular reason. We just needed more time to prepare something."

Kissinger did not indicate what was being prepared, but it was presumed to be a supplementary document to tighten the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

Kissinger negotiated the new agreement in a week of secret talks last month and resumed the talks Wednesday.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese government announced it would not sign an new truce agreement worked out in Paris. It apparently was trying to forestall any concessions to the Communists by Kissinger.

At the end of Wednesday's 5½-hour meeting, both the U.S. and Hanoi delegations announced they would meet again this morning. No details of the discussions were disclosed, but Hanoi's deputy foreign minister, Nguyen Co Thach, said they went through all the points of the truce agreement, which has remained partly inoperative since it was signed.

The change in the meeting schedule apparently forced Kissinger also to postpone a meeting with French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert, which was to have taken place this afternoon.

Kissinger said he now expects to see Jobert Friday morning, but French officials declined to give any information about the meeting.

When he flew into Paris Tuesday, Kissinger said he would confer with Jobert to "review measures to implement the procedures and purposes" agreed to at the Reykjavik, Iceland, summit between President Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou.

Kissinger said he would confer with Jobert in the same "spirit of friendship and shared objectives" that characterized the Reykjavik summit.

Improving weather moved into Ohio Wednesday night with mostly sunny to partly cloudy conditions expected to prevail over the state Thursday.

There was some dense fog in some sections of Ohio around sunrise, but most burned off quickly after dawn.

No precipitation is expected in the state Thursday, the National Weather Service said.

Temperature readings Thursday morning were mainly in the 50s and are expected to range from the upper 60s and lower 70s during the day, in the vicinity of the cooling waters of Lake Erie, to the upper 70s and lower 80s elsewhere in the state.

Some rainshowers may move into the northern counties late Friday and over most of the remainder of the state on Saturday, with a continued warming trend towards the weekend.

A chance of showers, mainly on Saturday. Highs in the mid and upper 80s and lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Police probe death of Getty's son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say they are trying to learn the circumstances surrounding the death of oil executive George Franklin Getty II, eldest son of billionaire J. Paul Getty.

Police said, however, there was no immediate evidence to indicate foul play in the death of the 48-year-old executive vice president of Getty Oil Co.

Getty, chief operations officer of the firm, was admitted to Queen of Angels Hospital Wednesday morning suffering from a chest injury. He died Wednesday afternoon.

A spokesman for Getty Oil said Getty died of a cerebral hemorrhage, but police investigators said they were awaiting results of an autopsy planned today before determining the cause of death.

Police Lt. Charles Kline said Getty was admitted to the hospital by his physician, Dr. Kendrick Smith, under the name of George S. Davis. Smith told officers the alias was used to avoid publicity.

Kline said Getty apparently suffered the injury at his suburban Bel Air home Tuesday night but refused to say what caused the injury.

The Los Angeles Times said the wound may have been caused by a knife.

"I do not even know if the injury had anything to do with it," Kline said. "We just do not know.

Stocks show healthy gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were considerably higher today, pushed by anticipation of strong new anti-inflationary measures.

But trading was relatively light, indicating a wait-and-see attitude among many investors, analysts said.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 9.18 at 907.36. It had been up over 10. The Dow closed off more than 2 points Wednesday, ending a technical rally that had begun Tuesday but found little positive news to sustain itself.

Advancing Big Board issues had an 8 to 3 lead over decliners today.

President Nixon called a Cabinet meeting today amid signs he is planning to strengthen anti-inflationary controls. But on the negative side, the wholesale price index in May soared to a seasonally adjusted 24 per cent. More banks today announced a hike in their prime rates to 7½ per cent.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .06 at 55.57. Syntex was the Amex volume leader, up 2⅜ at 74⅛.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,500 common shares was up 0.66 at 55.57.

Winnebago was the volume leader on the Big Board in heavy block trading down ⅞ at 5¼.

Mob ran Ohio racetracks, Dayton Daily News says

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton Daily News, in another of a 10-part series on Emprise, the sports concession holding company, today claimed Cleveland crime syndicate money controlled both River Downs and Thistledown race tracks from about 1936 through the 1940s.

"Louis M. Jacobs and his Emprise-Sportservice concession conglomerate grew and expanded in Ohio race tracks hand-in-hand with organized crime," the newspaper said.

During the time gangster money reportedly controlled two major Ohio race tracks, the newspaper continued, "Emprise-Sportservice was a stockholder in both tracks, a moneylender to crime syndicate figures and a participant in underthe-table transactions to conceal the true ownership of the tracks."

The story was the fifth of the copyrighted series by reporters Gene Goltz and Jay Smith, who researched for 10 months.

The story today concentrated on River Downs track at Cincinnati, which the newspaper said was opened July , 1925, by members of the New York mobs.

"There was an unbroken string of questionable ownerships of River Downs from the year it was formed until (A.J.) Andreoli (Akron real estate developer) bought it in 1965," the newspaper said, "a full 30 years in which hidden forces prevailed and naither the public nor the State Racing Commission knewly exactly who owned the track.

"The only other constant factor in this 30-year history was the presence of Emprise-Sportservice, or its predecessor companies and their owners as concessionaire and moneylender."

The paper traced various shifts in ownership from the original owner, William Vincent (Big Bill) Dwyer of New York, through Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer to what the newspaper called the leaders of the Cleveland syndicate, Moe Dalitz, Louis Rothkopf, Morris Kleinman and Sam Tucker.

That was in 1936 and the newspaper commented: "It may have been only coincidence, but the fact is that the two Emprise-Sportservice subsidiaries that had the concessions and loaned millions of dollars to the state's two major race tracks, River Downs and Thistledown, were formed in the same year (1936) that the Cleveland syndicate took over both tracks."

Ralston sues Nabisco for $5.45 million

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ralston Purina Co. has filed a $5.45 million suit against Nabisco, Inc., charging that the firm reneged on an agreement to buy the Ralston plant here.

The suit was filed in St. Louis Circuit Court. In the suit, Ralston contends that Nabisco entered into the agreement to buy the plant after Ralston announced it was dissolving its Checkerboard Food Division here.

The $8.4 million deal was terminated last November. The plant was later sold to Banquet Foods Corp. for about $4 million. Ralston is seeking the difference in the two prices plus maintenance costs.

The city of Wellston made improvements costing more than $1.5 million to its water and sewage facilities to provide services for the new plant.

This included a 325-acre lake to provide a supplemental water supply. The lake, including road relocations, cost more than $800,000. A large part of those funds were provided by the state.

When the plant was dedicated in 1968, it was the largest turkey processing plant in the world. But the demand for turkeys never reached the volume which Purina officials had expected.

Purina attempted to convert the plant to other frozen food products but eventually closed it down. It was idle for a year or more before negotiations got under way for its sale.

High court voids flag case verdict

COLUMBUS, Oho (AP)—An Ohio University youth who sewed an American flag to the seat of his pants did not deface it under Ohio law, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled.

The unanimous decision Wednesday reversed lower courts which had imposed a $200 fine and at one point sentenced Gary D. Kasnett, now 21, to a nine-month jail sentence.

Antioch students ponder long-range plan of action

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP) — Students and faculty at Antioch College met Wednesday to formulate long-term plans for accomplishing their demands for guaranteed financial aid and reinstatement of expelled students and fired faculty.

After a seven-week strike by students failed to get the administration to accept the demands students have decided to consider a tuition strike this summer to push for their five-year guarantee. They have asked the administration to allow peers to judge the students and faculty removed because of alleged strike activity when their appeal hearings come up.

About 150 students and faculty members rallied Wednesday in support of the 20 expelled students and seven fired faculty members. The meeting was low in key, mild in rhetoric and carried no hint that the students may be considering any new offensive.

At an evening meeting about 50 students decided to continue the dispute with the college by encouraging students coming on campus for the summer term to withhold tuition and to continue an information campaign about what the strikers' objectives are.

Students closed the school for almost 50 days until a court injunction last week reopened it. Classes resumed Monday.

Townspeople are carefully watching developments on campus.

The weekly Yellow Springs News, which serves 5,000 residents, wrote in an editorial "Antioch College cannot function with all its present student body, faculty and administration here. People who won't work with those who are left will have to be kicked out."

The administration and students "must begin to work in harmony," the editorial said.

News editor Eleanor Switzer, who has spent 32 of her 58 years in Yellow Springs, said, "If we have to do without Antioch, it would be a great loss.

"The strike has caused a cleavage. People just don't go on campus anymore. There used to be more town-campus interaction.

"I think it's part of the national picture between the 'haves' and 'havenots.' The minorities (recruited in 1970) brought all their feelings and a cleavage of neglect and how they operated in the ghetto, in an atmosphere of distrust," she said.

"I've seen a change from a small school where the honor system worked, where everybody was good friends and neighbors to a place where there just isn't the spirit of community. There isn't a common goal.

"Antioch still has an interest in the oppressed, poor, social minority groups. There isn't an agreement on methods. There isn't a commitment for non-violence," she said.

Realtors want more power for Real Estate Commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives of Ohio's real estate industry want "more clout" for the Ohio Real Estate Commission (OREC) and better education programs to upgrade their profession and protect the public.

Officials from state and local real estate boards made these recommendations Wednesday before a five-member committee appointed by Gov. John Gilligan to examine real estate licensing practices.

Gov. Gilligan named the panel after disclosures that former Republican Gov. James Rhodes and others were given oral and special tests before receiving real estate licenses. The normal exam, administered by the OREC, is a six-hour written test.

The board members recommended the OREC ban all but the written licensing exam for salesmen and brokers, except in cases of physical disability or emergency.

James Spatz, executive vice president of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, said this would eliminate "frivolous" requests for exceptions and guarantees equal treatment.

He said he did not accuse the OREC of wrongdoing, only "poor judgement."

OREC members testified Tuesday they used "discretionary authority" in administering the oral and written examinations.

Almon Smith of Cleveland and Stanley Dybvig of Dayton told the panel their boards have been unable to self-police members because of the OREC's weakness.

State commission members said Tuesday they have been unable to have licenses suspended or revoked. They contend the ineffectiveness is due to a series of assistant attorneys general acting as their counsels.

Opinion And Comment

No more travel curbs

The idea of restricting American citizens' travel to any country where the United States is engaged in armed conflict is now officially championed by the U.S. Passport Office. Its director, Frances G. Knight, has written a letter to Congress endorsing bills which would empower the President to forbid such travel should he choose to do so.

Mrs. Knight's reasoning in support of her position is of interest. "I do not pretend to be a foreign policy expert," she wrote, "but I also think it is important to have the authority to use a restriction on travel as an instrument of foreign policy."

Whether or not she fancies herself as an expert on foreign policy, Mrs. Knight has given some reason to believe she thinks herself qualified to make judgments in the field. She has been accused of injecting her personal views into the passport routine on occasion with respect to individual applicants.

This illustrates the source of one objection to any new curb on travel. This right of citizenship already is circumscribed in various ways. Individual rights of movement should not be made subject to the whim or political views of anyone, not even of the President.

The recent situation in Vietnam illuminates the matter. Whether or not Americans should have been allowed to go to North Vietnam in wartime is a touchy matter on which there are sharp differences of opinion. All could surely agree, though, that had there been a law on the books authorizing the President to forbid such visits, it probably would have been invoked.

That might have curbed some statements against the war; certainly it would have restricted such statements to a less dramatic forum.

Whether that would have been a good or bad thing - whether it would have brought the war to a speedier end, or perhaps lengthened it because certain disclosures about conditions in Vietnam would not have been made - is a question to be debated.

We prefer the risks of free travel and free speech to the risks of an official clampdown on travel, and consequently on inquiry and free speech.

This preference argues against measures to restrict wartime travel.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Admits guilt on Ellsberg

I am not in the habit of doing public penance, but I confess that I am probably responsible for the infliction of Daniel Ellsberg upon the good people of the United States.

You see, overcome with a historian's vested interest, I persuaded President Lyndon Johnson not to kill the "McNamara History," which later achieved notoriety as The Pentagon Papers. In other words, had I been adequately suspicious, there would have been nothing for Ellsberg to leak.

It all began in Saigon in November, 1967, when I accompanied Vice President Humphrey to the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu. President Johnson had asked me to give him my reading on the situation in Vietnam, so I spent most of my time talking to my own sources (who were not necessarily the same men who drafted the cables to Washington).

One of them mentioned to me that the Department of Defense had a flock of characters in town doing historical research. This was interesting: I filed it away until I returned to Washington.

A LITTLE ADDITIONAL espionage revealed that the historical project was being run directly from the Office of the Secretary of Defense under the overall supervision of Deputy Secretary Paul Nitze. So I called Nitze up and inquired what precisely was going on.

He seemed a bit chagrined that I knew about it, but invited me over to meet the director of the project, Dr. Leslie Gelb. We had a long and pleasant conversation in which he described the enterprise as designed to get the materials on Vietnam together before they vanished — particularly items dealing with command and control.

I thought this was an excellent idea and, indeed, offered to provide Gelb with the material on the Diem coup which I had accumulated in the course of my own research (described here recently) on President Kennedy's role. But first, of course, I had to check with the President and get his approval; the White House in those days was not populated by independent operators.

When I took the information to President Johnson, his initial reaction — richly vindicated by subsequent events — was one of profound suspicion. "What are they doing writing history?" he inquired: "They're supposed to be fighting a war."

By this time, it should be noted, the President was profoundly leery of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara, who was to be replaced by Clark Clifford early in 1968. Johnson was convinced — wrongly in my judgment — that McNamara was cabaling with Sen. Robert Kennedy, a conviction that I suspect the latter went out of his way to encourage.

The minute that the news of McNamara's forthcoming resignation came out, for instance, Sen. Kennedy rushed to the Pentagon for a two-or three-hour conference. Of course, they were old friends, but this set President Johnson growling for days.)

AT ANY RATE, the President was unhappy with McNamara's venture into history, and I am sure that had I expressed any doubts about the legitimacy of the operation, he would have picked up the phone and killed it then and there. But I in all innocence weighed in, arguing how useful it would be to have a definitive collation of the relevant documents and citing my own job on the Diem coup as a case in point. He wound up the conversation: "Keep an eye on them."

I subsequently visited Gelb a couple of times and gave him some very hot material on the Diem coup (which, interestingly enough, did not appear in the Pentagon Papers), but the spring and summer of 1968 in Washington gave me little time to "keep an eye on them."

Martin Luther King Jr. was murdered and part of Washington went up in smoke. Robert Kennedy was murdered, and one began to wonder if the United States was becoming a Banana Republic. Meanwhile, over at the Pentagon a group moved in on the McNamara History and converted it into a brief against the government. And that was Ellsberg's launching pad.

I most grievously sinned. May God and the American people have mercy on my soul.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The Bloomingburg PTO would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Donald Woods, president of the Fayette County Bank, Gene Mark of Mark Hybreds, Bill Heinz of Dr. Heinz Company, Inc. and Richard Whiteside, president of the Washington Savings Bank, for their generosity in helping our school buy a piano. Their kindness in buying the side of beef and paying for the tickets used in our project is, to a great extent, responsible for the success of this venture, and surely exemplifies the epitome of local community support.

The children of Fayette County, of course, are the ultimate benefactors of such benevolence. We, as parents, know the education and the enlightenment of our children is "the name of the game". Assistance such as we received in this endeavor is most appreciated.

Thank you for allowing me to say a special thanks to four important members of our Fayette County community.

Morry Gilbert
Chairman of Project,
Bloomingburg PTO

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

To all residents of Fayette County:

If there is one thing that Fayette County has plenty of, it is clubs and organizations. The latest count must be in the hundreds. When you add to these clubs the other activities that are listed for schools and churches, you can understand the difficulty that each club or organization or individual has in finding enough time to schedule activities.

I am sure that you realize that in such a situation it is the group that can exercise the most authority that gets the participation of the individual who has divided loyalties. In such an instance it is easy to see why school and club activities hold an advantage over church activities since they can compel participation in order to fulfill the requirements of membership in such organizations.

The church, founded on the gospel of love, cannot force members to participate, especially when other organizations are vieing for their participation at the same time.

Because of this, the members of the Fayette County Ministerial Association, have requested the schools in this county to refrain from scheduling activities on certain days and certain special dates. However, without the cooperation of the various clubs and organizations, such a request, if honored, would only be partially successful.

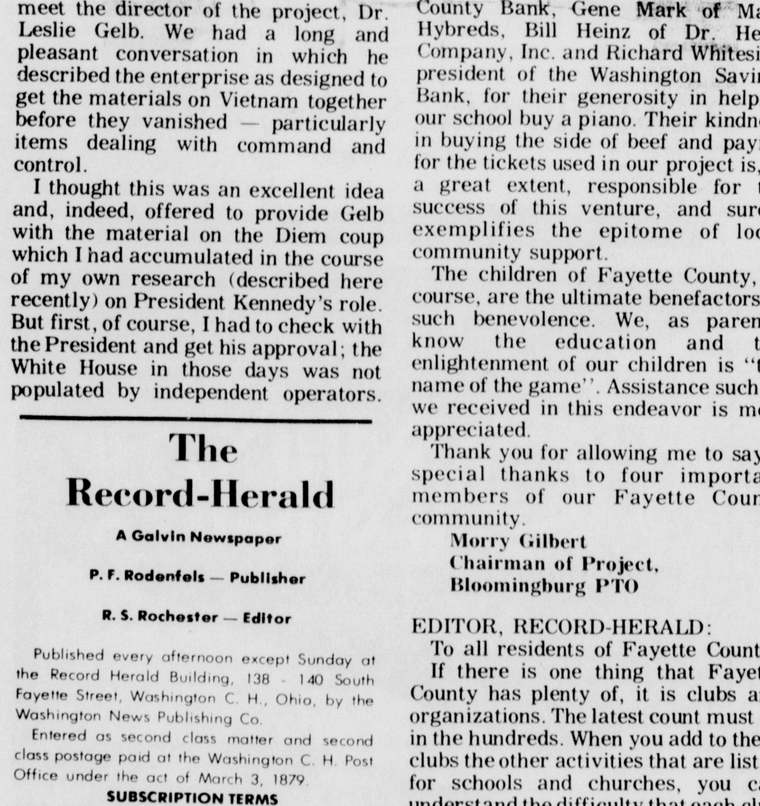

Therefore, we are asking all members of clubs and organizations in Fayette County to exercise whatever influence they have in the planning of their respective clubs' activities to see to it that they do not plan activities on the following days and dates:

1. All day on Sundays and particularly on World Communion Sunday (Oct. 7, 1973).
2. Every Wednesday evening and particularly on Ash Wednesday (Feb. 27, 1973). and Thanksgiving Eve (Nov. 21, 1973).
3. Maundy Thursday and Good Friday (April 11-12, 1973).
4. Christmas Eve.

We solicit your help in this matter and thank you in anticipation of your cooperation.

Elmer E. Burrall

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, June 7, the 158th day of 1973. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, the World War II Battle of Midway ended in a major American victory over the Japanese.

On this date:

In 1654, Louis XIV was crowned king of France at Rheims.

In 1769, Daniel Boone began his exploration of the Kentucky wilderness.

In 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced the first resolution for American independence at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

In 1862, the United States and Britain signed a treaty for suppression of the slave trade.

In 1940, in World War II, organized resistance against German invaders ended in Norway after 62 days of bitter fighting.

Ten years ago: The United Nations announced that a long-delayed peacekeeping operation in the Red Sea country of Yemen would begin immediately.

Five years ago: A Los Angeles County grand jury indicted Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for murder in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Hal Boyle . . . The art of double talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost everyone denies he ever uses double talk, but everyone — without exception — does.

Double talk is merely saying one thing while your mind is thinking the opposite. That enables one to keep order in the world while retaining one's own inner common sense and sanity.

Here are a few common examples of double talk in action. What the person said is in quotes. It is followed in each case by what he actually thought.

"Considering the future value of this property, your offer is an insult." — But if it's in cash, I'll take the insult.

"I've never been out with a bird-watching group before. It's quite interesting." — Imagine, not even one good looking girl in the crowd!

"Yes, I believe I've seen you in the supermarket now and then." — You're the pig who tried to shove ahead of me in the checkout line yesterday.

"Oh, well, there are worse things than turning 40." — Yeah, like turning 80, 90 and 100.

"Yes, there's no doubt that your dieting did you a lot of good." — They could park you in a field now and use you as a scarecrow.

"Just as you say, there are some things even all her money can't buy." — But with all the things she's got, what does she want with the other things anyway?

"Would you really divorce me if you ever caught me cheating on you?" — If I were sure you would, I'd quit being so careful.

"We wouldn't have felt right, Hortense, if we had named the baby after any other aunt than you." — So isn't it about time you made out a new will, Aunty dear?"

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Victim would rather not testify in court

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, while my husband was in the service, a man broke into my apartment and attacked me sexually. He had a knife and I was terrified so I made no effort to stop him.

Now my husband is home. Two weeks ago I received word that they caught the man, and I am subpoenaed to testify. It was dark and the man wore a mask, so I wouldn't recognize him if I saw him. This man assaulted several other women, so I am not the only witness available.

I can't see what possible good my testimony would do. I am a very nervous person and this whole thing has upset me terribly.

My husband knew that a man had broke in, but I didn't tell him any of the details as I didn't want to upset him.

Abby, I don't want my husband in the courtroom, but he insists upon being there. Is there some way I can get out of testifying? It's not just having my husband there, it's having to talk about what happened in front of other people in a courtroom. I'm sorry now I called the police.

I'm 21, and should probably have a move mature attitude, but I can't help how I feel. Please help me.

NO NAME PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: You must appear in court when subpoenaed or you would be cited for contempt of court. You can, however, ask the prosecutor to ask the judge to clear the court-room while you are testifying. Unless the defendant's attorney objects to this procedure (and he is not likely to object in a sex case) the court will be cleared of everyone except the judge, the lawyers, the witnesses, and the defendant. That should take care of your problem.

DEAR ABBY: When traveling by plane, I invariably get the seat directly in front of a child who repeatedly kicks the seat in front of him. His mother can be sitting right beside him, but she seems unconcerned. Dirty looks don't help.

Should I ask the mother to please tell her child to stop kicking me, or ask the child to please stop it?

IRKED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR IRKED: Ask the stewardress to handle it and you'll have no kick coming.

DEAR ABBY: You told a mother whose daughters needed to wear bras but refused to "drop the whole thing." Well, if they don't wear bras, that's exactly what will happen. The "whole thing" will drop.

For proof, one need only to look at pictures of the women in African tribes who never wore brassieres. The American Medical Society even came out with a statement saying that the ligaments which hold the breasts firm and erect will stretch unless properly supported, and once the breasts sag, the damage is permanent.

I have put that message into verse:

"I think it is scandalous
What things should be so pendulous.
If a woman's a rag, a hank of hair, and a hone
Let the 'rag' be a bra-for better muscle tone."

Dear Mr. Becker: I have a sad story to tell you. I was playing with my spouse in a mixed pair event and got to four hearts. As anyone can plainly see, there was no way in the world for me to go down, since my only losers were a trump, a diamond and a club.

But I did go down, and furthermore I was the only one in the room who failed to make four hearts.

You see, there was this Little Old Lady on my left — the kind you're always writing about in the column — who, by hook or crook, manages to make mincemeat our of the experts. Her opening lead, believe it or not, was the king of clubs!

I won with the ace and led a trump, whereupon the LOL on my left took the ace and returned the jack of clubs. I covered with the queen, which East ruffed, and East returned a spade. There was no way for me to avoid losing a diamond and another club, and I wound up with a cold zero on the hand. hand.

When the session was over and my dear spouse learned that I was the only one in the tournament to miss four hearts, she vowed never to play with me again. I tried to explain there was nothing I could have done under the circumstances, but my wife is by nature a pragmatist and holds me personally responsible for the outcome of the hand. Is there any advice you can give me? Sincerely, Constant Reader.

Dear C.R.: I have no idea what you should do about getting your wife to resume playing with you again, but I would like to suggest that as a matter of self-protection you stop playing bridge against the Little Old Ladies.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The CBS Television network says it has hired two noted educators, Drs. Gordon Berry and Roger Fransecky, as consultants on children's programming.

The duo, described by CBS as specialists in educational planning for children, say they'll advise CBS in all aspects, from concepts to commercial content.

However, their appointment draws only a cool wait-and-see attitude from the highly vocal group called Action for Children's Television (ACT), a Massachusetts-based citizens' organization.

The group recently asked the Federal Communications Commission to ban all commercials from kid shows on television.

"I see it (the Berry-Fransecky appointment) as an interesting sign," said ACT's executive director, Mrs. Evelyn Sarson. That was her only comment.

Fransecky, of the University of Cincinnati, said he felt it wasn't feasible for a commercial network to air children's shows without advertising because of the cost of the shows.

CBS says the average cost of each half-hour animated program—it has nine in its Saturday morning lineup next fall— is $60,000.

Berry, of UCLA, declined to say if he thought commercialless kid shows feasible because "I really do not feel competent at this point to deal with the economic question.

Last season Berry headed a panel of educators that advised on comedian Bill Cosby's "Fat Albert" cartoon series on CBS.

Fransecky said he feels that he and Berry, as CBS consultants, must study the "total package" of children's programming, including "how we cluster commercials, how we plan them, where they fit.

"I think it transcends the issue of 'commercials yes, commercials no,' and it gets at the issue that in one sense is a fact of life of the medium," he said.

Both educators said their work would include conferring with producers and writers of children's programs, looking at their scripts and proposals, and sending critiques and suggestions to CBS.

And, as Fransecky put it, neither of them intends to be the type of consultant "who blows in, blows off and blows out."

Small claims suits cost less in London

LONDON (AP) — A project has been inaugurated for people who cannot afford to take small claims to court. A special court has been established by the Westminster Law Society Committee to deal with complaints from consumers who feel they've had a raw deal.

A spokesman for the committee said more people now will be afforded the opportunity to bring their complaints to court without incurring huge expenses. Only an initial fee of $12 will be required to cover legal costs.

Alpha Theta discusses summer activities

Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met in the home of Mrs. Clyde Cramer for the final business meeting of the year before adjourning for the summer. A jewel pin ceremony for Mrs. Fred Bernier was conducted by Mrs. Glenn Smith and Mrs. John Skinner.

Outgoing president Mrs. Smith presented the president's gavel and the president's gavel guard for her pin to Mrs. Cramer.

Various activities and projects were discussed for the coming year. Mrs. John Gall, social chairman, reported on summer activities that had been planned for the group. Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, ways and means committee chairman, announced that the group will again be taking part in the Farmer's Market to be held during Old Fashioned Bargain Davs in August.

Philanthropic chairman Mrs. Roger Thompson reminded the group that the American Red Cross Blood Bank will be held June 29 in First Christian Church. The sorority will be sponsoring the visit this month and will be recruiting donors. Also discussed were plans to sponsor the ESA Million Dollar Bike Ride in August to benefit St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Ron Ratliff. A dessert course was served to Mrs. Ray Loudner, Mrs. Ron Hoxsie, Mrs. John Gall, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Tom Rankin, Mrs. Paul Cox, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. John Bernard, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Mike Vrettos, Mrs. Bernier, Mrs. Don Gibbs, Mrs. John Skinner, Mrs. Jack Merriman and Mrs. John Morris.

Wedding plans complete

Miss Karen Brekke, bride-elect of Rodger Lee Whaley, has completed plans for their wedding to be at noon Saturday in St. Sebastian Church in Akron. Miss Brekke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Brekke of Akron. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whaley of 1114 N. North St. are the parents of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Brekke has asked Mrs. Mike Gribler of Westerville to be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be the Misses Karla and Mollie Brekke, sisters of the bride-elect; Miss Pat Campbell of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Eric Hiffrichter of Cleveland.

Joe Keefer of Birmingham, Ala., will serve as best man. The ushers will be Paul Brekke, brother of the bride-elect; Mike Gribler of Westerville; Bart Mahoney of Columbus, and Jeff Fetters of Washington C.H., a cousin of the prospective groom.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception will be held in the University Club at the University of Akron.

The evening preceding the wedding, the parents of Mr. Whaley will entertain the rehearsal dinner at Tangiers Restaurant in Akron.

Lioness Club welcomes new members

Mrs. Carmen Frogale and Mrs. Michael Riggilo were welcomed as new members of the Lioness Club Tuesday evening when the group met at the

MRS. PAUL V. JOHNSON

Country Club. Mrs. James (Rosalyn Marting) Osburn was a guest.

Mrs. Paul V. Johnson, newly-installed president, conducted the meeting. Committee reports were made. Mrs. Warren Craig led the salute to the flag and devotions.

Mrs. Earl Hartley was in charge of the program and presented slides of Sweden and Norway, taken on a recent trip.

The committee for the evening was composed of Mrs. William Allen, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Wiley Witherspoon and Mrs. James McCoy.

Mrs. Stevens is TOPS queen

Mrs. Forrest Stevens was named best loser of the week and "queen" for the week at the TOPS 669 chapter meeting in Eastside School Monday night. Mrs. Beryl Smith called the meeting to order and Mrs. Ronald Burns led members in songs.

Roll call was made by Mrs. Robert Alkire, weight recorder, with 28 present.

Miss Betty McNeill was again the best loser in the officers division. Two new goalies, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Herbert Jones, were announced for being within 10 pounds of reaching their goal.

The recent contest ended and an auction was announced for June 11, using the contest points won to bid.

Mrs. Smith urged all members to attend next weeks with a loss of weight. She closed the meeting with the thought "When you lose-you win with TOPS."

Mrs. Hunter leaves for London, England

Mrs. Mary Jo Hunter, of 315 E. East St. left Wednesday afternoon from Port Columbus for London, England, for a three-week visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter. Mrs. Hunter is the former Ruth Binegar.

While in England, she will also tour other places of interest and spend five days in Paris, France.

Bridal shower is given for Mrs. Clay

The bride opened many gifts, and prizes were won by Mrs. William Copeland, Mrs. Wilma McBrayer and Miss Sherry Mustain, who in turn presented them to the honor guest.

Wedding cake, mints, nuts and punch were served to the guests. The table was decorated with yellow streamers and a floral arrangement in a casserole, which was presented to the guest of honor.

Invited were Mrs. William Copeland and Mrs. Dixie Clay, mothers of the newlyweds; Mrs. Mildred Copeland; Mrs. Helen Yahn; Mrs. Irene Clay; Mrs. Oatis Chaney; Mrs. Bob Kelley; Mrs. Jay Smith; Mrs. Jeff Kelley; Mrs. Phyllis Mustain; Miss Mustain; Mrs. Betty Chaney; Mrs. Tom Massie; Mrs. Hubert East; Mrs. Wayne Johnson; Mrs. Kenneth Chaney; Mrs. Louise Penwell; Joni Copeland; Roxie Clay; Sherry Penwell; Mrs. Bob Moore; Mrs. Gwen Clay; Mrs. Peggy Self; Mrs. Betty Clay; Penny Curry; Mrs. Diana Kitchen; Mrs. Shirley Clay; Mrs. Donnabell Cormier; Mrs. Kent Self; Mrs. Marty Self; Mrs. Wilma McBrayer; Denise McBrayer and the hostesses.

Brigitte Bardot retires from films

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot, the onetime sex kitten of the screen, has announced her retirement from films, saying: "I have had enough."

The 38-year-old Miss Bardot told an interviewer Wednesday that her only plans for the future are to "start to live."

Couple wed in garden ceremony

Miss Anita Kay Stoll and Mr. W.B. Clapham Jr. exchanged wedding vows at 5 p.m. Saturday at Governor's Lodge near Waverly. The outdoor wedding was accented by baskets of multi-colored spring flowers carried by the bride and her attendants.

In keeping with the simplicity of the setting, the bride chose a dress of cream colored linen trimmed with tatting.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Waid C. Radford of Beaver. The vows which the couple exchanged included readings from Kahil Gibran and Shakespeare as well as writings of their own.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Stoll of Piketon. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse White of New Holland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Clapham Sr. of Yarmouth Port, Mass.

The attendants included Mrs. James A. VanDyke of Akron and Mrs. Daniel W. Gayhart of Cincinnati, sister of the bride. The best man was Dr. Robert Howes of Norman, Okla.

For the informal garden wedding, the bride's mother wore a floor length Hawaiian print dress. The mother of the groom wore a floor length dress of powder blue and white chiffon. Both mothers wore corsages of white phalaenopsis orchids.

The bride graduated from Wilmington College, Indiana University, and Case Western Reserve University. She is at present an associate professor of romance languages at Cleveland State University.

The groom is a graduate of Amherst College and the University of Chicago. He is an assistant professor of geology at Case Western Reserve University.

They are making their home at Cleveland Heights.

The reception following the wedding was held on the patio.

Out of town guests were from: Oklahoma, South Carolina, Massachusetts, Cleveland, Akron, New Holland, Washington C.H., Toledo, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Beta Omega has meeting

The Beta Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Everhart Monday night. The meeting was preceded by a jewel pinning ceremony. Mrs. Dennis Hagler and Mrs. Loretta George conducted the ceremony and presented the jewel pin to Mrs. Wayne Clark. Mrs. Hagler then presented the president's gavel to Mrs. George who conducted the business meeting.

Newly-elected officers gave their reports for the coming year. The chapter decided to collect toys for the needy for Christmas, maintain their standard philanthropic projects, have a Halloween dance, and participate in a sandwich concession at Old Fashioned Bargain Days in August.

For a summer project, the chapter will consider sponsoring the Blood Bank for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Clark was elected treasurer for the year. The next meeting is planned for Aug. 27, with the place to be announced.

Present were Mrs. Doug Dye, Mrs. Everhart, Mrs. George, Mrs. Hagler, Mrs. Harry Haines, Mrs. Ralph Leeds, Mrs. Garry McMurray, Mrs. Gilbert Whiteside and Mrs. Clark.

BPW committee organizes

The bulletin committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club held an organizational meeting Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Wilbert Hall. Mrs. Richard Barger was appointed secretary.

Those present were Mrs. Mildred Henkleman; Mrs. Hugh Morris, co-chairman; Mrs. Phyllis Denen; Mrs. Fred Shoop; Mrs. Glenn Merritt; Mrs. Russell Oberschlake; Mrs. Barger, and Mrs. Donald Hanes, president; and Mrs. Chester Dean, public relations.

Refreshments were served.

If you are making rice salad, cook the rice until very soft. This way the rice will not harden when the salad is chilled.

Retired librarian is honored

Mrs. Paul (Gladys) Strevey, former director of the Carnegie Public Library who retired April 1, was honored by her colleagues at the June meeting of Southwestern Ohio Rural Libraries (SWORL) held in Hillsboro on Friday.

Directors and staff members from libraries in the seven-county area encompassed by SWORL took part in the program which was arranged by Mary Current, librarian at the Mary L. Cook Library in Waynesville.

In a clever "This Is Your Life" format, Mrs. Strevey was showered with a series of unusual "Gifts" designed to help her in the pursuit of her gardening hobby. She was then presented with an antique rose plate commemorating the beautiful roses she grows in her garden at 524 Rawlings St.

Those present from the Carnegie Library included Kristine Amsbary, librarian, and staff members Jeanette Coffey and Martha Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Strevey were also recent guests of honor at a dinner held at the Terrace Lounge and attended by library staff members and their husbands. An oil painting by Leesburg artist Evelyn Pierson was presented to Mrs. Strevey from staff members and the Library Board of Trustees in appreciation for her 13 years of service.

Mansion decorated to benefit Boys' Club

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A mansion is likely to be nothing more than a building with more rooms than the ordinary house, in spite of awe stirred by the word.

It's how it is decorated that counts, as observed in viewing a decorator show house in Manhattan, the 50-or-so-room Park Avenue mansion of the late Gerrish Milliken. The house is open to the public for the benefit of the Kips Bay Boys' Club.

Nineteen interior designers invited to participate in decorating the rooms of the show house were not restricted to a theme. They went all-out in their ideas for graphics, fabric, paint, even painting interesting patterns on the floors and ceilings.

Truckloads of furniture were moved in, much of it slipcovered and upholstered to carry out the decorating scheme of the rooms. Many things were for sale.

At the finish line, the ladies' committee was in a state of exhilaration and exhaustion as their five months of work neared a fruitful end. "I don't think I've worked so hard in my life," said Mrs. Charles Hollerith Jr., head of the ladies' committee, as she directed workmen, photographers and delivery men in the last minute arrangements. The committee hopes to raise enough money to build an Olympic-sized swimming pool for the boys' club.

THERE ARE many ideas in the showcase home for the decorator. For example:

. . .Ellen McCluskey used a mirror-like material on the ceiling to make a morning room look far larger. It reflected not only a wrought iron fencing, but the interesting wall treatment — a painted graphic in gray, black, pink and white and a white metal Victorian settee. Real-looking life-size lambs were to sit on, but they were priced in tune with current meat prices — high, but very.

. . . David Barrett did his usual innovative thing, turning a somber, utilitarian city kitchen into a countrified atmosphere with a few sparks of intrigue — color and some homey touches.

An immense room with its huge black stove, painted vegetables and fruits over the sink, it featured a painted rug in a zig-zag pattern with fringe and tassels on the floor.

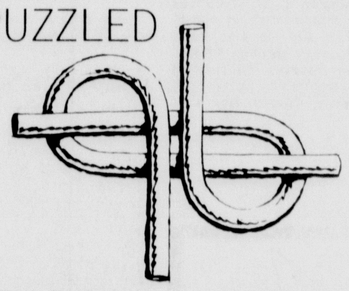

A freehand painting of a cat and a broom was near the floor on a wall. The long harvest table and lots of plants and wooden bowls filled with fruit gave the kitchen a lift.

. . . Priscilla Gillon Ulmann may have answered the question of what to do with that big old pool table. Cover it with a see-through plastic to double as a dining table, as she did, and the cover will be removable when you want to play a game. Although the room she decorated had been a game room, addition of the top was a decorating coup. The walls were painted burgundy and racing prints and horse prints were placed around the room. A Tibertan multicolored rug provided the floor accent.

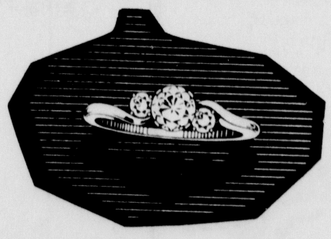

. . . George Clarkson's bright white party dining room had a number of small see-through tables, a jute-type carpet of black and white tweedy squares, and a large, modern sculpture that resembled twisted white inner tubes.

TAILORETTES 4-H

"Tailor Tacks" was the title of Robin Breakall's demonstration when the Tailorettes 4-H Club met in the home of Mrs. Maynard Dowler, adviser. Robin told when and why tailor tacks are to be used in making a garmet.

Dinae Martindale gave a health report entitled "How to keep children out of drugs." She stated various ways to prevent children from getting into harmful things.

Mrs. Dowler checked the progress members made on their projects. Mary Ann and Susan Wilson served refreshments and Tracy Oesterle led recreation.

At the next meeting the club will make further plans for the trip to Kings Island. Lenora Slaven was assigned a sewing demonstration.

New Holland CF Girls have project

As a community project, the New Holland Camp Fire Girls are selling refreshments at the Little League baseball games. The money will be used to repair some of the facilities at the New Holland Community Park.

Games are held each Tuesday and Friday through July 17.

JUNIOR LEADERSHIP

The May 23rd meeting of the Junior Leadership Club was called to order by president Denny Newbrey. The pledges were led by Jim Noble. After the minutes were read, a balance of $843.87 was reported in the treasury. Since the people who took the Citizenship Short Course required a large amount of money, suggestions for a money-making project were heard.

The trip participants for 1973 were announced and Mrs. Jack Sommers explained how they were chosen. There will be a Labor Day Retreat on September 22 at Camp Clifton. The meeting was adjourned by Brenda Finley and Patty Pollard.

Following the meeting, Dwight Crum presented a program on venereal disease. After telling about the disease, he showed slides and a movie, and answered questions.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

Slides of the 1972 Ohio 4-H Fashion Board was the program given by Julie Frost for the Jolly Jills club meeting. These were narrated on a casette tapeplayer by Orena Haynes and Norma Deyo. The slides showed different ways to spark-up an outfit through pattern changes, coordination and accessories.

Jill Cory gave a demonstration called "Soaps and Detergents." She explained that there are two basic types of soaps and detergents. They are heavy and light duty. The kind used depends on cleaning factors such as amount of soil, temperature of water, and fabric.

"Modeling with a Purse" was the title of Julie Frost's demonstration in which she showed various ways to carry shoulder bags, clutch purses and regular handbags while modeling.

Counterdose charts for overdoses and poisons were passed out to members when Debbie Tice reported on "Poisons." These charts are to be pasted inside the medicine chests in the members' homes.

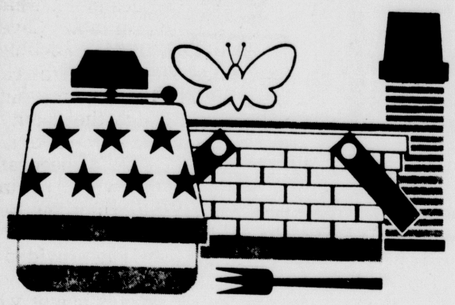

Julie Cory told of the importance of calcium for the body in her health report titled "Calcium." This mineral is essential for proper formation of bones and teeth.

Mrs. Meredith asked members to try to have their projects finished by the July 10 project completion meeting and cookout. Home furnishing projects will be judged June 13 and clothing June 18 and 19.

The next meeting will be the Mothers' Tea at Bloomingburg Town Hall. Invitations to this will be received through the mail.

Following adjournment, the social committee consisting of Debbie Krupla, Bridget Meredith and Debbie Tice, served refreshments.

For foreign investors:

American stocks are hot items

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market scene seems to bore Americans almost as much as those summer television reruns, foreign investors are acting as if they've had a preview of things to come.

They are buying, that is, at a time when a large segment of the American public is ignoring the market. And when any investor buys he either thinks or hopes that prices will rise.

The purchases are somewhat anomalous in that foreigners in other ways are proclaiming their distrust of the American economy, or perhaps of American political leadership, and are selling dollars feverishly. But they are buying stocks.

In the first quarter of the year the net total of foreign purchases — sales deducted from purchases — probably exceeded $1 billion.

This figure was more than double the net total of purchases at the like time a year earlier, when the market was rising rather than falling, as it is now.

While the domestic boredom with stocks is blamed on various factors — such as capital gains taxes, low dividend rates, Wall Street disorganization and customer distrust, to name a few — the foreign interest is attributed to value.

Whether these values are real or imagined is an outcome that nobody can forecast, but when you look at some of the facts on which foreign decisions are made you have to agree that they seem sound.

For instance, as Chase Manhattan Bank notes in its biweekly "International Finance," since 1970 the dollar has depreciated by an average of 17 per cent against currencies of Germany, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Canada, Britain and Japan.

That means an added price reduction on American stocks, some of which already are discounted to their lowest prices in years when matched against their ascending earnings. The principal foreign investors, says Chase, have been institutions, "investment trusts and some banks in Japan, and, in the case of Europe, chiefly banks buying for managed accounts."

The American markets provide these institutions with large supplies of stock.

What are they buying? Despite the wide choices available, Chase quotes an international brokerage house specialist as saying they've been concentrating in high-quality growth stocks such as Eastman Kodak, Polaroid, Xerox and IBM.

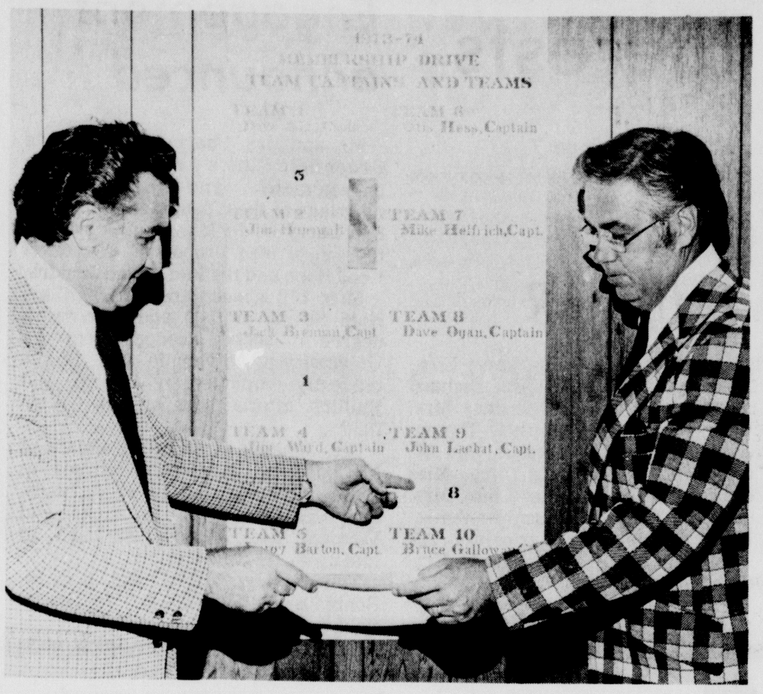

While Chase explains that these are among the American companies with global interests and internationally recognized products, they are also among the preferred choices of many American institutions also.

Will the trend continue? Chase believes it will. It states that a number of positive factors encourages this view, including a lower U.S. inflation rate than in many countries and rising corporate profits.

Ohio prison system to be computerized

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $550,000 grant in federal Omnibus Crime Control funds has been awarded to the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction for a computerized correctional information system.

The system will consist of one central data bank with input terminals at each correctional facility and will provide information to diagnose and prescribe treatment programs for inmates.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE — The annual three-day Chamber of Commerce membership drive was kicked off Wednesday morning. Ten teams are competing to obtain the most memberships. The Past Presidents' Team headed by David Six, right, has issued a challenge to any three other teams. At the first report meeting the Presidents were in second place. The team with John Lachat as captain was in first place. Fred L. Domenico, left, newly elected Chamber president, is a member of Lachat's team.

Abortion clinic to open in Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Miami, Fla., man plans to open Cincinnati's first abortion clinic later this month.

Operators of such a clinic in nearby Covington, Ky., meanwhile, have appealed a courtordered eviction.

Sean Gunning, 23, said he now operates clinics in Miami and Clearwater, Fla. He plans clinics also in Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala. He expects the new Cincinnati Women's Services clinic to open here July 16 or 23, depending when the building is ready, he said.

Joe Blaine, operator of an abortion clinic in Covington, Ky., called "Choice," has filed an appeal to an eviction notice issued in Kenton County Court last week.

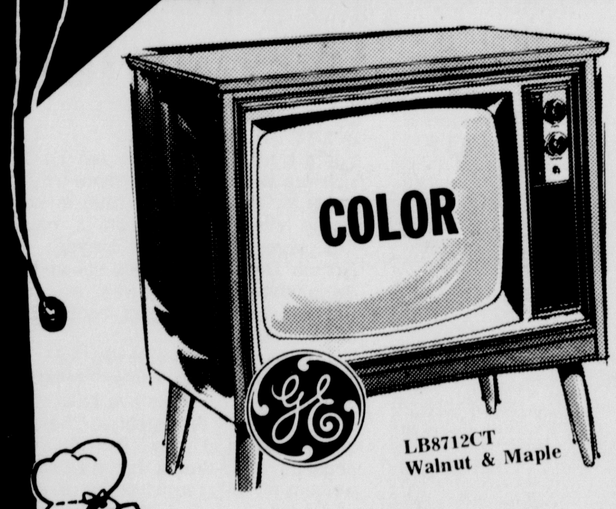

An automatic electric sump pump in a basement will eliminate excess water, but is designed only to prevent flood conditions not to cure the cause of them.

Tuscarawas County site of Ohio's first village

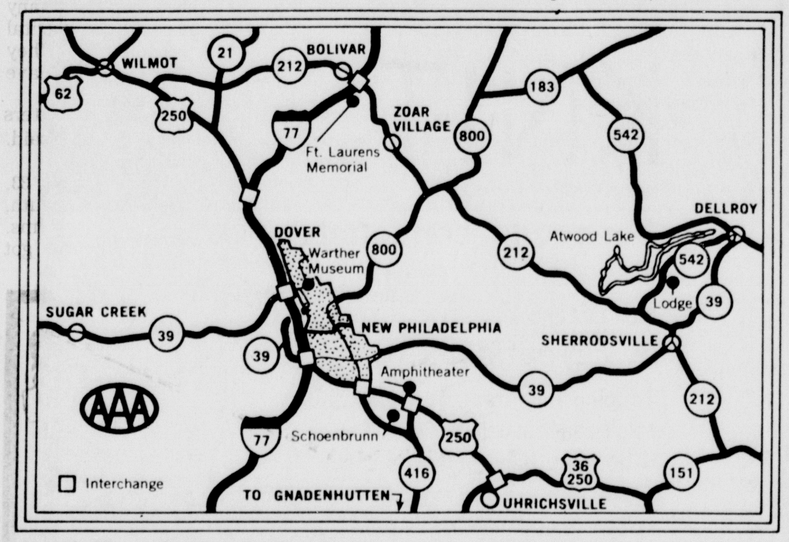

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio attractions prepared by the Fayette County Automobile Club for The Record-Herald.

Tuscarawas County is eastern Ohio, rich in Revolutionary War history and tradition, highlights this week's AAA tour.

Zoar Village State Memorial is a center of attraction and the center of what was Zoar Community for 81 years, where citizens worked and Warther once labored, also are special attractions.

The first Ohio village was founded in 1772 and Schoenbrunn Village State Memorial marks the site in New Philadelphia. Hard working Moravian missionaries built 60 cabins and constructed the first church and school house west of the Alleghenies. The village was abandoned in 1777 because of the Revolutionary War.

LOCATED NEARBY is the Trumpet in the Land amphitheatre, home for the shared alike under their leader, Joseph Baumler, from 1817 to 1898.

Several points of interest include the restoration of Baumler's palatial home, the community's number one house, a bakery, tin shop, garden house and Bimeler Museum containing historical material of the period.

The community garden, geometrically patterned to symbolize the New Jerusalem, is maintained in almost its original form.

Featured at nearby Dover are the works of master woodcarver Ernest Warther in the museum hearing his name. Working models of locomotives and the Dover steel mill, where historical drama which unfolds the story of Schoenbrunn. The amphitheatre has a seating capacity of 1,650 and was built with state funds.

Another tourist attraction, especially for the women, is Rena Poteet's miniature rooms. It's a collection of hand-carved to scale of rooms and furniture. It's located in New Philadelphia and is open May through September with an admission charge.

Atwood Lake Lodge and vacation cabins are located on the 4,365-acre lake east of New Philadelphia on Ohio Rt. 542. Swimming, golf, camping and other recreational activities are available.

Gnadenhutten, south of New Philadelphia, was the scene of the massacre of 96 Christian Indians in 1782. A memorial and museum are located there.

Also located there today is Indian Valley South High School whose basketball team won the Ohio Class A championship in 1972 and was runner up in 1973, its lone defeat in the state finals ending a 51-game winning streak.

AAA suggests this route to the tour area: From Washington C. H. go to Columbus and take the Southern Outerbelt I-270 east to I-70 and continue east on I-70 to I-77 (just beyond Cambridge), then go north on I-77 to New Philadelphia and the touring area.

Reality returns to lives of ex-POWs

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

American prisoners of war are deep into their special period of adjustment these days: from a world filled with loneliness and dreams to one crowded with decisions and problems.

The excitement and whirlwind of events since their homecoming are fading.

In the weeks after release, most of the 566 POWs plunged into speech-making, answering fan mail, headlining parades, visiting the White House and throwing out baseballs.

At the same time, after years of deprivation, they were showered with all sorts of gifts from cars to junkets to wristwatches.

It was, as one wife put it, a time for doing everything yesterday.

Now reality is closing in.

There are the lingering problems of rebuilding lives with wives and children. There are adjustments to the sometimes drastic changes in American lifestyles. There are decisions about the future.

A survey shows most of the former POWs are adapting to the changes. Some even say it has been easy.

"It's no worse than coming back from a nine-month cruise as far as readjustment," said Navy Cmdr. Richard A. Stratton, 41, of Palo Alto, Calif., a prisoner for six years. The father of three sons added:

"Maybe I'm riding for a fall I don't know. Any problems are just minor. Like I don't like the way one of my sons holds his fork, so we're changing it. Petty stuff like that. My biggest adjustment is to California drivers...they seem as dangerous as the enemy."

Others, such at Lt. Cmdr. Michael Christian and his wife of Virginia Beach, Va., take a different view.

"You can't take a family — the father and mother — and put them into two different worlds for so many years and not have adjustments," said Mrs. Christian, the mother of three, whose husband was listed as missing for three of the six years he was a POW.

"The big adjustment for us was Mike's wanting to go so fast. I can remember saying 'Let's just take it easy and do one thing at a time.' And he replied, 'Don't say that to me, that's what the North Vietnamese said to us.'"

In general, the men say they are in good health. Some have had corrective surgery because of torture or lack of medical attention in prison. Practically all have undergone dental work.

Dr. Richard S. Wilbur, the Pentagon's health chief, said preliminary figures on various forms of disease and injury found by military doctors who examined the POWs in U.S. hospitals showed nearly one-third, mostly pilots, had suffered major fractures.

Wilbur also said more than 53 per cent of the prisoners came back with worms that led to malnutrition and anemia.

He said the men would be advised and watched for five years to try to avoid a repetition of the high violent death rate experienced by some U.S. POWs after World War II and Korea.

Wilbur said the Vietnam prisoners have experienced "a lot of difficulty in moving back into their families." He said the returned prisoner often found that his family had been "getting along pretty well without him."

In his statement Friday, Wilbur specifically cited the possibility of suicide.

On Sunday, Air Force Capt. Edward A. Brudno was found dead in Harrison, N.Y. Police called him a suicide.

Brudno had been among the first group of POWs to return home but never held a press conference.

The majority of men have chosen to remain in the service, at least for the time being. Of 101 POWs interviewed in the last few weeks, eight said they were leaving the military and four were undecided. About 80 per cent of the men expressed interest in pursuing their education.

At least four POWs learned on return that their wives had died during the years. Some found they had lost a mother, father, brother or sister.

For others tragedy awaited.

Lt. Col. Armand J. Myers returned to his wife and 14-yearold son Randy in Dallas, Tex., after more than 6½ years in a prison camp. Less than two months later, his son was killed in a sand dune cave-in.

At his homecoming, Myers had said of his son, "I left a small boy, he was a very sweet and docile boy. And when I came back I looked up to a 6-foot-2 bright, mature young man and from what I've seen so far I'm real proud."

The wife of another officer says her problem is getting her husband to change clothes.

"And he was the kind of man who (before he was taken prisoner) would change shirts every two hours" she said.

"He takes them off at night and carefully folds them up. He hangs his slacks up ever so neatly. But he doesn't want me to take them away to wash. I have to sneak them to the hamper.

"He himself has analyzed this as some sort of psychological reaction, and so is slowly improving" said the woman, who asked to remain anonymous.

Most POWs said they'd had some problem with their children. For some it was long hair; for others it was the kids' not meeting expectations. Most said it was simply a question of getting to know young adults who were children when they left.

"Of course, there have been problems. My children have lived 7 years and 4 months without me. They don't know me. It takes a while to get to know people after a separation like that. And they have to get used to seeing me around, to having someone else in the house," said Cmdr. Theodore F. Kopma of Lemoore Naval Air Station in California.

Perhaps the most publicized problem of the POWs has concerned marriage.

Ninety-three of the POWs interviewed were married when they left for Vietnam. Of these, 14 have been divorced, one is separated and nine said their marriages were in trouble.

The men's views on marriage vary. "We've had no marital problems. We never did before," said Air Force Maj. Arthur Burer of Rockville, Md., a POW for seven years. "I've come back to a woman's who's much more mature. I don't think enough praise has been given to what our wives have done. I think if you had a good marriage to start with, a good woman to start with, then she hung on...."

Navy Capt. William P. Lawrence of Nashville, Tenn., a POW for six years, came home to find his wife had divorced him in 1971 and re-married.

"Of course the divorce was a shock. I guess there were some signs available to me ahead of time but I just couldn't see them. I just didn't believe it could happen."

Others are more philosophical.

One naval officer said that while imprisoned "the realists became more willing to accept a less than faithful wife."

On the other hand, he added, many were surprised to find as many marital problems because the letters they received right up to their release gave no such indication.

"Many women had written letters just to keep the men going," he said.

And the bachelors?

Navy Lt. (j.g.) David R. Wheat, 33, returned to his parents home in Duluth, Minn. He said he's had no problems.

"In fact, after 33 years I finally got my own key to the front door."

Skylab crew kept alert by false alarms

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab astronauts have scrambled at the sound of alarm bells more than once, only to find nothing amiss.

"If the television had been on, you'd have seen us flying around here like cannonballs," commander Charles Conrad Jr. told mission control after one of the alerts.

The false alarm culprit turned out to be the South Atlantic anomaly, a well-known area of trapped radiation that can be mischievous at times.

Every time the orbiting Skylab passes across the Atlantic Ocean east of South America, it spends several minutes in this region of highly charged particles.

It is here that the Van Allen radiation belts which circle the earth dip closer to the surface.

During the first day of observations of the sun, the Skylab crew rushed to their telescopes when they heard a buzzer from the solar flare detector.

Sighting a flare—an intense storm on the sun's surface—is something the astronauts are anxious to do because of its scientific value.

But no flare was in evidence. The buzzer had been set off by the anomaly because the crew had forgotten to turn off the alarm when passing through the zone. The solar flare detector is tuned to pick up X-rays, and "there is not any convenient way to distinguish between X-rays from the sun and those present in the anomaly," said a space agency official.

The mail-order business has annual sales of some $45 billion.

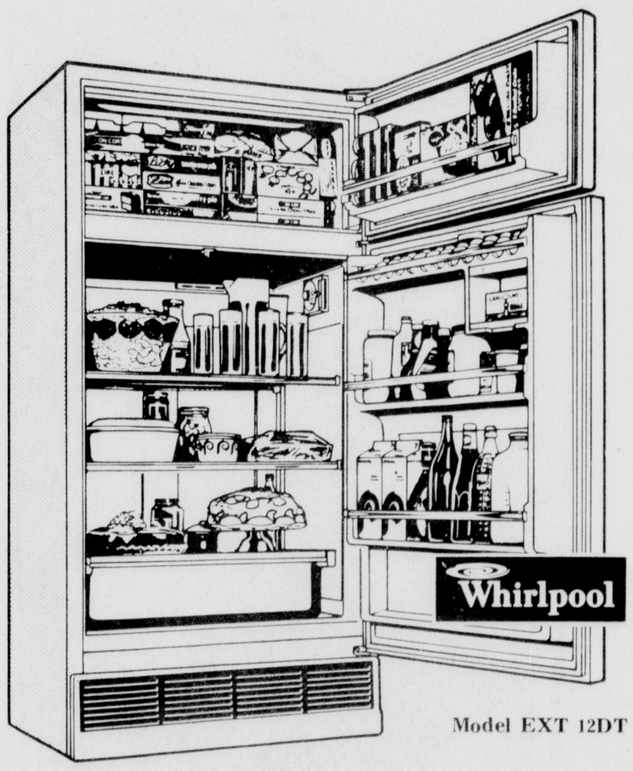

Turnpike agency fights rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Turnpike Commission Chairman James Shocknessy said Tuesday the agency will continue to resist efforts by the Texaco Oil Co. to ration gasoline at turnpike stations until the firm proves there is a fuel crisis.

The commission obtained a temporary restraining order last week forbidding Texaco to impose a limit of 10 gallons per customer at the stations. A hearing on a permanent injunction is scheduled Thursday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

Shocknessy said the public will not accept an industry-imposed "fuel crisis" unless it is backed up by an emergency order from President Nixon.

Are you acquainted with burning rules?

Ohio's open burning regulations are being stressed by city officials and the Fayette County Health Department.

The rules, adopted by the Environmental Protection Agency in August, 1972, have been kept somewhat in the dark until recently when enforcement posters began appearing throughout the state.

The enforcement is being handled by EPA's Division of Surveillance, on a round-the-clock basis.

In addition to air pollution by open burning, the Surveillance Division also is the watchdog on accidental or unauthorized release of contaminants to the land or waters of the state.

ACCORDING to EPA, open burning is the burning of any trash or other refuse outdoors, such as in a dump, pit, barrel or at curbside without benefit of any filtration or cleaning device. This means that for most Ohio citizens the open burning of trash and leaves is illegal.

Open burning is prohibited only in restricted areas where an adequate collection service is available. If collection service is not available, open burning will be allowed until such service is available, or until July 1, 1975, whichever is sooner.

A restricted area is defined as the area within the boundaries of any municipal corporation, plus a zone extending 1,000 feet beyond the boundaries of any municipality having between 1,000 and 10,000 population. For municipalities having more than 10,000 population, the restricted area extends one mile beyond the corporation limit.

THE BURNING of household rubbish such as paper, trash, garbage, oil, rubber, leaves, grass clippings and any material originating from the home or on the property is included in a restricted area.

Outside restricted areas, refuse and agricultural waste may be burned on the premises where it is generated, after it has been stacked and dried, if weather conditions allow dissipation of contaminants and as long as burning does not cause a visibility hazard near roadways, railroad tracks or air fields.

The penalties for violation of the open burning regulations range from $1 to $10,000 which may be imposed at the discretion of the court.

THE REGULATIONS do not prohibit campfires or outdoor barbecuing. The burning of construction wastes are also prohibited, but small open flames for heating tar, welding, acetylene torches and highway safety flares are allowed.

Any concerned citizen may initiate an investigation of a possible violation by contacting the EPA by calling 614-299-6336 and giving the time the violation was observed, location, material released, probably source, volume and duration, present and anticipated movement of contaminants, weather conditions, personnel on the scene, actions initiated and the person to contact on the scene.

Ohio Perspective

Tax refund under $1? Forget it!

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you received a state income tax refund for a few pennies this year, it could be your last.

The Ohio Department of Taxation wants the right to stop mailing refund checks that come to less than a $1. Likewise, the agency wants to be able to tell Ohioans to keep their income tax payments if they are lower than a $1.

Department spokesman Stan Spaulding said the amounts would be either credited to the taxpayer or the state, and be used toward next year's income tax return.

By doing this, he said, the income tax division could reduce paperwork and mailing.

"Under the present state income tax law, we're obligated to refund any amount," he said. "We had some penny refunds and these were the ones people wanted."

Spaulding said, "If we can get a bill introduced, we will do the same as the federal government. If the liability is $1 or less, the state will not have to make refunds and the citizen will not have to pay the state. The amounts would be credited to the next tax year."

He said department officials are examining the possibility of having enabling legislation offered in the Ohio Senate this session. If approved this year, it could be in force when Ohioans file their 1973 returns before April 15, 1974.

Spaulding said the power to forego the refunds of $1 or less was inadvertently left out of the income tax law when it was passed in December, 1971.

"It's one area we would like to straighten out," he said.

The spokesman said. "The biggest complaints we've received this year are that people haven't gotten their refund checks. The refunds are made within 60-90 days after filing, about the same as the federal income tax."

However, Spaulding said, some Ohioans have not received their checks, even though the refunds were mailed. He did not know the reason for the problem.

"We have to trace those returns down and ask the taxpayers to file a second return to get the refund," he said.

It has not been determined how many persons will have to file the second form.

Curious lack of curiosity noted in Watergate case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stain of Watergate has left many a man in various shades of embarrassment, shock or outrage, but few, it seems, got curious.

Time and again, witnesses have acknowledged their access to information of innermost intrigue—only to claim they didn't sneak a peek or ask any questions.

And that lack of curiosity is getting curiouser and curiouser.

The hotseat of the nationally televised Senate hearings was to be occupied today, for example, by Hugh W. Sloan, former treasurer of President Nixon's re-election campaign. Sloan has admitted paying $199,000 to convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy without ever asking what the money was for.

Then there is the case of Sally Harmony, the secretary who worked for Liddy at the campaign headquarters. According to her testimony Tuesday, she kept her nose not only out of her boss' business, but somewhat out of her own as well.

It didn't bother her, she said, that Liddy had told her some of the work was clandestine, because "clandestine does not mean illegal ... and I can keep a secret."

Yet, by her account, she didn't bother to absorb many secrets for the keeping—even though she personally typed transcriptions of phone taps and other intelligence memoranda which went out under code-named headings.

And answers like hers, while emanating from different voices, are becoming an echo. There was Robert Odle, the campaign office manager who says he took the purported "Gemstone" espionage file home for a weekend—but never opened it. There was Gerald Alch, the attorney who relayed a message to client James McCord to expect a phone call "from a friend," but never inquired as to who would make the call.

Resilient floor tiles once owed their popularity to the fact that they could be installed by anyone.

Over the years, the increasing availability of better designs, colors and textures has enabled them to win even greater acceptance.

As happens every time a product gains widespread approval, it is sold in so many different kinds and types that the public has a difficult time making proper choices.

Remember, for instance, when you walked into a hardware or paint store and had only to decide whether you wanted flat or glossy paint?

The multiplicity of paints now on the market makes the selective process a bit confusing unless you have a very definite idea of what you want, gleaned from either experience or what you have read or heard.

Here's some information on resilient floor tiles that will give you a running start in making your choice.

The big seller in the tile field is vinyl asbestos, a combination of vinyl resins and asbestos fiber. It is not as expensive as solid vinyl, yet it can be used anywhere in the house on any surface, above or below grade, resists spilled liquids and is easy to maintain.

The cheapest of the resilient tiles, asphalt, gave way in popularity to vinyl asbestos because asphalt is susceptible to grease, oil and other substances with solvent-like the most popular tile, asphalt is still widely used.

A FIRST-TIME shopper for reilient tiles is likely to be surprised by the wide range in prices for what seems to be look-alike tiling. This is especially true in the vinyl tile line, where some kinds are solid and others have only vinyl veneers.

The thickness or gauge of the tile is another factor in the price. Therefore, when you compare two kinds of vinyl tile with far different prices, you are likely to discover that the solid product with a thicker gauge costs more.

This doesn't mean that the veneered tile in a thinner gauge might not serve your purpose; it merely tells you why one is less expensive so that you can make a proper selection.

Among the other kinds of resilient floor tiles are rubber, cork and linoleum. Cork is luxurious and quiet, costs more and usually requires a clear sealer to keep dirt from being ground into it.

Rubber is excellent to walk on, but shows marks from furniture legs more than most others. I have not found it on display in several stores I have been in recently. Linoleum, like vinyl asbestos and vinyl, is easy to maintain.

DIFFERENT TYPES of tile require different types of adhesive. Always make it a point to buy the adhesive in the same store where you buy the tiles.

And always tell the dealer where the flooring will be installed, especially if it is to be on a concrete floor below grade.

If you want to do away with the cementing chores, and can afford to spend a little more, you might give some consideration to the self-stick tiles.

The paper backing is pulled off the tile, which is then pressed onto the floor.

Check plumbing before buying an old house

Before buying an older house, it is wise to check the condition of its plumbing.

Houses built 20, 30, or more years ago often have piping inadequate to handle all the new appliances that people use today. Even if piping is the right size, it may have been encrusted with deposits and scale over the years so that it now has only a fraction of its original capacity.

The American Water Works Association, a nonprofit society organized to provide better water service to the public, says the way to check water flow and pressure is to turn on all the faucets in a bathroom and flush the toilet simultaneously. The flow volume should not be reduced appreciably if the pressure is good.

Q. — Our small cellar, with a dirt floor, has recently developed a musty odor. What causes this and how can it be eliminated.

A. — It sounds like mildew, which occurs in damp areas where there is a lack of circulation and no sunlight. Keep the cellar well heated and dry for a couple of days, then sprinkle some chlorinated lime over the dirt and let it stay there a few days.

Sweep up the lime, put down some more of it and take steps to prevent a reappearance of the mildew and odor. Place an exhaust fan in one of the cellar windows.

On dry days, open a window as nearly opposite the fan as possible, then turn on the exhaust for a few hours.

Do this every time there is a dry day. You will always have to fight this problem so long as you leave the floor in its present state.

Q. — Our old roof is on its last legs and we'd like to have a new one put on. We are considering a slate roof. Can it be applied over the old asphalt shingles?

A. — Possibly, but it will take an examination by a professional roofer to determine whether the old framing is strong enough to support the weight of the slate shingles.

Practice caution when remodeling

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Making a choice between remodeling a house and buying a larger one is a prime-time decision, advises one man who says an addition he built five years ago has priced him out of the real estate market in his area.

This is the time of year, he cautions, when enthusiasms are likely to run high and one may be carried away by agreeing to house pluses. You may start out needing an extra bedroom and bath and end up tacking to the plan a built-in swimming pool, work shop, sauna, sewing room, dog kennel.

He was promoted into a photography-projection room by his son, now at college, and he must wait until a "photography nut" wants that kind of house, he says.

He is in the same position as a friend who had built dog kennels. The friend had to wait two years until he found dog people who were willing to pay the price for a house with an $8,000 kennel addition.

IN AGREEING to the projection room he is afraid he permitted himself to be influenced by the thought of making his house look more important than the look alikes in his development row.

But people attracted to his neighborhood simply cannot afford to pay $15,000 more for his house. The extra bedroom and bath would have been saleable, but how many people need a fully equipped photography room?

The remodeling vs. new house decision must be made carefully, agreed two other people who have had similar experiences. An extra bedroom and bath is the limit in many neighborhoods.

But before one decides to remodel rather than to move, family considerations may help influence the decision even though the happiness of the family must be considered in relation to the environment — friends, school, church, club groups. It may even be an out. One man welcomed the opportunity to move his family out of a drug-oriented area.

IF ONE is in a good area and wants to stay, the next step is to consider how much money can safely be put into an additional.

A fair-size extension to a house may not be as costly as one might think if one equates it with current housing prices, but even a fair-sized addition may be too much of a plus for some neighborhoods.

One man offers these suggestions in determining which course would be more worthwhile:

Decide how much space is needed, consult an architect, show his drawing to a builder for an estimate, consult the local bank to see how much the home improvement loan would cost.

Figure the painting and decorating along with all the other costs to get a useful round figure as to how much would be in your house at the end.

Banks can advise whether you are making a good investment in your area by adding a particular addition to a house (or buying or building one.)

Real estate appraisers can give you the fair market price of the house now and then.

NEXT LOOK at some houses before you make the ultimate decision to remodel or move.

The larger house in its better neighborhood should be a good investment. It may be an emotional wrench and a chore for the family to move.

But once accomplished, things soon get back to normal, especially if you have made a step up the ladder to a better house and neighborhood.

The new bigger house should make everyone happy after the initial trauma has passed.

If one is living in a neighborhood with homes in a wide range of prices, one can look at the remodeling project in a different light.

Just about anything you do in the way of improvements will increase the value of your property and be saleable.

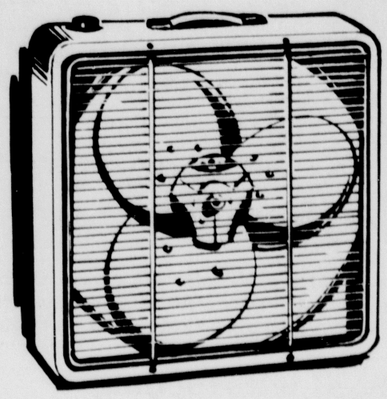

But you must make sure the addition has wide appeal.

Clevelanders worry about wiretapping

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Apparently motivated by the Watergate investigation, more and more Clevelanders reportedly have asked the telephone company to make certain their phones are not tapped.

Officially, the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. declines to confirm the report, although phone company officials concede privately that the publicity surrounding the Watergate bugging attempt has brought a sizeable increase in the number of phones checked for bugs.

Fly-rent recommendation denied by AAA executive

Contrary to published reports carried by the Associated Press, datelined from two Ohio cities — Cleveland and Willoughby, the Ohio AAA Association and the American Automobile Association is not recommending that motorists, contemplating trips this summer, fly to their destinations and then lease automobiles, according to Thomas J. Jones, executive vice president of the Ohio AAA Association.

Jones, representing the state association for 54 affiliated Ohio auto clubs and based in Columbus, said:

"While we recognize there are gasoline shortages in sections of the country and stations have closed, neither the American Automobile Association in Washington or the Ohio AAA Association has recommended that motorists fly and then rent cars."

The state association executive explained that Region 5, which includes Ohio, has 44,000 service stations of which 165 have closed and the possibility exists of another 200 closing.

HOWEVER, he added that the AAA is conducting a weekly "Fuel gauge" program in which member auto clubs throughout the country contact the service stations in their area directly and furnish the following information to AAA for a weekly forecast release:

Station, location status as far as operations are concerned (hours of operation, allocation, no fuel, closed) and outlook such as supply cutback and expected supply for the following week.

Both the AAA and the Ohio AAA Association, according to Jones, have recommended the following measures be exercised among its 15 million plus members to help conserve fuel this spring and summer and to continue with their planned auto trips:

Form car pools for office commuting.

Combine short trips. When driving children to school or picking up your spouse after work, take care of shopping errands on the same outing.

If you're considering purchasing a second car, make it smaller. Vehicle weight has a great effect on gasoline consumption.

Keep the car's engine in tune. Special attention should be given to fuel and air filters, plugs and points and, in late model cars, emission control devices.

Don't let the station attendant fill your fuel tank to the neck. Fuel can overflow while the car is in motion or when parked on an incline. Fuel also can expand and overflow in hot weather even if the car is parked on level ground.

Make certain tires are properly inflated. This also saves on tire wear. Add extra pounds of air when traveling with a full load, but do not exceed the maximum pressure listed on tire sidewalls.

DRIVE at moderate speeds whenever possible. Gasoline mileage is greatly affected by speed.

Avoid "jack rabbit" starts. Always accelerate gradually as though you had an egg between your foot and the accelerator.

When entering a freeway, take full advantage of accerleration paths so that you can gradually reach highway speeds, rather than having to "floor board" the accelerator to reach cruising speed.

Avoid accelerating hard when going up a hill; instead, build up adequate speed ahead of time that is within the speed limits.

After starting a cold engine, don't use long warm-up periods; instead, drive slowly for a mile or so before reaching cruising speed.

Don't allow the engine to idle for more than a minute while parked.

THE AUTO CLUB spokesman said motorists planning vacations this summer should combine the applicable guidelines above with these tips:

Cut down on use of the air-conditioner by beginning your travel day earlier in the morning and pulling off the road during the hottest hours.

Try to travel lighter than normally. Excess weight puts additional strain on the engine and results in less miles per gallon of gasoline.

Motorists are also reminded that in addition to reducing fuel consumption, most of the practices suggested by AAA also will help exhaust emissions as well as help conserve the nation's energy resources.

In conclusion Jones said: "AAA is not discouraging travel and is capable of handling all forms of travel. Good vacation planning will stretch your gasoline mileage."

OSU may have to share income from grid game

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Hearings will begin in "a week or two" on legislation that could require Ohio State University to share money it receives from the annual Bengals-Browns exhibition football game played at Columbus.

State Rep. Norman Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati said his bill would require OSU to share at least half its receipts from that game with Cincinnati and Cleveland colleges.

Warning issued against carrying extra gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carrying a can of extra gasoline in the car trunk may help beat the gas shortage, but it could also be fatal, says a federal fire expert.

Richard E. Bland, chairman of the President's Commission on Fire Prevention, said such a practice "would be almost like having a bomb in your trunk waiting for something to ignite it."

Bland said he understood some gasoline companies have recommended carrying the extra gasoline as a means of beating the fuel shortage.

"We categorically oppose this," he said, explaining that fumes from such a container could spread through the car and be ignited by a cigarette. He also said the can could be punctured in an accident "and people could be trapped in an inferno."

Bigger sardine pack forecast this year

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — There may be a bumper crop of sardines in New England waters this year.

The National Marine Fisheries Service says that larval herring spawned in 1971 were the most numerous in eight years and that if all continues to go well with them there should be a strong rise in the sardine pack. The five-year average is 27 million pounds, but in 1972 it was only 22 million.

The miscroscope was invented in 1590 by Zacharias Janssen, Dutch spectacle maker.

Deaths top births

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Deaths surpassed births in West Germany in 1972 for the first time since the Federal Republic was founded in 1949.

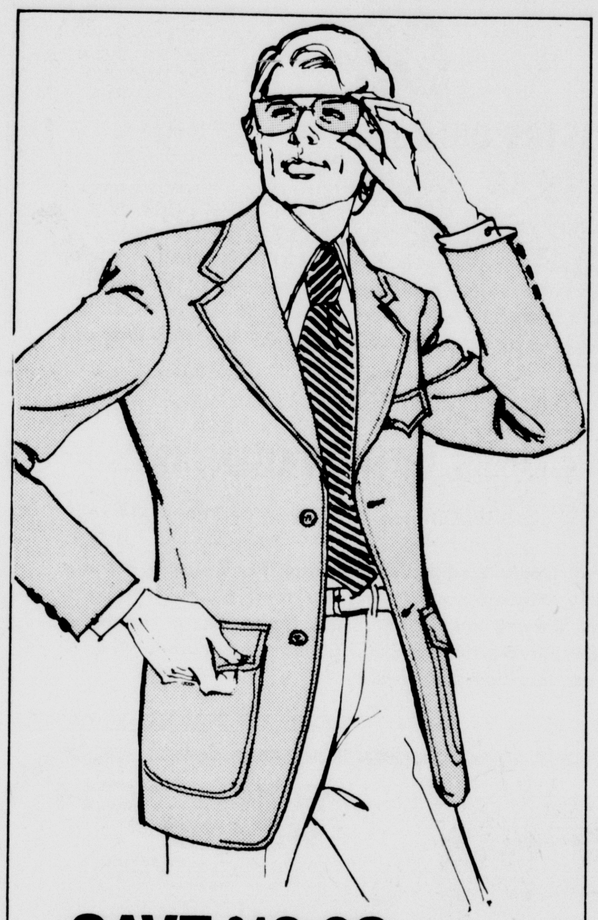

The Federal Statistics Office registered 730,000 deaths last year compared with 701,000 births.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Hold to a well-directed course. Some storm clouds are brewing, but the ingenious Arien will weather them smartly. Keep emotions under sterm control.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

A thorough reappraisal of recent activities can be the basis for highly improved future planning. Don't stymie yourself through outmoded ideas, methods. Be progressive.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

New opportunities indicated in many fields — but especially where monetary interests are concerned. A splendid time for consolidating your position in this respect.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

What is expedient may not be the best for all concerned, so be careful of the route you select. Take nothing for granted.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You can make unusual progress in many areas now. Get your mind clicking early, and in tune with present trends.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Good stellar influences favor a new approach to difficult problems, consolidation of gains made in the past. Start looking now — for improved returns.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Sidestep any activity that could hamper your forward movement. You may encounter unexpected situation now; much good, too.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

It's up to you to do all in your power to make this a satisfactory day. Splendid Mars influences encourage active-mindedness, business interests and finances.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You could be tempted now to turn from a profitable to a more confused course. Consider the whole picture. Avoid the pitfalls of heedlessness and haste.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Mixed influences, mixed possibilities. How you react to opposition and unexpected situations will tell the tale.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Don't wait too long before making up your mind in matters where the time element is important. Highly favored: Art, travel and literary interests.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You should feel optimistic now, and this fact alone will make it easier to induce others to go along with you. But be willing to listen to their ideas, too.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great inner strength and a sense of stability often lacking in many others born under Gemini. You are studious, discriminating and progressive in your viewpoint. You have all the ardor, energy and enthusiasm of your Sign without the tendency to become easily bored and "run out of steam" before completing projects you have started. You are extremely versatile and are always willing to give time, energy and other assets in the cause of worthwhile achievement. Fields in which you could excel: Literature, science, the law, aviation, architecture, all occupations involving travel, communications, dealings with large numbers of people.

Central Ohio Blue Cross names new board members

COLUMBUS — The Board of Trustees of Blue Cross of Central Ohio elected two new members at its annual meeting.

Elected to serve one year terms were James W. Shocknessy, Columbus attorney, who will serve as a provider representative, and Thomas H. Langevin, president of Capital University, who will serve as a non-provider representative.

Elected to serve as the new chairman of the board was Martin L. Hecht, vice president for university relations at Ohio University in Athens. Tom F. Lewis, a Columbus physician, was elected vice chairman of the board.

Shocknessy received his LL.B. from Harvard Law School, and has been in private law practice in Columbus since 1939. His professional and civic activities include chairmanship of the Ohio Turnpike Commission, chairmanship of the board of trustees of Mt. Carmel Hospital, member of the board of trustees of the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation, and member of the board of trustees of Wilberforce University. He holds memberships in the American Bar Association, Ohio State Bar Association, and Columbus Bar Association.

Langevin received his graduate and post-graduate degrees from the University of Nebraska. He has been active in many phases of higher education including a Carnegie Grant for post-doctoral work at the University of Michigan's Center for the Study of Higher Education, and directed a long-range planning project for higher education in all affiliated colleges and universities of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod in St. Louis. He assumed the presidency of Capital University in September, 1969.

He is a member of the board of trustees of CMACAO, member of the board of governors of the Goodwill Industries of Central Ohio, Inc., and a member of the board of directors of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

HECHT was appointed to his present position at Ohio University in March, 1972. As vice president for university relations, he maintains contact with state and federal governmental units and with the general public.

He is a graduate of Ohio University and presently serves as a trustee of the Ohio Valley Health Services Foundation and the Ohio University Fund, Inc.

Lewis is a general surgeon who practices primarily at Mt. Carmel Hospital. He is a past president of the Columbus Academy of Medicine, past member of the board of trustees of Mt. Carmel Hospital, as well as being active in many medical organizations.

Other members of the board are: Robert Abraham, Bellefontaine; William L. Coleman, an attorney in Marysville; William S. Guthrie, president of Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan, Columbus; Franklin Kropp, executive secretary, State Police & Firemen's Disability and Pension Fund, Columbus; Howard Lefevre, chairman of the board, B & L Motor Freight, Newark; John Myers, Columbus; Archer E. Reilly, judge, Franklin County Court of Appeals; and T. Kline Hamilton, Columbus;

Frank Brockmeyer, international representative, United Auto Workers, Columbus; Edward J. Cox, attorney, Edward J. Cox & Associates, Columbus; Ernest B. Graham, Jr., certified public accountant, Graham, Mitchell and Associates, Zanesville; Carl C. Heister, second vice president, Equitable Federal Savings and Loan, Lancaster; Joseph Kemple, Marion; Robert S. McKay, II, president, the Dean & Barry Company, Columbus; Dr. Edward Q. Lebanon man heads alcoholism council

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Hugh Murphy, director of Warren County's Alcoholism Project, has resigned to become interim director of the Southwestern Ohio Regional Council on Alcoholism.

The regional council covers Warren, Clermont, Brown, Butler and Hamilton counties. It acts as an advisory agency for individual county programs and dispenses federal grants.

There are a total of 129,500 miles of highways throughout Ohio, including 1,428 miles of Interstate highways. The state controls 17,889 miles of paved highways; Ohio's 88 counties maintain 29,713 miles; townships, 39,889 miles; and cities, 21,000 miles.

Grand jury probe rocks disc industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The record industry is shuddering as reports surface of payola, drugs, an organized crime connection and misuse of funds.

A federal grand jury and offices of district attorneys in Manhattan and Los Angeles are looking into the music business. One recording industry figure has fallen, and people in the field see troubled days ahead.

"The reports say all record companies are being quietly investigated. I believe that is going to happen," said Herb Helman, head of public relations for RCA Records. "At this point, I think every company should take a very low profile."

The payola scandals of the late 1950s rocked the music world with public revelation that record company promotion men used money, liquor and free vacations to convince disk jockeys to play their records. Such exposure can increase sales.

The record companies and broadcasters insist such practices have ceased. But some reports indicate they persist with a new twist: cocaine and marijuana are sometimes the inducement now.

How widespread such activities are cannot be stated. But payola on a grander scale was reported this week by sources close to a federal grand jury meeting in Newark, N.J.

Those sources said David Wynshaw, until two months ago director of artist relations for Columbia Records, told members of a federal Organized Crime Strike Force that the company budgeted $250,000 a year for payoffs to promote Columbia's stable of black pop and rock singers.

Wynshaw said part of the money went to bribe the publishers of weekly tip sheets that supposedly keep radio stations informed of the latest "hot" records and part of it went to black disk jockeys, the sources said.

4-H Roundup

4-H enrollment sets new record

JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Four-H membership reached a record level for 1973. A total of 1,244 boys and girls have enrolled in a variety of 4-H programs since July 1, 1972. The enrollment surpassed the 1,200 member goal set by the County 4-H Committee last fall. In 1972, there were 1,003 members enrolled.

The 518 boys and 726 girls are members of 81 4-H Clubs and special interest groups. They are led by 173 adult 4-H advisers and 99 Junior Leaders. There are 825 members residing in rural areas and 417 within the boundaries of Washington C.H.

The record number of members and clubs is an indication of the hardwork put forth by a large number of people, including many volunteer adults and youth.

THE 4-H SAFETY Speaking Contest is planned for Tuesday, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Extension office. The contest gives 4-H members a chance to speak up for important safety topics in the home, on the farm, on the highways, and in other public places.

Each year 12-15 contestants have become involved in the event. I am expecting around 15 contestants Tuesday. Winners in each division, Senior Girls, Senior Boys, Junior Girls and Junior Boys, will receive awards presented by Kirk Furniture, the Ohio Grain Co., and Mac Tools Senior winners will represent Fayette County in district competition.

Contestants may enter by attending the contest Tuesday evening. The speakers have a maximum of 5 minutes to make their presentation and will be scored on the basis of content, organization, delivery, vocal action and personal appearance.

NEXT WEEK, 8 Fayette County 4-H'ers will represent our members at the Ohio 4-H Club Congress at Ohio State University. Those attending include Jomi Warner, Reggie Roush, Sandy McCoy, Kim Fleming, Cindy Davis, Bill Schaefer, John Pendleton and Bret Taylor.

The program, "I'm OK- You're OK", will give the 8 an opportunity to meet 4-H members from all over Ohio, learn about career possibilities, join in a mock legislative session, enjoy the many recreational facilities at Ohio State University and share ideas with other 4-H'ers, resource people and Extension faculty.

Tuesday, June 19 has been set aside as 4-H Science Career Day at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster. Four-H members 12 years old and older along with their parents are invited.

Those attending will be able to see the latest in research and equipment, see the terrific "You Can Make A World of Difference," and learn about careers in agriculture, home economics and natural resources. For more information call the Extension office at 335-1150.

SERTOMA SCHOLARSHIP — Melanie Hargo, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lambertson of 628 Gibbs Ave., receives the second annual Washington Sertoma Club scholarship from the club president, Mike Kelley. The $500 award is presented each year to a deserving high school graduate, based on need and ability, for the college or vocational school of his or her choice. Miss Hargo will attend the Ohio State School of Cosmetology from which she has received an additional $250 scholarship.

Damage 'moderate' in eight accidents

Eight traffic accidents resulting in three citations and moderate property damage occurred in the city-county area Wednesday, according to police and sheriff's departments.

Accidents investigated were:

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 1:09 p.m. — Cars driven by Lucille F. Smallwood, 37, Rt. 5, and Larry D. Sutherland, 23, of 1255 Mark Rd., collided on the Kroger lot; damage minor.

11:30 a.m. — William M. Gilmer, 23, New Holland, was cited for failure to yield the right of way in a collision at the intersection of Rose Avenue and Pearl Street with a car driven by Donald E. Gardner, 46, of 707 N. North St.; damage moderate.

3:10 p.m. — Cars driven by Deborah A. McStowe, 18, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, and Randy D. Southworth, of 529 E. Paint St., collided on the Borden Burger lot; damage minor.

3:45 p.m. — Beverly J. Qualls, of 727 E. Paint St., was cited for changing lanes without safety after her car collided with another driven by Donald E. Wood, 56, of 409 Van Deman St., in the 300 block of E. Court Street; damage moderate.

SHERIFF

WEDNESDAY, 3:35 p.m. — Leroy H. Carmean, 46, Kenton, was charged with following too closely after his semi-rig collided with a car driven by Mary A. Thompson, 24, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, on U.S. 35 at Inskeep Road; damage heavy.

6 p.m. — Paul J. Adams Jr., 18, Rt. 2, lost control of his car on U.S. 22, just west of White Road, and hit a culvert and a mailbox owned by Harold J. Vickers, Rt. 1, New Holland; damage moderate.

6:15 p.m. — A car driven by Alan D. Bowman, 21, Cincinnati, ran off northbound I-71, a mile south of U.S. 35, and hit a road sign; damage minor.

TUESDAY, 1 a.m. — A car driven by Ernest E. Bonzo, 22, Rt. 5, was northbound on CCC Highway-E when a large buck deer ran into the path of the car. The car hit the deer, which was later found dead about a half mile from the scene of the accident.

Traffic Court

One driver was fined and four others forfeited bond in traffic cases called by Acting Judge John Bryan in Municipal Court Wednesday.

POLICE

Bond Forfeitures:

Neil T. Wolfe, 18, Rt. 2, traffic light violation, $18.

Reber J. Hamilton, 21, Rt. 5, excessive noise, $35.

SHERIFF

Fined:

Charles W. Keach, 22, Jamestown, $25 and costs, unsafe vehicle.

Bond Forfeitures:

Lloyd P. Anderson, 49, Hillsboro, stop sign violation, $18.

Glenn H. Morrow, 22, Jeffersonville, reckless operation, $60; failure to wear required corrective lenses, $25.

Health planners to meet Monday

The quarterly meeting of the Fayette County Health Planning Council will be held at 5 p.m. Monday in the board room at Memorial Hospital, according to Clifford Hughes, chairman.

Committee reports and the names of committee members are to be presented at the meeting.

Fayette Airport News

By JUDY DENNIS

I have tried to get to my flying news for the past two days. Every time I get started, a severe storm moves into the area, and I grab my son, my dog, and my purse (in that order) and head for home.

We know when Flight Service calls to warn us, as was the case yesterday when we had the tornado scare, that the weather is going to be extremely dangerous.

I have just returned to the office after another storm threat, although this time it was a false alarm.

Again, our flying has been very sporadic. Very little activity for two or three days, due to bad weather, and then when it turns nice, we are flying night and day.

Also, when it is fit, the agricultural spray planes are snowed under with anxious farmers wanting their beans and corn sprayed for weeds. Of course, they all need the work done at once, and the tired pilots can only do so many acres a day. However, they are about caught up the work contracted for so far.

Bob Bammerlin, Mount Vernon, has been flying six or seven hours a week, with Bill working on his instrument rating. Dr. Pfersick also started on his instrument course Saturday.

We applied again for our air taxi certificate, which we gave up last year for lack of charter work. I had to work very hard on the Operations Manual required by the government which pertains to all phases of air taxi work, and which we have to abide by.

It consists of 55 pages, six copies each. Our regulations in this manual are just as strict as the airlines to insure the safety of all persons and property involved.

The day we got our manual approved, Bill flew a charter trip to Waterloo, Iowa, to pick up badly needed parts for the Greenline Company.

ON THE GOOD DAYS, our trainers have been scheduled very closely, and Tom Preston, our assistant flight instructor, and Bill have really been hustling. Students flying solo were Gary Meyers, Bruce Denen, John Woodmansee, Louie Poole, Tex Guerra, Billy Pauley, Walt Gooldin, Martha "Leroy" Rockhold, Gary Welsh, Ken Mathias, Randy Martindale and Paul Junk. Leroy, Randy, Paul Junk and Walt have soloed since my last news, and we're very proud of them.

We finally got our beacon operating, which is located three miles from the airport. The beacon directs planes to our airport and assists them on landing when the weather is bad. The beacon's frequency has been picked up as far away as Kokomo, Ind. It has also been picked up on Bob Mace's telephone. Sorry about that, Bob!

Don Morrow flew Roy Smith to Akron where Roy picked up his Bonanza. Roy had become weathered in the first part of the week and had been forced to leave his plane.

We received badly needed help at our Ross County Airport when Ed Elliott passed his instructor's flight test and went to work for us. He assists Billie Smith, our other part-time flight instructor. We taught Ed to fly at our Ross County Airport, and then he enrolled in our VA school here at Fayette County where he received his commercial license, multi-engine training and flight instructor's rating. He plans to start on his instrument training next, in between working with our students.

PRIMARY STUDENTS receiving dual instruction have been Bruce Denen, Paul Junk, John Woodmansee, Joe Kingery, Chuck Starkey, Melvin Fowler, Randy Martindale, Leroy Rockhold, Marilee Carter, Tex Guerra, Louis Poole, Gary Welsh, Walt Gooldin and Deane Carter. Ron Fitzwater, Tom Romph, Billy Pauley, and Tim Vehnekamp, VA commercial students, also received dual instruction.

John Woodmansee, Mike Prickett, Bruce Denen and Ken Mathias have also flown student cross-country flights. Sometimes when the weather would be bad, they would have to quickly revise their route of flight and fly in another direction, but they managed.

Our maintenance hangar has also been busy, with maintenance being done on Don Morrow's Mooney, Wayne Ingle's and Max Our's Skyhawk, Bob Bammerlin's twin Commanche, and an annual inspection on another Skyhawk out of Columbus. We have also run two 100-hour inspection on our training planes.

Our mechanic, Blaine Kohler, is a member of the medi-copter team which patrols the Franklin County highways on weekends, and his team was presented an award by Gov. Gilligan last Monday. The team watches for highway accidents and air lifts the injured persons by helicopter to hospitals for quick treatment.

BILL FLEW to Port Columbus last week, and picked up Tim Runnels at the airlines. We taught Tim to fly, and he is now in the Air Force, based in Texas. Tim and Bill returned to Fayette County Airport where Tim caught a cab and surprised his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Runnels, of Bloomingburg.

We have been very busy, the past week, making arrangements for our Fly-In - Drive-In Breakfast, to be held June 24. We are planning some extra activities, such as "bomb-drops" and spot landing contests. If the weather is decent, we expect an even bigger and better turn-out.

In the past, some of the readers of my newspaper column have come out to talk to me, so if you get the chance - come out and join us. We are just as happy to welcome the local townspeople as well as the pilots who will be flying in.

Oh, dear! Bill just informed me we are about to get another storm, so I'll close quickly and get this in the newspaper. Over and out for now.

Theft, arson complaints investigated by officers

A burglary attempt, an apparent case of arson, and a shoplifting complaint were investigated by city police overnight.

Police said a car owned by Lucas Swift, of 219 W. Temple St., apparently was set afire purposely early Thursday. The car, parked at the rear of the Washington Hotel, was extensively damaged by the flames.

Investigating officers said someone had apparently broken out the right wing window to set the interior of the car on fire. Swift said all the doors on the car were left locked.

Burglars apparently attempted to enter the Floyd Southworth home, 1141 E. Temple St., sometime early Wednesday morning. Police said a ladder was found against the house and a screwdriver was discovered on the bathroom window sill.

Officers said there were pry marks on the window, and the front door screen had been kicked in.

Southworth said he and his wife were asleep in the house but did not hear any noises.

A teenaged Washington C. H. girl was apprehended after she allegedly shoplifted a pair of shoes from the P & Q Shoe Store, Washington Square, Wednesday afternoon. Officers said the girl was stopped by a clerk after she had walked out of the store with the shoes valued at $9.97.

She was freed after making restitution for the shoes. No charges were filed.

CLAY CARROLL

Clay Carroll misses old spot in bullpen

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Clay Carroll was doing so poorly he got the last thing he expected—a promotion. Now he misses his old job.

"It used to be I came to the game knowing I was to pitch an inning or two," said Carroll, who at 32 is the senior member of the Cincinnati Reds' pitching staff.

"Now I have to sit around and wait three days," laughed Carroll, who has come out of the bullpen to become one of baseball's most effective pitchers.

A month ago he was struggling in relief with an 18.00 earned run average and an 0-4 record. "I didn't think I was going to ever get anyone out," drawled the Alabama native.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson, beset by other pitching problems, decided to try Carroll as a starter. Instead he found a stopper.

Since his first start in five years—a strong five-inning shutout stint against Los Angeles—he has reduced his ERA to 4.00.

In the last 24 2-3 innings he has allowed two earned runs— for an amazing 0.70 ERA over his last four starts. He's won two games.

"I don't mind starting. I'm just glad I'm doing good because it's going to help us.

"We're lucky we are only five games behind," he said. "None of our big guns are clicking yet."

"But the Reds have a reputation for win streaks and we'll start getting hot with the weather. I think it's coming," said the Cincinnati relief ace who set a National League record with 37 saves last year and finished with a career-high ERA of 2.25.

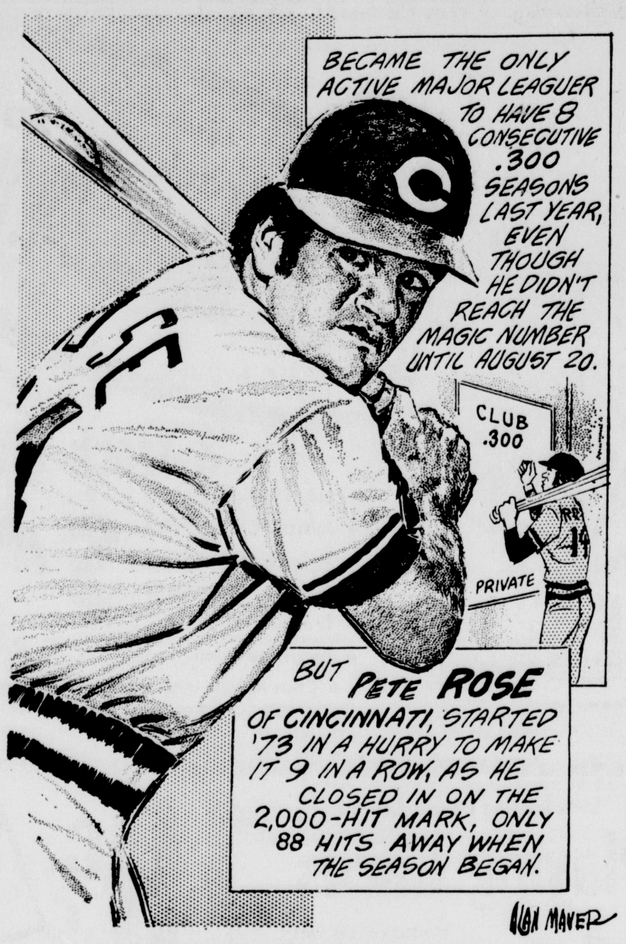

Meanwhile the Reds wait for the return to health of three ailing pitchers. Roger Nelson has had a sore elbow, Jim McGlothlin developed a sore neck and last year's winningest pitcher Gary Nolan has not pitched an inning for the defending National League champions.

Nolan, 15-5 last year, has been on the disabled list since the season started with shoulder problems.

The Reds say he's trying to slowly work his arm back into shape. There's little optimism that he will be available for much of the 1973 season.

In his absence, Jack Billingham has emerged as the team pitching leader. His 8-2 record leads the league and Anderson says the 30-year-old right-hander has acquired the confidence to become a big winner.

Wednesday golf hit third time

Action in the Wednesday Night Golf League was postponed because of rain for the third time this season.

Tony Capuana, club pro, said the Wednesday golfers will make-up yesterday's round on Monday.

The women's golf league will open its summer schedule Friday and the annual women's invitational golf tournament will be held next Wednesday at the Washington Country Club. A mixed scotch twosome will be held at WCC Sunday starting at 3 p.m.

Rain idles Post 25; other action doused

Rain and soggy playing conditions forced postponement of the season opener for the Washington C.H. Post 25 American Legion baseball team.

The Post 25 Legionnaries were scheduled to entertain always-tough Chillicothe Post 757 in a South Central Ohio League struggle at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Washington C.H., which had its regular season debut with Yellow Springs cancelled Sunday afternoon, will embark on a two-game road trip this weekend. The road trip takes Post 25 to Lebanon Saturday night and to Chillicothe Post 62 Sunday afternoon for a SCOL twinbill.

OTHER YOUTH action in the Washington C.H. area was doused by Wednesday's showers. Action postponed included two Babe Ruth League games, four Little League contests and the Fayette County Softball Association's Class A League slo-pitch openers.

Babe Ruth games washed out were Wilson Chevrolet at Jeffersonville, and Good Hope versus the Medics at Roszmann Field. In the Little League Majors, the Downtown Drug-Wilson Lumberjack and Record-Herald Flashes-Washington Savings Bank games were postponed. Rain idled the Sagars-Junior Firemen and Agrico-Helfrich contests at Armbrust Field.

Three Class A slo-pitch games were scheduled at Washington C.H.'s Eyman Park. They were Cascade Manufacturing, Springfield, and Colonial Stair; Robertson Fence and Jeff Merchants, and Bell-Dor-Lite and Robertson Fence.

In tonight's action, weather and field conditions permitting, two games are on tap in the Babe Ruth League and four in the two Little Leagues.

In Babe Ruth action tonight, Girtons is scheduled to travel to Bloomingburg, while Sabina meets Willis Insurance at Roszmann Field. In the Little League Majors at Wilson Field, Halliday's Mustangers and the Coca Cola Jets clash in the opener, while Kaufman's Levi Boys and the Rotary Wheels have the nightcap. In the Little League Minors, the Knights of Columbus meet Pennington's Loafers in the opener with Roller Haven and the Eagles playing in the second game.

Secretariat, 4 others in Belmont field

NEW YORK (AP) — Knightly Dawn and Pvt. Smiles, two newcomers to the Triple Crown wars, will join in the battle Saturday to stop Secretariat from sweeping the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

This trio and Sham, runnerup in the Derby and Preakness, My Gallant, ninth in the Derby, and Twice a Prince, 12th in the Derby, were expected to be entered today for the 105th running of the 1½-mile Belmont on Saturday at Belmont Park.

Entries were to be made today by 10 a.m., EDT.

If six go to the post at 5:38 p.m. Saturday, the 105th Belmont will be worth $151,200, with $97,720 to the winner. Each starter will carry 126 pounds for the race.

It will be televised nationally by CBS from 5-6 p.m.

Shortly before trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin announced Wednesday he planned to run Knightly Dawn as an entry with Sham, Secretariat put in his final workout for the Belmont, going a half-mile in 46 3-5 seconds and out five-eights in 59 2-5.

The big chestnut's fractions were 12 for the first eighth of a mile, 24 for a quarter, 35 for three-eighths, 46 3-5 and 59 2-5.

As usual Ron Turcotte, Secretariat's jockey, was aboard the son of Bold Ruler for the workout.

"He was well within himself," Turcotte said. "He could have gone faster if I had asked him."

50-1 shot winner at River Downs

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Heavenly Hero, carrying 112 pounds, and Copper Prize, 115, are favored today in the $2,600 featured eighth race at River Downs, over six furlongs.

A 50-1 shot, Lake Chapala, won the $4,500 featured ninth race Wednesday after Summer Frost was disqualified for interference.

He paid $104, $28.60 and $8.60. Antedate placed paying $4.20 and $3.20 and Fifty Bucks ran third for $3.40.

The crowd of 3,914 bet $376,750.

Yanks creep closer to top in AL East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now you see it, now you don't. Vic Harris didn't. Umpire Bill Deegan did and he had two words for Harris. They were, "You're out!"

Harris, the young Texas center fielder, probably had a few choice words of his own but they were surely unprintable after veteran New York shortstop Gene Michael embarrassed him with the hidden ball trick for the rally-killing third out in the fifth inning of the Yankees' 5-2 victory over the Rangers Wednesday night.

It was the Yanks' fourth consecutive victory and lifted them within one-half game of Detroit in the AL East.

The Baltimore Orioles bombed Chicago 14-4, slashing the slumping White Sox' lead in the American League West to just three percentage points over the Minnesota Twins, who swept a doubleheader from the Cleveland Indians, 7-3 in 15 innings and 13-9. Elsewhere, the California Angels downed the Detroit Tigers 7-4, the Boston Red Sox edged the Kansas City Royals' 5-4 on Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game in the 10th inning and the Oakland A's battered the Milwaukee Brewers 11-1.

Sandy Alomar keyed a pair of two-run rallies with a single in the first inning and a triple in the second while Bill Singer and Dave Sells pitched the Angels to a 7-4 victory over the Tigers and Joe Coleman. Vada Pinson homered for the Angels.

Brooks Robinson and Earl Williams each homered and combined to drive in six runs as Baltimore's revived long-ball attack powered the Orioles over the slumping White Sox. The loss was the fifth straight for the Sox.

Robinson's first homer since May 1 and a sacrifice fly accounted for four runs while Williams hit his first homer since April 22, a two-run shot. Chicago's Dick Allen took over the league lead with his 14th homer.

Jim Holt slugged two home runs and Steve Braun added one in a 16-hit attack that carried Minnesota to its second-game victory over Cleveland and a sweep of the twin bill. A double error by shortstop Frank Duffy enabled Larry Hisle to score the tie-breaking run in the 15th inning of the opener as thw Twins scored four runs.

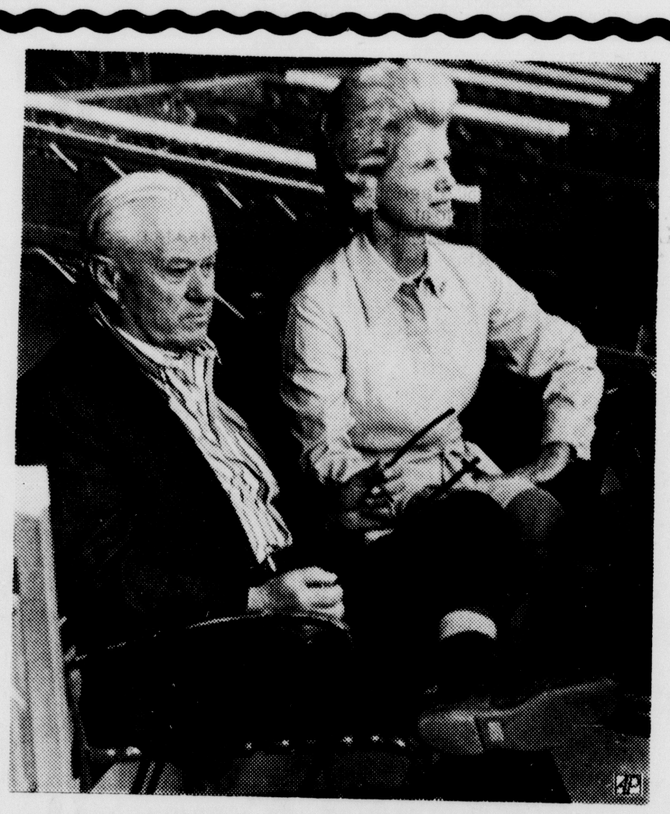

Bob Montgomery's second home run of the game—and the season—leading off the 10th inning lifted the Red Sox to a sweep of their three-game series with Kansas City. The Royals tied the score with two out in the ninth when Paul Schaal walked and designated hitter Jim Wohlford homered. Boston's designated hitter, Orlando Cepeda, also homered.

Reggie Jackson drove in five runs with one of three Oakland homers in the first inning and a double as the A's ended the Brewers' five-game winning streak.

Cincy Bengals sign top two draft picks

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals have announced the signings of their first and second round draft choices, Isaac Curtis, a 6-foot-1, 193-pound wide receiver from San Diego State, and Al Chandler, a 6-foot-2, 233-pound tight end from Oklahoma.

Terms of the two contracts were not announced.

"We like what we have seen of Isaac," said Paul Brown, Bengals' general manager and head coach. "We think he is the fastest man in football."

CURTIS, the U.S. spring champion, caught 44 passes for 832 yards and seven touchdowns last year for San Diego State. He is a 9.3 sprinter in track and uses his exceptional speed to good advantage in football.

The 22-year-old Curtis has been named to the College All-Star team and will report late to the Bengal training camp. The All-Stars meet with world champion Miami Dolphins on July 27 in Chicago.

The Bengals currently list seven wide receivers on their pre-season roster. In addition to Curtis, Cincinnati has veterans Chip Myers, who was second in the American Football Conference in receptions in 1972 with 57; Charley Joiner and Speedy Thomas, and rookies Tim George, a third-round draft choice, and Dan Kratzer and Steve Kingman, both members of the taxi squad last season.

"We're anxious to being working with Chandler in training camp," said Brown. "He's worked out here at Spinney Field several times and we like what we've seen. He has the size and the blocking ability to get the job done."

The 22-year-old Chandler was named to several All-American teams while performing for Oklahoma where he was a starter for three years. He also was All-Big Eight two years in a row.

"AL CHANDLER is one of the finest blocking tight ends I have ever seen," says Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, who was the Sooners' offensive coordinator before succeeding Chuck Fairbanks who went to the New England Patriots.

Chandler caught 14 passes for 301 yards and three touchdowns for the Sooners last season. He picked off eight passes for 223 yards and five touchdowns as a junior and nine for 172 yards in his sophomore year.

Chandler, who is from Oklahoma City, Okla, will be battling five-year starter Bob Trumpy and veteran Bruce Coslet for the tight end berth.

All-Star series set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jim Massa of Cincinnati Elder and Don Woodl of Cleveland Glenville will be on opposite coaching sides again this weekend for the Ohio High School All-Star Baseball Series.

Massa, whose Elder team beat Wood's Glenville nine 7-1 for the Class AAA state title last weekend, will serve as one of the coaches for the West All-Stars.

Wood will be one of three mentors will guide the East All-Stars in the three-game series Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Ohio State University.

Joining Massa with the West squad will be TomoRutan of Upper Arlington, Jack Johnson of Pickerington and Mel Frass of Toledo Macomber.

The other East coaches include Terry Farmer of Lancaster and Gary Zelinski of Bridgeport.

The game matching the state's top seniors is sponsored by the Columbus Jaycees.

Bonds sparks SF to seventh in row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That's quite a leadoff hitter the San Francisco Giants have—14 home runs, 60 runs scored and a .320 batting average.

You'd think that Bobby Bonds would bat third or fifth in the order with that kind of power. So does Bobby Bonds.

"I don't want to lead off, but I will if that's what everyone wants," said Bonds after pacing the Giants to a 9-7 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night.

Bonds drilled four hits, including a leadoff homer in the first inning, drove in two runs and scored four times, to lead the Giants to their seventh straight National League victory.

In the other National League games, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4; the Atlanta Braves beat the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Houston Astros nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 and the St. Louis Cardinals scored a 6-3 jecision over the San Diego Padres.

Jose Cardenal drove in three runs with a two-run homer and sacrifice fly in Chicago's victory over Los Angeles. Dodger ace Don Sutton lost to the Cubs for the 15th time in 18 career decisions.

Sutton departed after four straight singles during a four-run Chicago sixth. The winner was Burt Hooton, 6-3, who needed ninth-inning relief help from Jack Aker after giving up a homer to Willie Davis in a three-run Dodger ninth. The save was Aker's 10th of the season.

Darrell Evans and Dave Johnson each slugged two-run homers and Phil Niekro and Danny Frisella combined on a four-hitter to lead Atlanta past Montreal.

Johnson's two-run shot in the eighth snapped a 3-3 tie for the winning runs.

Bob Watson's infield single in the 10th inning gave Houston its victory over Philadelphia. Pinch-hitter Jimmy Stewart triggered the Astros' winning rally with a walk off relief pitcher Barry Lersch. After Jimmy Wynn struck out, Roger Metzger singled Stewart to third.

Jesus Alou walked to load the bases before Watson singled home Stewart with the gamewinning run.

Ted Simmons' third hit, a three-run homer, climaxed a five-run outburst in the fifth inning and red-hot St. Louis went on to beat San Diego behind Bob Gibson's five-hitter.

The Cardinals won their fifth straight game and 16th in the last 18. Gibson won his fourth game against six losses while loser Clay Kirby's record dropped to 2-6.

Five Cincy Hall of Famers brace for Old Timers game

CINCINNATI — Five members of the Cincinnati Reds' Hall of Fame will don their uniforms and put their talent, somewhat rusty, on display to highlight the Old-Timers game at Riverfront Stadium on Saturday, June 16.

The game, annually one of the top attractions on the Reds' schedule, matches the 1953 Reds against a combined National League-American League team from the 1953 All-Star game, which was held in Cincinnati at Crosley Field.

Some of the biggest names in baseball of that era will try to recapture their old skills for a few innings in a 4:15 p.m. game that precedes the regular 5:30 p.m. game between the Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates.

IT WILL be a gala weekend in Cincinnati as the Bucs, Eastern Division champs, make their first appearance here since losing the Championship Series to the Western Division champ Reds last October. The two teams open the series with a single game at 8:05 p.m. Friday and have a doubleheader slated on Sunday, June 17, beginning at 1:15. The big homestand opens Monday, June 11, when St. Louis begins a three-night visit.

The 1953 Reds finished well back in the pack, but the nucleus of that team rekindled baseball interest in Cincinnati and led to pennant fever and the first million attendance totals in the club's history.

Members of the team eventually elected to the Reds' Hall of Fame are slugger Ted Kluszewski, pitcher Joe Nuxhall, shortstop Roy McMillan and outfielders Gus Bell and Wally Post.

It will be a short trip back for Kluszewski, now the Reds' batting coach, and Nuxhall, a member of the radio broadcast team.

The top winner on the pitching staff that season was Harry Perkowski, who will be on hand here for the June reunion with his mound mates Jackie Collum, a 5-7 mite; Clyde King, later to become manager of the San Francisco Giants; Ken Raffensberger, and Frank Smith, a rubber-armed relief pitcher who worked in 50 games in 1953 and posted an 8-1 record.

Other former Reds who have accepted invitations to play in the Old-Timers game are catchers Andy Seminick and Frank Baldwin infielder Bobby Adams, and outfielder Willard Marshall, Jim Greengrass and Bob Borkowski.

Opposing the Reds will be a classy array of former major league stars including American League batting champions Harvey Kuenn, Mickey Vernon and Billy Goodman; no-hit pitchers Harvey Haddix and Allie Reynolds; Pee Wee Reese; Enos (Country) Slaughter; Johnny Mize; Del Rice; Billy Hunter and Wes Westrum.

Pro track season ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike O'Hara, founder of the International Track Association, looked ahead today to next season, while pronouncing the first pro track campaign "a resounding success."

The 1973 circuit ended Wednesday night with an ITA record long jump of 27 feet, 1 inch Y Henry Hines; a Garden record of 5.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash by Jean-Louis Ravelomanantaoa, and a popular mile victory by Kip Keino.

The major disappointment was the last-place finish of Jim Ryun in the mile. Ryun, the world outdoor record holder for the mile and 1,500-meters, winner of his nine previous ITA races and 11 of 13 over-all, was loudly cheered by the crowd when he was introduced prior to the race. When it ended, he was showered with boos.

Ryun was in second place early in the race, but quickly faded and finished a distant fourth in 4:11.9. Keino, the short, husky Kenyan ex-cop, burst into the lead with two laps remaining and won handily in 4:03.0.

The victory capped a rather disappointing season for Keino, the two-time Olympic gold medalist who had to leave the tour temporarily and return to Kenya for personal reasons.

Ryun termed the pro track venture "a gamble for everyone."

"I wanted to help get it off the ground," he said. "And I think I accomplished that. I'm really looking forward to next season."

6 Americans survive in British golf

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — Roger McManus, taking his first two-week vacation in nearly a quarter of a century, has put it to good use, moving through three rounds of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

The 32 survivors also include 25 Britons. An 18-year-old Brazilian, Jayme Gonzalez, who has been burning up Royal Porthcawl's 6,600-yard links beside the Bristol Channel, completes the list.

Another American on a winning streak is Dale Morey, 54-year-old salesman who made it to the British semifinals in 1964.

Morey played two matches Wednesday and still was on the course for only three hours.

"I think age is no bar to good golf," he said. "You really start playing the game right when you reach the fifties."

The other Americans among the last 32 are Jack Beutler, Clarkston, Wash.; Dick Siderowf, Easton, Conn.; Tom Culligan, San Mateo, Calif., and Howell Van Gerbig, Palm Beach, Fla.

Gonzalez, the teenage wonder from Brazil, shot a two-underpar 70 Wednesday morning, then came back with a 68.

He needed that 68 for a one up victory over Scotland's David Robertson.

Only three of the original eight Britons seeded as favorites for the title were left in the group of 32—Peter Moody, David Marsh and Rodney Foster.

Prince Lobell wins at Lebanon Raceway

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Prince Lobell, winning a second time in five starts at Lebanon Raceway Wednesday night grabbed the lead early and ran away with the conditioned pace mile in the featured eighth race.

The horse, owned by Levi Baker, Waynesville, paid $3.40, $2.20 and $2.20. Gay Singer placed, paying $2.60 and $2.20 and the show horse was Ashlawn for $3.

The 4-4 daily double combination of Richaldnd Nellie and Canadian K. was worth $69.20.

Attendance was 1,499 and the betting totaled $100,955.

Blalock heads LPGA field

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Janie Blalock, the center of one of sports' most bitter controversies in 1972, felt loose and unshackled today in teeing off in a field of 66 into the Ladies PGA Golf Championship.

"I feel very free and very loose, like I've been unshackled," the 27-year-old former Portsmouth, N.H., schoolteacher said Wednesday evening is disclosing her one-year LPGA suspension has ended.

"My suspension was terminated on May 31," Miss Blalock said. "Billie Jean King offered a toast to me at the time during our tournament last week at Las Vegas.

"Actually, I never was suspended as far as playing goes."

Miss Blalock was suspended by the LPGA a year ago for allegedly cheating while marking her ball for putts on greens during tournaments.

She countered the suspension with a $5 million suit against the LPGA and its officers, obtaining a court injunction permitting her to play.

Ohioan Weiskopf is talk of professional golf tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Tom Weiskopf, his temper under control, is the current rage of the Professional Golfers Association tour heading into the $150,000 Philadelphia Classic today.

The tall blond belter says his surge of a first, second and first for $87,000 in his last three starts can be traced to his father's death.

Thomas Weiskopf Sr., Tom's dad and a Bedford, Ohio, railroader, died in March.

"I did a lot of thinking after his death. I don't think I disappointed him, but I didn't do as well as I might have," said the 10-year PGA tour veteran.

"It made me more aware of what I should have been doing. I felt I ought to do something about it," Weiskopf said.

He did, winning the Colonial and the Kemper tournaments and finishing second behind fellow Ohio State product Jack Nicklaus at Atlanta.

"Let's see," Weiskopf said. "I was four under par at the Colonial, 14 under at Atlanta and 17 under at the Kemper. That's 35 under in my last three tournaments, right?"

One bad shot and Weiskopf would lose his temper in previous years. That's not the case now.

"I've got a lot more patience than I ever had," the 30-year-old Ohioan said. "If I make a bad shot, it doesn't affect me as much. I'm not forcing things.

"I'm thinking a lot better," Weiskopf continued. "I take more time thinking about my shot. I've even slowed down my walk."

PGA tourist Dave Graham gave Weiskopf a putter before the Colonial. It plays a major role, too.

"I've putted like you wouldn't believe," he said. "I've had only one three-putt in three tournaments. I probably haven't missed a half dozen putts four feet or less."

REAL ESTATE CORNER

$11,500. Yes Sir that's what we said and it's a 2 story, 1½ bath in Millwood right here in Washington C. H. How you gonna beat that!

OR MAYBE

Your taste runs to the ranch mood!! Got one in Belle-Aire on Nelson Place. Very pretty fenced in yard, central air conditioning. Really a dandy with attached garage and lots of extras! $21,500.

ALSO

Located in Staunton on 1 acre, lots of old trees, 2 story home. Needs repair but worth far more than the $7,000 it's to sell for.

AND SOMETHING DIFFERENT

If it's charm and comfort and country setting you want, how about this 19th Century 2 bedroom double walled brick. Located south of Washington C. H. on about 2 acres with a large deep lawn. Comfortable private living priced at $18,500 and we might trade!

AND ONE MORE

Located in New Holland close to school. 2 story, 6 room home with bath and utility, separate garage. Only $10,500 and that's not much in today's market.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

But It Didn't Hurt Clark Gable

Our 10-year-old boy has protruding ears, and he is becoming terribly conscious of this. He is the object of ridicule by unkind schoolmates.

We are considering having this corrected. Is the operation a dangerous one? When should it be done?

There are no plastic surgeons in our city.

Mrs. L.S., Ala.

Dear Mrs. S.:

There are now many excellent, simple, and completely safe operations for the reshaping of the ears.

Within a few days after the operation, the ears are well on their way to complete healing.

I think that you should give more than just consideration to having this operation performed. A 10-year old highly sensitive child can be psychologically scarred by the constant reference to his protruding, or "flop," ears.

Young children are not always kind to each other and some may make reference to "elephant ears" and other terms of disparagement, which is emotionally painful.

Your own doctor knows the closest plastic surgeon where such operations are easily performed. Your child will benefit greatly when this defect is remedied.

Both my father and I developed adhesions after a gall bladder operation.

Does this mean that there is a family tendency to adhesions?

Mrs. O.E., Mich.

Dear Mrs. E.:

The abdominal cavity is lined by a fine delicate tissue-thin membrane, the peritoneum.

Following an operation on the gall bladder, the intestine, the appendix, or any organ in the abdomen, the periotoneum may became irritated and inflammed. The result is that tiny bands of adhesions may form in some instances.

Modern surgery is so exact and free from harsh handling of tissues that fewer cases of post-operative adhesions occur.

Infections are more readily controlled with antibiotics and, therefore, peritoneal inflammation is reduced.

The fact that adhesions occurred to both you and your father is probably more of a coincidence than a hereditary tendency.

Is spinal anesthesia still used: Has it been discarded for other types of anesthesia?

Mr. T.O., Calif.

Dear Mr. O.:

This type of anesthesia is still used for operations below the waist.

Many surgeons prefer spinal anesthesia for operations on the bladder and the prostate, or for a hernia, for example.

A similar type of anesthesia is known as "epidural and caudal block."

Spinal anesthesia is performed by injecting novocaine or similar chemicals directly into the spinal cord. This is considered a "local" or "regional" anesthesia and is remarkably safe and effective.

JOYFUL JOLLYMAKERS 4-H

The meeting of the Joyful Jollymakers 4-H Club was opened with the 4-H Pledge, and members responded to roll call by naming favorite numbers. Dues were collected to be used for the annual trip. Old and new business was discussed. The news reporter read all of the clippings about the club taken from the Record-Herald.

Members then worked on projects, and Lori James ice cream bars. The cooking girls make snickerdoodles. Kool-aid was served with them.

The next meeting will be June 11.

BUSY MAKERS 4-H

President Shannon Evans called the meeting of the Busy Makers 4-H Club to order. Stephanie Maddux led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Shannon Evans led the 4-H Pledge.

Gwen Lee gave minutes of the last meeting, and Missy Krieger gave the treasurer's report.

Home hazards were given for roll call. The meeting was adjourned.

Errant driver faces 2 charges

Sheriff's cruiser wrecked in chase

A Fayette County man was charged with resisting arrest and fleeing from a police officer and a Sheriff's Department cruiser was wrecked in a Thursday morning chase on Ohio 38 and continued into the northern part of the city.

Sheriff's deputies said Homer E. Smith, 45, Rt. 5, also was charged after his truck was finally stopped on Campbell Street by city police. He presently is incarcerated in the county jail.

A sheriff's cruiser, driven by Auxiliary Deputy Kenneth Smith, received an estimated $500 damage to the right side when Smith pulled in front of the fleeing truck on Gregg Street in an attempt to stop it. The cruiser slid broadside on the wet pavement, spun around and hit a street sign and post at the intersection of Gregg and Delaware streets. Smith was uninjured.

Smith said he first noticed the truck when it ran a stop sign at the intersection of Main Street and Midland Avenue in Bloomingburg. The truck continued on and ran another stop sign, then turned south on Ohio 38. The officer stopped the truck just outside Bloomingburg.

Deputies Smith said he was talking with the driver when the latter put the truck in gear and drove away. Smith radioed for assistance as he pursued the vehicle into the city.

Patrolman Dennis Brown pulled in behind the cruiser on Gregg Street after the chase had wound through several back streets. Officer Smith then attempted to pull in front of the fleeing truck and wrecked the cruiser.

Smith jumped from the cruiser and ordered Homer Smith out of the truck which stopped for the stop sign at the intersection. The truck driver again drove away and was finally stopped on Campbell Street by Brown.

He was taken out of the truck and handcuffed, then removed to the county jail.

CLEANING PROJECT — Members of Jeffersonville Scout Troop 67 recently cleaned an old cemetery in Jeffersonville. The boys used lawnmowers, sickles, chain saws and a lot of "boy power" to make the cemetey presentable. Fred Doyle, Scoutmaster, said many of the grave markers have fallen over, have deteriorated or are broken.

Annexation plan OKd for Frankfort

CHILLICOTHE, — Ross County commissioners have approved the annexation of an industrial tract to the village of Frankfort.

No one opposed the proposed annexation at a public hearing. The commissioners' action sends the petition to the village council for final approval.

The tract is the site of construction of an $8.5 million truck parts plant which is scheduled to go into operation this fall. It is a plant of the Budd Co. of Detroit, Mich.

The annexation includes a 25-foot wide strip across four properties which lie between the new plant and the present village corporation line. This was necessary to make the tract contiguous to the village.

Fuel crisis meeting urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recommendation has been made to Gov. John Gilligan that he call a one-day conference this month of people in the petroleum industry to determine the severity of the gasoline shortage.

Gilligan's Cabinet Committee on Energy, in an interim report Wednesday, also suggested the governor convene a major energy conference later in the summer.

The committee is made up of the directors of the state departments of Economic and Community Development, Transportation and Natural Resources, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Public Utilities Commission.

4-H horse club queen to be crowned July 8

June 30 is the deadline for entries in the 4-H Horse Club Queen Contest to be sponsored by the Bar W. Riding Club. The queen will be crowned July 8 at the riding club's show in Good Hope.

Girls 16 years of age as of Jan. 1, 1973, who are members of Fayette County 4-H Horse clubs are eligible to compete for the honor. Contestants will be judged 60 per cent on poise, personality and appearance and 40 per cent on horsemanship ability.

Interviews will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. July 6 in the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 319 S. Fayette St.. Contestants are expected to wear Western apparel.

The horsemanship judging will take place at the show. Contestants are required to ride their own horses at the judging.

The queen will present trophies and ribbons at the Bar W. Horse Show and at the Fayette County Junior Fair Horse Show.

Entries are to be submitted to the county extension office.

Dollar climbs

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar moved up smartly in European exchanges today in expectation of early action by Washington to curb inflation and bolster President Nixon's prestige. The price of gold slumped.

Dealers described trade in both the exchanges and bullion markets as calm but active.
